TIES HIM TO TAFT.

President Aids His Son-in-Law.

Picks Longworth for Senator If Foraker Is Defeated in Ohio.

Representative Burton Is Also Groomed As Dick's Successor.

Administration Programme Reaches Far Into Future of Politics.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The latest gossip in Ohio's political situation is very interesting. The story is that the programme of the President for the annihilation of Foraker and the elevation of Taft in Ohio includes also the elimination of Senator Dick and the election of the President's son-in-law, Nicholas Longworth, to the United States Senate.

According to this story, which is going the rounds in political circles, Longworth is to have the first bite at the cherry and Burton the second. Longworth is slated to succeed Senator Foraker, if the Roosevelt-Taft programme wins out, then Burton is to wait till 1911 and succeed Senator Dick.

BURTON MUST WAIT.

Of course this is much like putting the cart before the horse in a political pull because Burton is an older man than Longworth and greatly his senior in point of political and congressional service, but it is explained by the statement of Charles P. Taft the other day that Secretary Taft would stand for both the Senate and Presidency in his tilt with Foraker. Then, if successful, he would take the Presidency and give Longworth the Senate.

If such a programme is in contemplation it could have but one meaning, Ohio politicians say, and that is to force Senator Dick into the support of Taft by threats of including him in the excommunication of Foraker by the President. It is well known that Senator Dick at present holds the balance of power between Taft and Foraker in Ohio. He is in control of the machine which Senator Hanna left in his care, and it is a power in the State.

DICK HOLDS BALANCE.

If Senator Dick could be persuaded, coaxed, or coerced into supporting the Taft movement as against Foraker, it would be a bad blow for Foraker. It is questionable whether this latest gossip will have the effect of driving Senator Dick, through fear, into the Taft camp or suffering him into a resolve to fight h own fight with Foraker and clean up the other side, as he knows he can do if he joins hands with Foraker.

The substitution of Longworth for Burton to succeed Foraker, if the programme is successful, is interpreted by Ohio politicians to mean that Taft's people intend to tie up to the Roosevelt sentiment wherever possible. It required the personal interposition of the President to save Longworth in the last campaign and of course the affiliation of Longworth with the Taft campaign would mean to the public that all the power, prestige and strength of the administration was back of the Taft movement.

ARRESTS STENOGRAPHER.

HE SOLD HARRIMAN LETTER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 4.—Frank W. Hill, a stenographer, was arrested tonight, charged with having sold to a newspaper a personal letter of E. H. Harriman. The warrant was sworn to by Alexander Millar, secretary of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, of which Harriman is president.

The letter in question was addressed by E. H. Harriman to Sidney Webster and was first published here by the World last Tuesday morning. Statements therein contained called for the reply from the President Tuesday afternoon. Hill is 37 years old and lives in Brooklyn.

Action against Hill was taken under the section of the Penal Code which defines as a misdemeanor the act of a "person who willfully and without authority takes a letter, telegram or private paper belonging to another, or a copy thereof, and publishes the whole, or any portion thereof."

Asst. Dist.-Atty. Paul Krotel has charge of the case, and it was said the answer will, it is believed, discourage the publication of letters of another prominent man which, according to reports, recently had been offered for sale.

A copy of the Harriman letter, in which the writer stated that the Chief Executive had appealed to him for funds for the campaign of 1904, made, it is alleged, from Hill's stenographic notes, and in his handwriting, was offered for sale to a Brooklyn paper and later to a New York paper, both of which declined to purchase. The New York paper subsequently turned the copy over to the District Attorney's office.

Hill was employed in Harriman's office for twenty-one years. About a year ago he was discharged because, it was said, of a friction with other employés. Recently he entered the brokerage office of De Coppel & Doremus. He has a wife and two children.

Hill was placed in a cell for the night, and will be arraigned tomorrow. When asked whether he cared to make any explanation he replied that he was too greatly perplexed to discuss the matter. Harriman, or any connected with his office, refused to comment upon the arrest.

WANTS LARGER ALPHABET.

Simplified Spelling Board Favors "Key" of Forty-two Letters to Aid Pronunciation.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The English alphabet is not large enough to suit some of those who are associated with Andrew Carnegie's method of simplified spelling. They would like to have what they call a "key alphabet" of forty-two letters to aid in pronouncing words.

The proposition was advanced today at the annual meeting of the board at the Hotel Waldorf by E. O. Valle of Chicago.

Prof. Calvin Thomas of Columbia University said he was not opposed to the introduction of some additional letters in the alphabet, but he thought it would be better first to get several hundred thousand persons to support simplified spelling. The alphabet could be distended later on.

O. C. Blackman of Chicago pleaded for a "temporary phonetic alphabet."

PORTLAND-SEATTLE LINE.

TACOMA, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Harriman line from Portland to Tacoma and Seattle will probably not be built until next year. This will bring its completion and operation nearly two years hence. By that time the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road will have its line extended 1700 miles from South Dakota to Tacoma.

The new Harriman branch will be 180 miles long, beyond Seattle, or a tenth as long as the St. Paul's new line. The Harriman branch could be built in six or seven months.

The right of way is bought to Tacoma city limits, but no bids on construction have been called, though detailed plans were completed months ago. This situation leads railroad men to the conclusion that Harriman has agreed with the St. Paul not to operate trains to Puget Sound until the St. Paul can do the same, and also get into Portland over Harriman's new branch.

ROAD GIVES RAISE.

DENVER, April 4.—As a result of a conference between the Denver and Rio Grande officials and committees representing the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, engineers will receive an increase of 7½ per cent. and improved working conditions and the firemen also will gain satisfactory concessions, effective April 1.

LOGICAL NOMINEE.

Attacks Force Race on President.

Politicians Say Attitude of Financiers Eliminates All But "T. R."

He Openly Delights That Future Fights Are to Be in Open Field.

Wise Men Assert He Can Be Candidate or Dictate His Successor.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In charging a conspiracy of financial interests with the late Senator M. A. Hanna at its head to defeat him for nomination for President in 1904, and in charging that a similar conspiracy is now on foot to defeat his legislation in the next Congress and in working for the control of the next national convention to further defeat his policies, the President has again attracted attention to himself in Washington as a possible candidate to succeed himself in the White House.

Reading between the lines of his talk with Washington correspondents yesterday afternoon, politicians are today asking if the President is not taking part in the fight to name his successor. They regard the inspired interview as a call to arms for the people to rally about the President, but they are in the dark as to its purpose and political significance.

WASHINGTON TAKES NOTICE.

That the President should link Presidential policies with Presidential politics is regarded as especially significant in Washington. To his visitors the President has said that Harriman, Rockefeller and Hearst are united to control both the Republican and Democratic national conventions to prevent his policies for supervision of corporations being carried out. He believes the same interests will try to control the next Congress. He sees in the Presidential booms of Foraker in Ohio and Knox in Pennsylvania "favorite son" projects, designed to hinder his work. Such statements, uttered or implied by the President, combined with the impressions gained by visitors at the White House in recent interviews, have set Washington agog with speculation.

DIVERTS ENEMY'S FIRE.

As illustrative of the impressions made by the President recently the experience of three figures of national repute may be cited. The first was an administration spokesman in the Senate from the Central West. Commenting on the Taft boom he said:

"This is one of the slickest political moves made in recent politics. The President and his friends have no desire to see the President shot at for fourteen months. I do not say that the President will be a candidate to succeed himself, but I do not believe Taft can win in the next convention."

Still another administration Senator from farther West told the President his political future depended entirely on a correct interpretation of the President's attitude on a third term. The President responded with the most forcible statement yet made that he would not accept.

EXPECTS RENOMINATION.

Asked his own individual impression of the interview, the Senator replied: "I believe the President will be renominated and reelected."

Word has reached Washington that this Senator is working for Roosevelt since his return home.

The third visitor was a politician of national importance, and a man who does things of great interest to the White House. After a long talk with the President, he privately expressed the opinion that the President would be heard from in the next convention, and would probably be renominated. Taken in connection with the known views of the President regarding the conspiracy against him, the growing belief here is that by a growing process of elimination as a result of the fights against his friends and himself, the President will find himself in 1908 practically the only man of his party able to face the politicians in the next convention and win. The prediction is freely made on all sides in Washington that rather than see a so-called "reactionary" win in that convention the President will be compelled to run again.

OPEN FIGHT IS NOW PROMISED.

HARRIMAN-ROOSEVELT FEUD MEANS BIG BATTLE.

President and His Enemies Aligned "for One of Prettiest Encounters in Many Years" Is Comment of One Official—One Reminiscence of Chief Executive's Past.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "From now on it will be a fight in the open between the President and his enemies. The time for beating about the bush has ended, and all the world will be able to see the prettiest scrap that has been pulled off for many years."

This was the comment today of a high administration official, who stands very close to the President. Continuing, he said:

"The President cordially welcomed the opportunity of placing Harriman in the list of his enemies. Instead of saying in his speeches, hereafter, that he despises demagogues of all kinds, he will come boldly out and declare that he hates men like Harriman.

"The very fact that Harriman's future opposition to him will have to be in the full light of day is very gratifying to the President.

"Certainly, so long as Harriman stands for what he does, he, the President, does not want his friendship. The people at large will choose be-

MRS. HARRIMAN IN SOCIAL WAR.

STARTS CAMPAIGN TO LEAD NEW YORK SOCIETY.

Rumor Is That Order for Erection of Two-Million-Dollar Mansion Is Preliminary Step in Campaign to Oust Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish from Her Present Position.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] E. H. Harriman having eliminated Stuyvesant Fish from the arena of railroad managers, Mrs. E. H. Harriman has taken the preliminary steps in a campaign that is believed to have for its object the elimination of Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish from the leadership of New York society. Work will be started in a short time upon the $2,000,000 mansion for the Harriman family at the northeast corner of Fifty-second street and Fifth avenue.

Mrs. Harriman has always had entree into the inner circles of the best society of Gotham, but she has never figured as a social leader. She has two charming daughters who have reached the age when their position entitles them to a life of social activity.

In the past two or three years Mrs. Harriman has become quite prominent in a set that threatens a social leadership of Mrs. Fish and the younger Vanderbilts.

The activity of the Harrimans in social matters gives color to the rumor that has been in circulation for a year or more that it was a social warfare between Mrs. Fish and Mrs. Harriman that led to the downfall of Stuyvesant Fish.

It has been persistently reported that in payment for an affront offered by Mrs. Fish, Mrs. Harriman enlisted the aid of her husband in the warfare in the Fish social and business standing, the first result of which was the deposition of Fish from the presidency of the Illinois Central Railroad.

RUSHED IN FOR LIFE.

Stackpole Bound for Penitentiary.

Murderer and Jail-breaker Is Spirited Away in Double Irons.

Court Revokes Stay Here and a Strong Guard Takes Felon.

Put on Train Last Night, Is Due in San Quentin This Evening.

ERNEST G. STACKPOLE, murderer of Joel Scheck, was secretly removed from the County Jail last night, and in irons and under guard of two heavily-armed officers, was started for San Quentin penitentiary to begin serving a life sentence.

Threats of outside attempts to liberate the prisoner at any cost which reached the ears of the officers yesterday morning are said to have induced immediate removal. While ordinarily no attention might be paid to such rumor, Stackpole's former associations are known to be so vicious that it was thought best to get the man out of the way.

After the desperate attempt by Stackpole and two other felons to murder their jailors and escape early yesterday morning, it was decided to show the murderer no more favors, and to take no chances with him. Judge James, who tried the case, and who had entered an order which acted as a temporary stay of execution, permitting the murderer to remain in the County Jail pending the determination of the appeal to the higher courts, took action immediately when he learned that Stackpole had led the attempt to escape from jail. Judge James asked for full particulars of the murderous assault [illegible] were given him, [illegible] The court upon his [illegible] the order granting a [illegible] and ordered the commitment issued directing that the prisoner be at once taken to the penitentiary.

When, upon his conviction, Stackpole's attorneys applied for a certificate of probable cause upon which to base their appeal in his case, Judge James refused it, stating that unless one of the higher courts ordered it, he would not issue such certificate. Pending the efforts of the attorneys to secure such order, Judge James consented to give them the benefit of a temporary stay of execution, revokable at any time. It was this temporary order which the court vacated yesterday.

Stackpole was not informed of the intention of Sheriff Hammel to send him north last night. All day yesterday he was in irons in the strongest cell in the County Jail. He whined like a cur when questioned about his part in the attempted jail delivery, and declared that he and his companions had no intention of injuring the officers. The fact that they were all armed with iron bars disproves his statement.

MURDERER BREAKS DOWN.

Shortly after dark last night, Stackpole was taken into the County Jail office and thoroughly searched. It was not until the officers began fastening the handcuffs to his wrists that he realized his fate. Then he virtually broke down. "Your're not going to take me away, are you?" he almost sobbed, and when told bluntly that today he would be safe behind the walls of San Quentin penitentiary, he wept.

Deputy Sheriffs Matthewson and Henderson were detailed to take the felon North. They were ordered to take no chances, to show him no particular favor, and explicit instructions were given them to kill Stackpole if he attempted to escape. Doubly ironed, and guarded by the two officers Stackpole left the County Jail about 7 o'clock last night and was taken to the Arcade Station, where the party took train. They are due at San Quentin this evening.

James G. Fleenor and Frank Borne, the two ex-convicts who assisted Stackpole to escape, and who tried to murder their jailers, were not seriously wounded by the bullet from Deputy Sheriff Norrell's revolver. Both were hit by the same bullet. It struck Fleenor a glancing blow on the head, and was deflected to Borne's hand. Had Fleenor's head been half an inch nearer the officer when the shot was fired, the bullet would have killed him. The officials at the jail make no secret of their regret that the desperate negro escaped.

HOW THEY PLOTTED.

Confined in separate cells yesterday in a part of the jail where they could be closely watched, Fleenor and Borne told how they plotted to escape. After Fleenor had released Borne and Stackpole from their cells, the three men began cutting away the wall around one of the windows. With only small pieces of iron to work with, they had succeeded in removing portions of the masonry, had secured the heavy sash-weights of the window, and within twenty minutes would have had a hole in the wall through which they could have escaped. They had not counted upon two officers making the rounds, and had there been but one, they would have knocked him in the head, taken his keys, and then gone out through

TETER TACKLES GIRLS' TIGHTS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DES MOINES (Iowa) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] If a bill introduced in the Iowa Legislature this afternoon by Representative L. D. Teter of Marion county becomes a law, the charm of the shapely ballet will be a thing of the past, and the bald-headed row at the theater will become but a memory.

The Teter bill provides that no chorus girl or other women taking part in a public entertainment shall be permitted to appear unless wearing skirts reaching at least twelve inches below the knees. Violations of the act are punishable as a misdemeanor.

The bill also would prevent the employment on the stage of children less than 12 years old.

VACATE COURT FOR PASSOVER.

Ruef's Prosecutors Give Him Brief Respite.

Dethroned Boss Is Now a Pathetic Figure.

Judge Dunne as Viewed by Angeleno.

BY HARRY C. CARR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ruef went back to his cell tonight for three days' cessation of hostilities. His courtroom is needed until Monday for the Jewish ceremonies of the Passover.

Practically nothing has been accomplished. All of the five jurors in the box are likely to be removed by peremptory challenge. The panel is exhausted except for two names. It may be weeks before the taking of testimony begins, and it is certain to be at least ten days.

The attorneys for each side go into the family life and all the business associations of each juror, the questioning sometimes continuing for hours. After court adjourns, Heney's men scurry around and find out the rest.

Ruef looks a little less anxious than at first, but everyone has remarked how old and bald and gray he has grown since his indictment.

The eagerness with which he bows to any one who catches his eye in court—whether he knows them or not—seems pathetic. A quick-witted youngster who was his office boy is his constant companion in court, sitting near him, behind the attorneys. A fringe of very tough-looking low-brows are usually lingering around the vicinity.

One by one the men whom Ruef "made" politically are hurrying to desert him. In police circles it is believed that Sheriff O'Neil and Chief of Police Dinan are both trying to dump Abe, and to come in under the shelter wing of Heney—for they find a place through the feathers.

Their anxiety to have the papers spread the fact that they are posting Detweiler, as a fugitive from justice was fairly tremulous.

Ruef's attorney, Henry Ach, got his daily dose from Judge Dunne today, being threatened for contempt. Ach said he imagined that "so-and-so was the case."

"Yes, I suppose even you could imagine that," remarked Judge Dunne, drily.

"Note an exception to the accent on that 'you,'" said Ach, stiffly, to the stenographer.

Ach skates as closely to contempt as an ingenious lawyer could in continually asking the jurors what they would do if the judge seemed to be prejudiced against the defense and continually ruled against them.

Judge Dunne's stinging raps are all the more remarkable because of his personality.

Who would ever picture the judge with courage to set aside the Sheriff of the county, throw out the Coroner after him, send Shortridge to jail, and tear things loose generally, to be a young man with an air of almost pathetic diffidence? Who would imagine that his Roosevelt-like "anathemas" have all been hurled out in a soft and almost plaintive voice?

FIVE MEN NOW IN JURY BOX.

RUEF TALESMEN ARE EXAMINED SLOWLY.

And Ach Gets a Straight Call-down from Judge Dunne—Is Threatened With Jail Sentence—Four Panelmen Interrogated—Two Are Excused. Were Not Taxpayers.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—With five prospective jurors in the box, all of them passed without challenge for cause, but all of them subject to peremptory challenge by the defense or the prosecution, when their number has been increased by selection to twelve, the trial of Abraham Ruef for extortion was adjourned at the close of its fourth day until Monday morning.

Friday being the Jewish feast of the Passover, and Saturday being the Jewish Sabbath, the Superior Courts can hold no further sessions in Temple Sherith Israel this week.

During the interrogation of a juror at the morning session, Henry Ach of counsel for Ruef was threatened by Judge Dunne with a jail sentence for contempt. Special Prosecutor Johnson had aroused Ach's ire by endeavoring to straighten out a misunderstood question put by the latter.

Ach demanded that Johnson desist from "butting in." The court interposed, observing that unless Ruef's attorney cease his "insulting remarks," and "change his attitude" in the courtroom, he would be sent to jail.

Four talesmen were examined during the day. Abraham Hockwald, a manufacturer of disinfectants; Ellsworth E. Johnson, wholesale and retail grocer, and Douglas S. Watson, a real estate man, were passed to the box.

Maurice Levy, clerk, was excused on challenge by the prosecution for the cause that his name did not appear on last year's assessment roll. Jurors J. R. Bradstreet and Julius Meyer, tentatively accepted yesterday, were today challenged and excused for the same cause. Deputy Sheriff George Dillon claimed exemption on the grounds of his employment and absence of his name from the assessment roll. He was excused without examination.

HOCKWALD EXAMINED.

Abraham Hockwald, a manufacturer of disinfectants, was placed upon examination as a talesman when the trial was resumed this morning.

Hockwald was questioned by the prosecution regarding the fact that a bid by him to supply the city with a quantity of disinfectants had been rejected by the Board of Supervisors. He stated that he had failed to obtain the contract, for his bid was not the lowest. He denied any prejudice against any municipal official or against Ruef. He had done business with all the present owners of French restaurants before the fire.

Hockwald was asked by Attorney Ach: "Would the fact that an attorney took the unpopular side of a case, from the newspaper standpoint, prejudice you against him?"

He said it would not. After another question the juror said:

"I would presume Ruef innocent throughout the trial and until after the jury had been charged and until I was thoroughly satisfied in my own mind of his guilt—but I would much rather not serve in the case."

"Precisely," said Ach, "and no doubt, as Mr. Johnson has said, there are many others who feel the same way."

Asked whether if his vote would be for acquittal, and if the other eleven jurors should vote for conviction, he would allow the consideration of quick release from duty to persuade him to change his vote, Hockwald replied:

"Well, I would try to get the other eleven to agree with my view, so we would get out of there as soon as we could."

The talesman had previously testified that his family was composed of a wife and seven children.

"And now, Mr. Johnson," said Hockwald, when the examination had been concluded, "if you will excuse me, I will be very much obliged."

"I have not the right to excuse you," said Johnson, smiling faintly. That rests with the court."

PASSES WITHOUT CHALLENGE.

Hockwald was passed without challenge by either side. Maurice Levy, the tenth talesman to be called for examination, was at once excused upon his statement that he had never been on the assessment roll. Ellsworth E. Johnson, a wholesale and retail grocer, was the next examined.

During the examination of the defense, Talesman Johnson was asked: "Would you be willing to be tried on a specific charge by twelve men, all of whom were in your present state of mind, as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant?"

"Yes, I would" the talesman answered.

Replying to another question, he said:

"I have at this time, and for some time past, held the opinion that Ruef has been generally guilty of grafting this community. That opinion would remain in my mind during his trial, and it would take some evidence to remove it, but as to this specific charge of extortion I know no facts, have formed no opinion and hold no bias. I have an honest opinion that Ruef has been a grafter, but I don't feel that I am biased or prejudiced against him. Certainly not in this case. I believe every man is entitled to fair play, and do not believe a biased person can give fair play."

Throughout the morning session, tilts between Attorney Ach and Attorney Johnson were frequent. The climax came shortly after the noon hour. Talesman Johnson misunderstood a question put by Ach, and Attorney Johnson attempted to straighten him.

"Don't butt into my conduct of the examination of this juror," then cried Ruef's attorney, angrily.

Attorney Johnson flushed and arose to protest, when Judge Dunne interposed very quietly:

ACH CALLED DOWN.

"Now, Mr. Ach, I have listened in silence to a good many of your insulting remarks. It ought to be apparent to the dullest mind that the court intends to do its duty. It might be well for you to change your attitude, and to understand that if your conduct renders it necessary I will send you to jail."

"To the remark of the court we take an exception," replied Ach. "We also accept the threat."

The defense was permitted to ask Talesman Johnson if he belonged to the Citizens' Alliance. He replied that his firm was a member of that organization. Ach was not allowed to interrogate the talesman any further along that line.

Talesman Johnson was challenged for cause by the defense. The prosecution denied the challenge and it was not allowed. Johnson, the talesman, then asked permission to address the court. He requested to be excused from jury service on the ground that it would interfere with arrangements made to visit his aged parents in the East. The defense offered to consent. The prosecution refused, and Judge Dunne refused the request.

Special Prosecutor Johnson said that he would show, that neither Talesman Bradstreet nor Meyer was on the last year's assessment roll, and that, therefore, they are disqualified to serve as jurors.

An adjournment was then taken until 2 o'clock p.m.

TWO JURORS DROPPED.

When the trial was resumed in the afternoon, Jurors J. R. Bradstreet and Julius Meyer were challenged for cause. Proof of the absence of the names from last year's assessment roll having been introduced, the defense resisted the challenges but they were allowed and Bradstreet and Meyer were set aside.

This left four jurors remaining in the box, subject to peremptory challenges by either side. As the result of the further questioning of Juror Johnson he was challenged for cause of the defense. The prosecution resisted, and the challenge was not allowed.

At this point the panel of twelve being exhausted, the prosecution desired that the right of peremptory challenge be exercised in accordance with the universal practice in the courts of this State.

The defense desired to reserve the exercise of that right until the jury box should be filled. To this the court consented, and the following talesmen were called to fill the panel: Douglas S. Watson, Frederick H. Coon, James Otis, Simon Zarnbanger, Theodore T. J. Kast, George Dillon, Max Ganz and Theodore Cohn. Dillon was excused.

DETWEILER IS SUED.

MORE TROUBLE FOR TOLEDOAN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOLEDO (O.) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A. K. Detweiler, capitalist and telephone magnate of this city, who is just now much sought by the San Francisco authorities for alleged bribery in that city, has a little trouble in his own dooryard in the way of a $20,000 suit today.

D. J. Kable is the plaintiff in the action, and sues to collect money for services performed in the securing of a foothold for Detweiler in the telephone business of California.

Kable alleges that he secured "inside information" regarding the promoters of the Independent Telephone Company of Los Angeles, and also secured a controlling interest in the construction company building the plant for the new telephone company. He claims that he has never received one penny for his work and now wants $20,000.

The services were performed between October 15, 1901, and June 1, 1902, and Kable declares he has good reasons to believe that through his instrumentality Detweiler cleaned up close to $500,000. Kable was acquainted with the "men on the inside" and this was the reason that Detweiler secured him to open up the way. Kable is the senior member of one of the leading law firms of Lima, and is well known here.

GLASS GETS A RESPITE.

CASE CONTINUED TO THURSDAY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—Louis Glass, vice-president of the Pacific States Telephone Company, indicted for bribery, was given another respite of a week in Judge Lawlor's court this morning, when he was brought up to give his plea in answer to the charge.

This was because the testimony taken before the grand jury, which resulted in his indictment, has not yet been transcribed and Glass's attorneys claim the right to peruse this testimony before offering their plea to the indictment.

Charles W. Cobb, representing the District Attorney's office, stated in court that the stenographer had been so busy that the notes of the testimony were not yet written out and that it would take fully a week to do this, and suggested that if the defense insited upon having the testimony, as was done last Thursday, when the case was called, a further continuance would be necessary.

The attorneys for Glass accepted the suggestion, and Judge Lawlor accordingly put the case on the calendar for next Thursday.

The case against Detweiler was similarly continued, Sheriff O'Neil informing the court that he had been unable to serve the bench warrants issued for his arrest.

FRICK TESTIFIES.

RESULTS NOT GIVEN OUT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Robert Frick, formerly of Los Angeles, but now of the law firm of Gerstle, Thomas, Frick & Beebe, of this city, testified before the grand jury today. No one but Heney knows what was gotten out of him. Frick is a brother-in-law of A. B. Cass of Los Angeles, they having married sisters. His mother was once assistant principal of the Los Angeles High School.

SAYS HE WILL SURRENDER.

DETWEILER NOT IN OHIO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOLEDO (O.) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "When the grand jury at San Francisco adjourns and all of its indictments are reported, A. K. Detweiler will give himself up. He will not until he knows absolutely every indictment that will be brought against him. He doesn't intend to evade arrest and has no fear that bond will not be furnished."

This statement was made to a representative of The Times by a relative of A. K. Detweiler, who has been in communication with him since the indictments were returned at San Francisco.

That Detweiler is not in this part of the country is emphatically alleged by this relative, who, for obvious reasons, will not allow his name to be used at this time.

"Abe is at least 1000 miles away from Toledo," he said. "There is no use looking for him near the city. He is not alone. He is traveling with a companion and at the proper time will give himself up to the authorities. I have been in communication with him lately, and he has told me that he has done nothing for which he can be held liable. He declares he is not guilty of doing any wrong and will be able to show that at his trial. His dealings were entirely with Attorney Ruef. Any money that was paid, was paid for attorney fees. What Ruef did with the money later was no concern of Detweiler's."

The fact that this relative had been in communication with Detweiler since his disappearance from the city was substantiated by others who were aware of the nature of the communications.

DETWEILER'S DESCRIPTION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—The description of A. K. Detweiler, the Toledo, O., capitalist, who is wanted in this city to answer charges of bribery, as sent out by Sheriff Neill and the Chief of Police, is as follows:

"A. K. Detweiler, also known as A. K. Detwiler, supposed to be a German; age about 60 years; height, about 5 feet 7 inches; is or has been connected with the Detweiler Company of Toledo, O., the Home Telephone Company and other large business enterprises."

The circular adds that Detweiler is wanted on thirteen indictments, and that the bail in each case is from $6000 to $10,000, with the request to at once notify the Chief of Police of San Francisco at his expense, and hold the prisoner to await the arrival of an officer with the proper papers.

MEMORIAL DAY PROCLAMATION.

DAY FOR GARLANDING OF GRAVES IS SET.

Commander-in-Chief Robert E. Brown, Issues Order Charging Department Heads With Duty of Patriotic School Instruction Where Co-operation Can Be Secured.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ZANESVILLE (O.) April 4.—Commander-in-Chief Robert B. Brown of the Grand Army of the Republic, today issued his Memorial Day proclamation, of which the following is a summary:

"On Thursday, May 30, will occur the annual ceremony of garlanding the graves of the dead, and the Commissioner-in-Chief calls upon the posts to see to it that the last resting place of each Union soldier, sailor or marine, in their respective localities, is fittingly decorated.

"Wherever it may be practicable public exercises commemorative of the heroism of the dead and their unmatched services in the defense of the government and the flag should be held at some central point.

"Department commanders are charged with the duty of patriotic instruction in the public schools in so far as the cooperation of the school authorities can be secured. Let Friday, May 24, or the last day preceding Memorial Day, be set aside for this laudable purpose.

"In accordance with a time-honored custom, each post will attend divine service in a body on Sunday, May 26, to render praise and thanksgiving unto the God of Nations for the manifold blessings of the past, and the undisturbed enjoyment of the fruits of an enduring peace won by the Union arms."

Among the Professions.

Doctors, dentists, nurses and persons engaged in other professions will find a 2 or 3-line card printed in The Times regularly of great advantage. "Hurry" calls will be a sure result, and the cost of a standing announcement is trifling compared with the returns.

ARTISTS will be especially interested in the story of the discovery of a long-missing Rubens picture, which will be published in The Times Magazine the coming Sunday, with a half-tone reproduction of the picture.

ANOTHER CARRIE NATION.

Aroused from the easy chair where she was reading a newspaper by her husband, who returned to his home in an intoxicated condition, after having spent his weekly salary buying liquor in the saloon of Andrew Nonnenson, No. 9701 Commercial avenue, Mrs. Carrie St. Clair, No. 9557 Commercial avenue, armed with an ax, began a Chicago crusade of her own against the liquor traffic.

In an attack upon Nonnenson's saloon she demolished two plate-glass windows, smashed a door, chopped a bar, demolished hundreds of glasses, scratched the face and hands of a bystander who attempted to wrench the ax from her hands, made her escape and was arrested by an officer, who found her comfortably seated in the easy chair at her home, again engrossed in her newspaper.

Mrs. St. Clair was born in Kansas, the native State of Mrs. Carrie Nation.

SPOONER FOR COUNSEL.

Former United States Senator Spooner of Wisconsin has been retained as special counsel in the tax cases by the large public service corporations of Chicago.

INJUNCTION ARGUMENTS.

Arguments will be begun at Washington before the Supreme Court Monday on the injunction issued by Judge Grosscup restraining the State Board of Equalization from assessing the street railway company of the city on a basis of $12,000,000. The injunction issued from the Federal Court, if it be made permanent, will mean that the public service corporations of the city will save approximately $225,000,000.

BURGLAR VERY ILL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEORIA (Ill.) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Eddie Tate, the "gentleman" burglar of Chicago, who is being held in Peoria for the blowing up of the school board safe and theft of the papers, incriminating former Superintendent of Schools N. C. Daugherty, is seriously ill at St. Francis Hospital.

Fearing he may grow worse and be unable to unravel the mystery, the police and State officials have induced him to make a partial confession which is said to incriminate influential persons in the theft of the papers. It is expected that he will tell all tomorrow.

SLAYS SELF ON STREET.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ELKHART (Ind.) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles Calkins shot and killed himself today in the street in front of the house in which Lottie Adams, his sweetheart, was employed. The only paper in his possession was a clipping giving an account of the suicide of "Chick" Stahl, captain of the Boston American League baseball team at West Baden, Ind.

"KING" FOUND GUILTY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DANVILLE (Ill.) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Frank C. Lory, once styled "Klondike King," was found guilty today on a charge of working a confidence game. Lory appeared in Danville in 1899 with half a peck of gold nuggets and organized a company capitalized at $250,000. He sold $140,000 worth of stock to local capitalists, on which nothing has been realized.

HOLDS TRAITOR FOR EXPULSION.

ORDER COMES TO DEPORT MAN WHO HISSES FLAG.

He Is Arrested in Alameda and Board of Special Inquiry Will Determine Whether He Shall Be Returned to New Zealand, Whence He Came Hither.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—Paul Christiansen Paulsen, a recent arrival from New Zealand, who at a labor meeting about two weeks ago hissed the American flag and declared that the red flag was good enough for him, may be deported for his utterances. Paulsen was arrested in Alameda today by E. J. Griffiths of the local immigration bureau, upon orders from Secretary Straus of the Department of Commerce and Labor who instructed the Immigration Bureau to have him examined by a board of special inquiry, with a view of deporting him if he is found to be an undesirable immigrant.

Paulsen is a cement worker.

LAW ACTS QUICKLY.

CINCINNATI (O.) April 4.—Bartholomew Cavagna, former teller in the First National Bank, was today indicted for the embezzlement of $20,000, immediately arraigned, pleaded guilty and was given a six-years sentence in the penitentiary. Only three minutes was taken from the reporting of the indictment to the final sentence.

FRANK G. CARPENTER'S letter in The Times Magazine the coming Sunday will contain a very entertaining account of his interview with the ex-Queen of Madagascar.

DAY TALKS TO YOUNG WOMEN.

Los Angeles Minister Points Out Beauty of Life.

Missionary Tells of Work in Foreign Lands.

Y. W. C. A. Visit Big Trees at Santa Cruz.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CAPITOLA, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The student conference of the Young Women's Christian Association, in session here, spent a most interesting day learning of the advancement of their work in foreign fields. Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston contributing largely to the missionary intelligence of their conference, as he has just returned from two years spent in foreign fields, where he visited all the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations throughout the world.

The conference is greatly appreciating the inspiration which it is gaining from having with them Rev. William Horace Day of Los Angeles, who led a vesper service today, taking for his subject "The Divinity of Christ." His Bible treasures are a presentation of "Mark's Mosaics of the Master," which are, in part, as follows:

"The man who, through his friendship with the early Christians and his missionary work as assistant to Paul and Barnabas, was especially fitted to give us so marvelous a series of Christo-Centric pictures. Mark's gospel gives us, in careful reproduction, the work and teachings of Peter. On his series of Mosaics, Mark portrays the Master ministering to the physical, social and spiritual needs of the people. There was never any question of His power to heal the sick, but His exercise of spiritual power, His remission of sin. These stirred the Pharisees to hatred and malediction.

"Jesus sought to withdraw himself from the multitude, realizing that his work of physical service would absorb the strength he so longed to use in spiritual ministration. So, although the proclamation of the kingdom was given first to the multitude extensively, Christ withdrew his disciples from Galilee, that, through intensive method, he might develop in them the faith which they needed in their coming battle with the world."

Miss Donaldson Cameron, superintendent of the Occidental Home for Chinese Girls, in San Farncisco, thrilled her listeners as she told of the wonderful work done by that [illegible]rd in rescuing and saving the Chinese girls who, unknowingly, had been bought and brought into that city to a life of sorrow.

Notwithstanding the gray menace of the morning skies, the girls were astir early today in anticipation of the visit to the big trees.

Shortly before noon the girls clambered excitedly into the inter-urban car to Santa Cruz, there ready. The enthusiasm grew in volume as they passed past big trees, and bigger trees of the enchanted woodland. The climax came when they reached the giants.

Gen. Sherman, Gen. Grant and the Cathedral were viewed through the open sesame of a 25-cent piece. Then the bowdery mist the girls started down the track to Felton. Nor were they daunted when the mist freshened to a stout shower, but pushed merrily on to Mount Hermon, where they caught the train for Capitola, just as it began to rain in real earnest.

BELIEVED LOST IN SNOW.

TWO MEN YET MISSING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FRESNO, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] For several days no word has been heard from William Morten and Barney Ruhl, two lumbermen of Camp Badger, in the Sierras, and it is supposed they have been lost in the deep snow in the mountains, which covers the country seven feet deep. A rescuing party is making a careful search. There is great anxiety felt for the lives of the men.

Camp Black is about fifteen miles east of Camp Badger, and the two men left Monday for the latter place to secure provisions. In a driving gale and snow they set out for the return trip and nothing has been seen of them since.

Another party going to Camp Badger report that no traces of the missing men were found along the road. Some thought that they continued their journey to Auckland, but news from there does not tell of their arrival.

WILL SUE ESPEE.

SEEK TO RECOVER LANDS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

RENO (Nev.) April 4.—The Department of the Interior is to sue the Southern Pacific at once to cancel all patents issued to the railroad in the White Horse district, on the claim that the land was agricultural. It is now alleged that the land for which the railroad received patents was mineral. The White Horse district has developed into a great producing district, and the action will affect lands worth millions for mining, but worthless for anything else.

The announcement was made this afternoon by Land Agent Cohn at Carson City at the conclusion of the hearing of the protest of Aaron Ingalls against the Southern Pacific Company in which a similar question was involved.

SWITCHES TWO CORPSES.

FUNERALS ARE POSTPONED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hearses at the Reid Undertaking Parlors, ready to convey the remains to their last resting place in towns in the surrounding country over the demise of two well-known young men and nearly the entire population of both places was in readiness to escort the bodies to the cemeteries, was the situation in Monday morning. Arrangements were changed when the corpses were removed from the train, and it was decided that the Tacoma undertaker had made a mistake and switched the bodies, sending the one intended for Montesano to Chehalis, and the one for whom Chehalis was mourning had been dispatched to Montesano. The towns are thirty miles apart. In Montesano the mourners had assembled awaiting arrival of the body of M. G. Wade, who died of chronic heart disease at the asylum for the insane at Stellacoom. The mourners at Chehalis were expecting the remains of W. W. Minto, who had died at Stellacoom of insanity.

Mark's gospel gives us, in careful reproduction, the work and teachings of Peter. On this series of Mosaics, Mark portrays the Master ministering to the physical, social and spiritual needs of the people. There was never any question of his power to heal the sick, but His exercise of spiritual power, His remission of sin. These stirred the Pharisees to hatred and malediction.

"Jesus sought to withdraw himself from the multitude, realizing that his work of physical service would absorb the strength he so longed to use in spiritual ministration. So, although the proclamation of the kingdom was given first to the multitude extensively, Christ withdrew his disciples from Galilee, that, through intensive method, he might develop in them the faith which they needed in their coming battle with the world."

Miss Donaldson Cameron, superintendent of the Occidental Home for Chinese Girls, in San Farncisco, thrilled her listeners as she told of the wonderful work done by their Lord in rescuing and saving the Chinese girls who, unknowingly, had been bought and brought into that city to a life of sorrow.

Notwithstanding the gray menace of the morning skies, the girls were astir early today in anticipation of the visit to the big trees.

Shortly before noon the girls clambered excitedly into the inter-urban car to Santa Cruz, there ready. The enthusiasm grew in volume as they sped past big trees, and bigger trees of the redwood woodland. The climax came when they reached the glass.

Gen. Sherman, Gen. Grant and the Cathedral were viewed through the open square of a 25-cent piece. Then in the powdery mist the girls started down the track to Felton. Nor were they daunted when the mist freshened to a gentle shower, but pushed merrily on to Mount Hermon, where they caught the train for Capitola, just as it began to rain in real earnest.

BELIEVED LOST IN SNOW.

TWO MEN YET MISSING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FRESNO, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] For several days no word has been heard from William Morton and Henry Ruhl, two lumbermen of Camp Badger, in the Sierras, and it is supposed they have been lost in the deep snow in the mountains, which covers the country seven feet deep. A rescuing party is making a careful search. There is great anxiety felt for the fate of the men.

Camp Black is about fifteen miles east of Camp Badger, and the two men left Monday for the latter place to secure provisions. In a driving gale and snow they set out for the return trip and nothing has been seen of them since.

Another party going to Camp Badger report that no traces of the missing men were found along the road. Some thought that they continued their journey to Auckland, but news from there does not tell of their arrival.

WILL SUE ESPEE.

SEEK TO RECOVER LANDS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

RENO (Nev.) April 4.—The Department of the Interior is to sue the Southern Pacific at once to cancel all patents issued to the railroad in the White Horse district, on the claim that the land was agricultural. It is now alleged that the land for which the railroad received patents was mineral. The White Horse district has developed into a great producing district, and the action will affect lands worth millions for mining, but worthless for anything else.

The announcement was made this afternoon by Land Agent Cohn at Reno City at the conclusion of the hearing of the protest of Aaron Ingalls against the Southern Pacific Company which a similar question was involved.

SWITCHES TWO CORPSES.

FUNERALS ARE POSTPONED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hearses at the Reid Brothers, ready to convey the remains to their last resting place in towns in mourning over the demise of two well-known young men and nearly the entire population of both places was in readiness to escort the bodies to the cemeteries, was the situation in Montesano and Chehalis Tuesday afternoon. Arrangements were changed when the corpses were removed from the train, and it was decided that the Tacoma undertaker had made a mistake and switched the bodies, sending the one intended for Montesano to Chehalis, and the one for whom Chehalis was mourning had been dispatched to Montesano. The towns are thirty miles apart. In Montesano the mourners had assembled awaiting arrival of the body of M. G. Wade, who died of chronic heart disease at the asylum for the insane at Steilacoom. The mourners at Chehalis were expecting the remains of W. W. Winto, who had died at Steilacoom of insanity.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

EXPLORERS GET IN A BAD BOAT.

CAPSIZING VESSEL NEARLY COSTS THREE LIVES.

Is Upsets on Pyramid Lake While Chicago University Archeological Party Is Looking for Aztec Hieroglyphics—Prompt Action of One Man Saves Two from Death.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Prof. Ross G Hall and three students named Kammerer, Cashel and Brown, of the Chicago University, who have been on an archeological exploration near the end of Truckee River, and about Pyramid Lake, had a perilous experience yesterday while boating on the lake, which would have cost the party their lives but for the presence of mind of Brown, who is an excellent swimmer.

The boat capsized. Brown swam quite a distance to the shore and securing a rope, made one end fast, and then took the other end to the helpless men hanging onto the overturned boat. They then pulled themselves to the shore.

"We came to Nevada to inspect the much-heralded writings in stone that are supposed to have been made by the Aztecs in their wanderings to the north," said Prof. Hall today. "We had a narrow escape on the lake, and but for the bravery of Brown in rescuing us we would be dead today. As it was, we lost part of our best relics. The party left for home today.

FRESNO MAY GET COLLEGE.

CHURCH CONSIDERS STEP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FRESNO, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A call for a meeting of the general educational board of the South Methodist Episcopal church, to be held in Fresno April 10, to consider the founding of a college in this city, has been issued by Rev. J. A. Bachelor of Oakland. It is proposed by the church people to found a non-sectarian institution for preparatory and collegiate work. The contest for the university has narrowed down to three California cities, of which Fresno is one. A. B. Smith, County Tax Collector, has offered forty acres of land north of the city as a site for the building. The board will meet with the local Chamber of Commerce.

According to a plan held by the Church Committee, the administration building will cost $50,000 and each of the two dormitories $25,000. The committee has already received $100,000 endowment for the university.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Proceedings Are Ended.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—Proceedings before the board of arbitration in the case involving the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and the Order of Railroad Telegraphers were ended today. The decision of the board will probably be filed with the clerk of the Circuit Court next Saturday.

FILES FOR LOS ANGELES.

BAKERSFIELD, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles Richard, representing the city of Los Angeles in the enterprise of bringing water for municipal purposes from Owens River, today filed with County Recorder Lee an appropriation of the water from Jaw Bone Cañon near Red Rock, to be used in the construction of the aqueduct.

Japanese Steamers Modern.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—The steamers now being built in Japan for the Toyen Kisen Kaisha are to be about the same size as the Korea and Siberia of the Pacific Mail Company. One will be ready for service next December, and the other one a year from next May. They are to be oil burners. They will be the first steamers in the trans-Pacific service between this Coast and the Orient to use oil and have turbine engines.

TONOPAH BUSINESS MEN EXTEND GOLDFIELD SYMPATHY.

Adopt Resolutions Which Cite Outrages of Anarchistic I.W.W., and Offer Aid—Carson Swears That no Member of Body Will Be Employed in That City.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] No conferences between the miners and employers were held today and not a step of progress has been taken since yesterday. Nearly a year ago the State of Illinois revoked the charter of the Industrial Workers of the World for just such anarchistic exhibitions as they have given in Goldfield.

The Tonopah Merchants' Association has adopted the following resolutions:

"Whereas, the interests of the merchants and business men of Tonopah and Goldfield are, in every essential, identical and the same, and that which helps us is likewise a benefit to our neighbors in our sister city, and that which jeopardizes or threatens the welfare of one also imperils the other, and whereas, it is with a sense of the deepest sympathy that it has come to our knowledge that the merchants of our neighboring city have been forced into a conflict with that anarchistic organization known as the 'Industrial Workers of the World,' and knowing as we do that the said merchants of Goldfield are fighting only for their rights and for the liberties that are guaranteed them by the Constitution and laws of the nation and the State of Nevada, protecting them in the right to conduct a lawful business without the interference or intimidation that the said Industrial Workers of the World are employing against said merchants and business men, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we, the Merchants' Association of Tonopah, do extend our hearty support and loyal sympathy to our neighbors, the merchants of Goldfield."

WOULD SLAY HIS LAWYER.

Claims Attorneys Stole Legal Rights to Estate.

Hides in Wait Then Attacks and Beats Counsel.

Says He Will Kill All Concerned in Case.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Attorney Shutter Cottrell was waylaid by Charles Grock late last evening and beaten into insensibility and would probably have been killed had it not been for the interference of those living in the neighborhood.

Grock claims that his large estates in Elko and Reno have been taken from him by the attorneys he has hired to defend him in the suits brought to gain title, relinquishing the case for a cash consideration from the other parties.

Grock had sworn to kill Cottrell, Judge Orr and others, who, he claims, hold his rights at law, and when he sprang from hiding and struck Cottrell on the head with a cudgel he said:

"I will kill them all, and will begin with you."

Grock was, this afternoon, held to answer the charge, and bonds were fixed at $2000.

RETURNS FIVE INDICTMENTS.

CONSPIRACY IS CHARGED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) April 4.—It has been learned here today that the special grand jury called at the request of Asst. U. S. Atty.-Gen. Burch, returned five indictments last evening against B. M. Holbrook, president of the Wyoming Mining Company, which owns the Monarch and other mines in Sheridan county, Wyo.; E. L. McCarthy, a former business associate of Holbrook; E. E. Lonabaugh, a Sheridan attorney, and Robert McPhillamey, a real estate dealer of Sheridan.

The indictments charge conspiracy with intent to defraud the government. Holbrook and McCarthy are reputed to be millionaires. McCarthy is engaged in zinc and lead-mining enterprises in Missouri. Lonabaugh and McPhillamey are charged with taking up coal lands and selling them to the company. They are now in this city, and have been held in $5000 bonds. The other two men have not been apprehended.

WOULD ROB ANGELENO.

ONE THIEF IS NABBED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Four men who attempted to rob Edwin F. O'Malley of Los Angeles on a Sedgwick-street car today were chased through Polk-street railroad depot by the intended victim and his nephew, Herbert O'Malley, 17 years old. One was captured and taken to the police station. He gave the name of William Marshall.

O'Malley arrived at the Polk-street depot over the Santa Fé Railroad at 7:25 o'clock p.m., with his nephew, Herbert O'Malley, whose parents live at No. 266 Huron street. They boarded a Sedgwick-street car at Polk and Dearborn streets, and had been sitting in the car only five minutes when four men boarded it and walked inside.

O'Malley was wearing a diamond pin valued at $500 in his necktie. O'Malley says one of the men attempted to snatch the diamond pin from his tie when he turned about to look out the window.

CRIME BRIEFS.

Tax Collector Short.

NEW ORLEANS, April 4.—As a result of an examination of the accounts of Ferdinand Hudenheifer, State Tax Collector, it was announced today that there was a shortage of over $40,000. The matter has been referred to the District Attorney.

Admits His Identity.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The man arrested in Brooklyn yesterday on suspicion that he is the murderer of Mrs. A. W. Gentry of Chicago, admitted today that he is Constantine. He said that he did not kill Mrs. Gentry, but that she committed suicide in his presence. He said he was expecting to return to Chicago and explain the matter.

ADMINISTRATION INDORSED.

CINCINNATI, April 4.—At a special meeting of the Roosevelt Republican Club of Hamilton county, resolutions were adopted indorsing the Roosevelt administration and pledging its support to secure the nomination of Judge William H. Taft for the Presidency in 1908.

In reference to the manner of deciding which candidate may receive Ohio's support the resolution says:

"This club also approves and would welcome the submission to popular vote at open primaries the question of Ohio's choice for President or Senator; provided such primary election were to be held at a proper time, apart from a general election; and provided such primary were to be open without any restrictions except that those voting were Republicans in national politics.

MEN ABANDON STRIKE BLUFF.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All danger of the strike which the labor-union lawsmiths claimed would tie up the commerce of the entire West, has been averted. A settlement was reached this afternoon by the railways making a slight concession to the employés, which was gladly accepted and peace was declared.

The principal point on which the men lost is in their demand for a nine-hour day.

The original demands of the men were for a 12 per cent. increase and for a work day of nine hours. The managers offered an increase of 10 per cent. and declined to grant the nine-hour day.

To Commissioners Knapp and Neill, and especially to Commissioner Neill of the United States Department of Labor, is due much of the credit of averting a strike, which, in the President's opinion, might have caused industrial panic.

Wednesday, when a deadlock existed and each had declared they could go no further, Commissioner Neill made a last appeal for peace, urging them to make some concession for the benefit of the public.

Commissioners Knapp and Neill, who came here from Washington at the demand of the railway officials for arbitration under the Erdman Act, look upon the settlement as a victory for mediation. Olason Thompson, spokesman for the railway officials, takes the same view.

"It is a victory for mediation and the practical application of the Erdman Act," said Thompson. "Everything is due to the splendid efforts of Messrs. Neill and Knapp, who persisted as mediators till they obtained concessions from both sides."

"The employés would rather accept something less than their demands than submit to arbitration," declared both Chiefs Morrisey and Garretson of the employés.

The pay of conductors in the passenger service is to be increased $10 per month; that of baggagemen, $7.50, and that of flagmen and brakemen, $6.50 per month, as applied to the schedules in effect November 10, 1906.

The railroads are not to make any reduction in crews or increase in mileage for the purpose of offsetting the increased wages given the passenger trainmen.

Overtime in the passenger service is to be allowed on the basis of fifteen miles per hour, to be computed for each part of the run subsequently. The run is to begin at the scheduled time of leaving.

Roads on a basis of more than ten hours for a day for a helper of a construction train service are to make no increase in the rates paid for such service.

The increases granted in the agreement are to apply also to rates for special services, as specified in the individual schedule.

Upon roads having a better basis for a day's work or for payment of overtime or other allowances in all branches of train service the acceptance of this agreement is not to act as a reduction.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen were also granted, today, by the railroads, an increase of 10 per cent.

CATHOLIC CHAPEL ON WHEELS.

Ambrose Petry Presents Church With Pullman Car Built for Services in Faneless Towns.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A perambulating Roman Catholic chapel, costing $20,000, was today turned over to the Roman Catholic Church Extension Society, now in session here, by the Pullman Palace Company. It is a gift from Ambrose Petry of New York.

The church on wheels has all the fittings of a private car, and, in addition, there is a decorated chapel with stained glass windows and an altar in white marble.

The chapel itself is sixty feet long and it will seat sixty-five persons. An organ has been installed. The car will be used in visiting remote parts of the Southwest and Northwest which have no Catholic churches. The car will not leave the United States.

PRESIDENT PLEASED.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The following correspondence regarding the settlement of the labor troubles on railroads entering Chicago was made public tonight:

The President's reply:

HARRY K. THAW SANE, TRIAL WILL PROCEED.

Lunacy Commission Returns Verdict After a Long Disagreement. Jerome, Denied Access to the Minutes, Threatens Appeal.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 4.—When Justice Fitzgerald called the Thaw jury into court at 11:30 o'clock today, the commission in lunacy appointed to inquire into the present condition of the defendant had not been able to agree on a verdict. The jury was then excused until 2 o'clock p.m. The commission sat again until after 3 o'clock, trying to agree upon a report, but failed. It went into session again in Justice Fitzgerald's chambers.

It was reported that there was a serious division of sentiment among the three members of the commission, the two laymen being arrayed against the medical member.

In anticipation of a verdict by the commission, a large crowd gathered at the Criminal Courts building. Justice Fitzgerald reached his chambers at 10 o'clock a.m. He began at once to consult with the two commissioners, Dr. Putzel and Olney, who were already present. The commission's chairman, David McClure, did not reach the Courthouse until 10:22 o'clock.

All the members of the Thaw family were early in the courtroom. When Harry K. Thaw was told in the Tombs this morning that it was reported he had broken down for two or three minutes before the commission yesterday afternoon, when he was questioned on the subject of his delusions, he exclaimed:

"Nonsense—rot!"

Justice Fitzgerald had a long conference with the full commission after the arrival of Chairman McClure. The jury and the defendant were brought before him. Thaw seemed nervous and excited and these feelings extended more or less to every person in the crowded room. The members of the Thaw family group moved nervously and seemed to apprehend that the crisis of the trial was at hand. The suspense was ended by Justice Fitzgerald turning to the jury and excusing them. The courtroom was then cleared.

PUTZEL IN MINORITY.

Following adjournment of court till 2 o'clock p.m., Justice Fitzgerald went into conference with the three lunacy commissioners. In less than fifteen minutes Dr. Putzel left the chambers alone. This gave rise to the report that he had submitted a minority report and was unwilling to change his views. Dr. Putzel declined to discuss the matter. It was said that his report declared that while Thaw was apparently able to consult with his counsel in a fairly rational manner, this did not indicate that he was mentally sound in every other way.

The courtroom filled quietly for the afternoon session when the doors were opened at 1:30 o'clock. The Thaw family group were among the first to enter. Justice Fitzgerald as soon as he had taken the bench, said he had succeeding in securing a report from the commission in lunacy. He had had two copies made, and while he would not make the report public, he delivered the copies to Dist.-Atty. Jerome and counsel for the defense.

It was from the defendant's counsel table that the news of the commission's finding emanated. Neither Thaw nor the jury was in court when the report was handed down. A messenger was sent to take the glad tidings to Thaw.

COMMISSION'S REPORT.

The concluding paragraphs of the report, in full, are as follows:

"After careful examination of the defendant personally and all of the evidence, we find the facts:

"In the frequent, and in some cases daily—during the several months last past—intercourse had by the defendant with the Tombs' physician, chaplains, keepers, other attendants, and the probation officer, these persons failed to discover anything irrational in his conduct or speech.

"The defendant has taken an active part in the conduct of the trial; has made numerous suggestions orally in court and by letter as to the selection of jurors and examination of witnesses.

"Many of these suggestions were deemed valuable, and were adopted by his counsel, and examination of the letters referred to shows that generally suggestions contained in them were material, sensible and apparently the product of a sane mind. While the testimony of numerous experts called by the District Attorney and the defendant's counsel is irreconcilable, that given by certain experts who personally examined the defendant during the trial and since the appointment of the commission and who, of all the alienists examined, had greatest opportunity of observing disclosed the fact that no indication of insanity at the present time could be found in the speech, conduct or physical condition of the defendant.

"The direct oral and physical examinations of the defendant by the commissioners themselves disclosed no insanity in the defendant at the present. Upon all of the facts, it is our opinion that at the time of our examination, the said Harry K. Thaw was sane and is sane, and was not and is not in a state of idiocity, imbecility, lunacy or insanity, so as to be incapable of rightly understanding his own condition, the nature of the charges against him and of conducting his defense in a rational manner.

"The minutes of the proceedings before us and the documents received in evidence are herewith submitted.

[Signed] "DAVID M'CLURE,
"PETER OLNEY,
"LEOPOLD PUTZEL."

Dist.-Atty. Jerome, addressing Justice Fitzgerald before the reading of the report, reviewed at length the sessions held by the commission in lunacy. He was inclined to criticise the commission for excluding him from the final examinations yesterday afternoon and said:

JEROME'S OBJECTIONS.

"I desire access to all the minutes of the commission. The law says the commission must be attended by the District Attorney. I was not allowed to attended the session wherein Thaw was finally examined."

Hartridge, Thaw's counsel, said he did not think it necessary that the District Attorney should have access to the commission's minutes at this stage of the trial.

The defendant throws himself upon the mercy of the court," said the attorney.

Justice Fitzgerald said that in the present stage of the case he did not deem it his duty to allow either side access to the minutes of the commission.

"I have a right in this matter," shouted Jerome. "I have the right by the statutes to attend every session of the commission. I am willing to waive the fact that I was barred, if the defense will agree that I shall see the minutes. If your honor persists in overruling my motion, I will have to ask that I be allowed a reasonable time to consider if the legal aspects of the case justify me in applying to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court for a writ of prohibition forbidding the continuance of this trial until a higher court has ruled in the matter."

Justice Fitzgerald stated that the commission had directed that its minutes be kept secret, and he felt he must comply with the request.

"Then I must ask for a reasonable adjournment in order that I may prepare my application for relief to the Appellate Division."

The District Attorney finally made a motion that he be allowed to inspect all the papers transmitted to the court by the lunacy commission, and that he be allowed further time to examine the transcript of all the testimony taken before the commission.

"Guided by the statutes, as I understand them," said Justice Fitzgerald, "the motions are denied."

"Then I may have time to prepare my appeal to the Appellate Division before you confirm this report?" asked Jerome.

"I will discharge the jury until next Monday morning," said the judge. "I cannot grant you any more time than that."

The jury was thereupon discharged.

DECISION IMPORTANT.

Jerome this afternoon made the following statement:

"I do not care to discuss the case, because, in my opinion, it will be unseemly to do so. I could not tell until I had examined the authorities and the facts whether I ought to take any further action or not in the way of an application to the Appellate Division.

"When I have gone over the facts in my possession and examined the law, should I be of the opinion that the presiding judge has committed legal error, I will seek to review his adjudication if the authorities permit. Should I, on the other hand, reach the conclusion that he has not committed error, I will, of course, take no further action.

"The decision of the court is a most important one, not alone in its bearing in the Thaw case, but as forming a precedent for the conduct of such inquiries, and while I greatly deplore the delay, it is of the highest public importance that the procedure in cases of this kind be clearly settled."

LATEST ISSUE RAISED.

The latest issuq raised in connection with the trial of Harry K. Thaw will be heard before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

After an examination of authorities and a study of the facts involved, that continued from the hour that court adjourned today, Dist.-Atty. Jerome late tonight determined to ask the higher court to review the action of Judge Fitzgerald, who refused to give the prosecutor access to the minutes of the lunacy commission which earlier in the day had declared Thaw sane, within the boundaries prescribed by the court for his examination.

Adjournment had been taken until Monday to allow Jerome to decide whether he would challenge the validity of today's proceedings.

Jerome will, it is expected, tomorrow make a formal motion before a member of the appellate bench. Should he fail, the trial will probably be continued Monday. If, on the other hand, the higher court entertains his appeal, a stay of the trial until the court reaches a decision will be secured.

This will mean an indefinite delay in the trial of the original issue. Should the higher court find the trial judge in error, the District Attorney would require considerable time to examine the minutes of the lunacy commission before he would be prepared to resume the trial.

LEWIS WILL LEAD 'EM.

Announces His Intention to Succeed Dowie in Administration of Zion City.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, April 4.—John A. Lewis is to become successor to John Alexander Dowie in Zion City, in accordance with the will of the late leader. Trustee Lewis, who was a close friend and advisor of Dowie, tonight announced his intention of accepting the charge.

In his will, which was drawn in August, 1906, Dowie bequeaths the widow's dower to Mrs. Dowie and to his son Gladstone Dowie, he gives $10.

In naming Lewis as his successor Dowie states that by misplaced confidence, title to his property has been placed in jeopardy, and provides that Lewis employ counsel and take all necessary steps to obtain a final decision in the court of last resort.

In the decision that Dowie had no authority to appoint a successor as overseer, the will provides that Lewis call into counsel four other men of his selection, who shall determine what final disposition shall be made of the trust estate.

RECORD ORE CONTRACT.

Mexican Millionaire Owner of Palmille Silver Mine Sells Mineral Output.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

EL PASO (Tex.) April 4.—Probably the largest ore contract ever entered into in any mining district has been made between Eugene Davis of Washington, D. C., and Pedro Alvarado, a reputed multimillionaire of Mexico, and owner of the Palmillo silver mine at Parral.

Under the contract, Davis is to have the entire output of milling ore of the Palmillo mines for twenty-five years at $18 per ton, and the minimum daily delivery is to be 1000 tons.

Davis is interested with capitalists of Paris in the Capaza mines, contiguous to the Alvarado mines, and there will erect a reduction works for treatment of the output of both mines.

HONEYMOON INTERRUPTED.

Strong Arm of Law Compels Los Angeles Man to Abandon Trip to Testify in Court.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CINCINNATI, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] C. H. Bacon, a wealthy Los Angeles (Cal.) business man, and his pretty young wife, who are here on their honeymoon, were rudely shocked today when United States Marshal Lewis served upon Mr. Bacon at the Sinton Hotel a telegraphic subpoena demanding that Bacon return to Los Angeles and testify on April 11 on a case which is being tried in the Federal courts there.

Bacon at first demurred, saying he does not wish to return to Los Angeles as a witness in the case. He says he is on a business trip in this part of the country, besides being on his wedding trip, and that if compelled to return to Los Angeles he will suffer a large loss through being unable to attend to the business which he came here to look after. Bacon finally decided he would return to Los Angeles when informed he would be in contempt of court if he did not.

WORDS COST MUCH.

Howard Gould Must Pay $28,059 Because of Wife's Irritability Toward Architect.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Howard Gould will have to pay $28,059 because two years ago his wife called Abner J. Haydel a "d——d architect" and expelled him from a room in the Waldorf, where he had come to submit his twentieth set of plans for Millionaire Gould's castle at Sands Point, L. I.

The Court of Appeals at Albany has decided this by affirming a decision handed down by the Appellate division of the Supreme Court, June 13, 1906. Gould must pay $25,509 and $2550 interest on the sum for two years.

The suit was started in 1906, when the architect received the contract for Castle Gould. He submitted numerous plans, but they were unsatisfactory to Gould and his wife.

Haydel began suit for $60,000, and the case was taken to the Appellate division, where the architect got judgment for $25,000.

WASHINGTON.

CAN'T DECIDE WHAT TO USE.

Contest Over Material for Structure Continues.

Citizens Must Agree or Wait for New Building.

Architect Says He Won't Use Pressed Brick.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The contest over the material of which the Los Angeles Federal building is to be constructed promises to develop into a controversy equal to that which took place over the Cleveland, O., public building. The supervising architect of the Treasury and the citizens of Los Angeles have not been able to come to any agreement regarding the character of the material to be used in the building. Senator Flint is known to favor pressed brick, but Supervising Architect Taylor says that the style of architecture provided for the Federal building will not permit of brick, and rather than see such material used he will advocate Arizona red sandstone. And here the controversy rests.

In the meantime the citizens of Los Angeles will have to come to some sort of an agreement or else abandon hope of a new Federal building within the near future.

HERMANN TESTIFIES.

HOW HE DESTROYED BOOKS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Binger Hermann testified in his own behalf during the afternoon session of his trial today, the morning session being interrupted because of the illness of a juror. Hermann detailed the circumstances of the destruction of his letter books, for which he is being tried. The destruction, he said, took place a few days before he retired as Commissioner of the General Land Office and was conducted during office hours, publicly in his (Hermann's) office.

"I think I indicated how to destroy them," continued Hermann "by simply tearing the leaves in half, after which they were taken down by the waste-paper bin. When I gave the order I turned to either Mr. Clough, my stenographer or to Mr. Grady, my financial clerk and said: 'I have no earthly use for these old books and it is only an unnecessary expense to send them across the continent. They simply contain my personal correspondence.'

"This was done in the best of faith and not to destroy anything I regarded as official. My motive was simply that I had no further use for them. I had no occasion to refer to them during the several years they had been accumulating. They had answered their purpose and I considered them as belonging to me—as much my property as the coat on my back."

Hermann next detailed his dealings with John A. Benson, who is to be tried here in connection with the Oregon-Benson-Diamond-Schneider alleged land frauds. Hermann said he met Benson about a year after he became commissioner. Previous to this, he said, he had defeated the payment to Benson of a claim for surveying public lands. The case was the first which Hermann encountered as being what he termed "crooked."

Hermann said that two or three years before he went out of office he had a stormy interview with Benson about land surveys, the witness says he had ascertained that Benson claimed pay for lands which had never been surveyed.

"I let my balance," said Hermann, "although I don't usually use strong language. I indulged in severe comment, and expected to be put out of the office."

Some time after this, the witness said, while in San Francisco, he was to come to the office of the State Superintendent of Surveys. He went and there Benson, Senators Perkins and White of California, and he believed, Representative Loud, although Mr. Loud did not remember the occurrence. Benson again wanted pay for his surveys, but when Hermann again became indignant and explained the whole situation. Senator Perkins remarked that if Benson had entered into a contract to resurvey, and had done it, he (Perkins) would have nothing more to say.

Previous to these statements Hermann having various letters to Inspectors Reynolds and State Forester Ormsby, both of Oregon, before him, indicated that while he was commissioner always considered that "official mail" was prepared in the various divisions as distinguished from "personal" which he wrote himself.

Court will sit tomorrow, and Justice Bradford announced that the trial will continue five days a week instead of SPEED TRAIN UP TO LIMIT.

Road Duplicates Conditions of Brewster Wreck.

Demonstrate That Passengers Exaggerated Facts.

Railway Experts Show State Commissioners.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] By duplicating physical conditions under which occurred the wreck of the Brewster Express on the New York Central's Harlem division in the Bronx, February 16 last, the officers and electrical experts of the road demonstrated ot the State Board of Railroad Commissioners this afternoon at just about what speed the train was going at the time, and also the limit of speed which can be obtained over the road. The weight of the passengers on the wrecked train was made up for on the train by sand bags. There were also about forty actual passengers aboard.

The tests, according to the railroad officers, demonstrated that the testimony of passengers that the wrecked train took the curve at a rate of seventy miles an hour, was exaggerated, as it was proved that on a straight track 66½ miles an hour on that grade was the limit speed. That rate was sufficiently rapid, however, for those aboard the swaying locomotives.

SURE

Fresh Air and Postum a Health Combination Hard to Beat.

"Four years ago," writes a Vermont lady, "I was a victim of indigestion. Everything I ate distressed me—gave me nausea and formed gas in my stomach which was very annoying.

"I had palpitation so bad I could not lie on my left side, and began to think my heart must be affected. I had used coffee for 25 years, and thought it would be impossible to give it up, as I usually had nothing for breakfast but a roll and a cup of coffee.

"My indigestion grew worse, in spite of doctoring, and I felt obliged to try something else. I drank chocolate and cocoa, but soon tired of them.

"The doctor had ordered my husband to stop drinking coffee on account of heart trouble, so he was using Postum and wanted me to try that. I took one cup of it as our servant prepared it, and thought it was wretched stuff.

"I was getting desperate when the cook left me and had to make Postum for my husband. Then it was that I studied the directions on the package and wondered if the girl had been boiling it long enough.

"I cooked it fully 20 minutes and was surprised to find it most palatable. I found that rich cream improved it as much as it did coffee. I also learned that Postum tasted better, and it was easier to prepare it the night before.

"I put two heaping tablespoonfuls into a square of cheese cloth, tied it tightly, dropped it into a clean coffee pot, poured over it three cupfuls of cold water, and let it stand covered until morning.

"Then it was boiled thirty minutes, and we had two large cups of a delicious drink, after cream and sugar had been added. It has a rich delicious flavor of its own and we have used nothing else for four years.

"Postum and fresh air have cured us of dyspepsia and seeming heart trouble, and we have taken a new lease of life." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

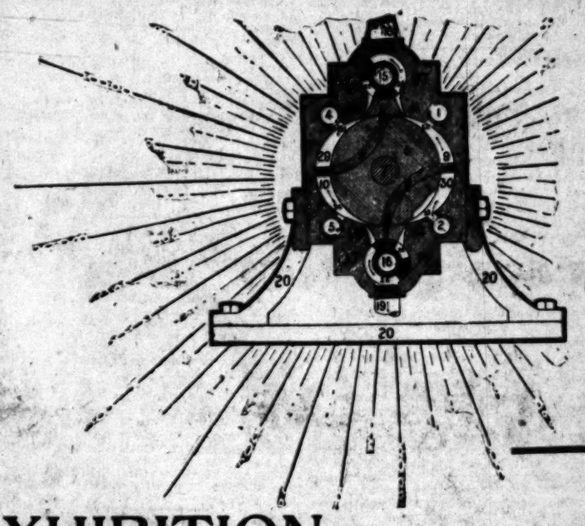
The Most Simple Engine in the World

The Rotary Engine That Will Surely Revolutionize Steam Power

HAVE YOU SEEN IT?



FREE EXHIBITION TODAY AND TOMORROW

King Edward Hotel

Corner East Fifth and Los Angeles Streets——Ask for Mr. Epton

SEE IT BEFORE THE ENGINE IS RETURNED TO THE FACTORY AT SPOKANE

Hundreds of people, engine users and steam men, besides many interested in mechanical affairs, sought out the little wonder at yesterday's exhibition. Every one who witnessed the demonstration marveled at the performance of this wonderful engine. There was a unanimous opinion expressed as to its great utility, and confirmed the opinion of many, as well as the statements and announcements of its backers, about the high standard of excellence of the engine as an industrial enterprise. This is the first and most successful rotary engine to make an impress upon the commercial world. In much less than two years it has conquered the nations of the earth—industrially. Recently, certain German manufacturers closed their option on the sale of German rights, on a basis of $1.50 royalty for each horse power made, and which has been conservatively estimated to produce three-fourths the entire capital stock of the parent company in profit per year from this one source of revenue.

An Unexpected Block of Shares For Sale In This Great Industrial Enterprise

Plainly spoken, this exhibition has been made to satisfy the insistent demand of a large number of people who wished to see this engine under steam, and, to close out this block of stock that unavoidably came back from a purchaser who could not raise the money to pay for it.

The shares will be split up into smaller allotments to cover as large demand as possible. Many applications have been made for some of these shares and it is hoped that today and tomorrow any intending buyer will get busy and get his application in early. We do not wish to disappoint any one. There was greater regret on the part of the gentlemen who failed to make good on the original purchase of these shares than with us, for many Los Angeles people have been inquiring for shares. The exhibition will last today and tomorrow, and presents the opportunity of a life time, not only of seeing this most wonderful of all steam engines, but the privilege of buying shares in one of the really great industrial propositions of the present day. The present price of the shares at $1.50 does not begin to measure up to their real value, when you consider the earning power of this industry. To let this chance pass, may be the great regret of your life.

ANGELES NS MEET.

...Oakland ...for ...ut ...high ...track ...after- ...ngeles ...white ...nors the ...y winning ...set at Stan- ...the State in- ...ip to Southern

...ought a hard up-hill ...last, and the score was ...them until the relay gave them a scant margin of three points. Oakland started out by winning the first five firsts and ran the score up to 28 to 17 before Los Angeles High succeeded in capturing the half mile.

The work of Munn, Oakland's star performer, exceeded all expectations and will go down as the most remarkable individual exhibition ever given by a high school athlete in Southern California. Munn scored first place in all five of the field events, and between trials in the pole-vault entered and won the 100-yard dash in the fast time of 10 2-5 sec. Besides this he ran the last heat for Oakland in the relay and recovered part of the distance lost by his fresher team-mates. At the close of the meet he was strong and undoubtedly would have been capable of competing successfully in other events.

MUNN'S RECORD.

Munn's thirty points were scored in the following manner:

Hammer throw .....129ft. 11in.
The 100-yard dash .....10 2-5 sec.
Shot put .....50ft. 11in.
Pole-vault .....11ft.
Broad jump .....21ft. 4in.
High jump .....5ft. 2in.

Fastest 220 for his team in a fast relay race.

The record of 50ft. 11in. in the shot put sets a new mark for Southern California in the event, breaking the record that the Oakland man made in the meet at Bovard Field last Saturday. Munn declared 11 feet in the pole-vault in his third try, and without a minute's rest scored first in the broad jump, going 21ft. 3in. on his first and only try.

The relay was the sensation of the day. Los Angeles lost a few yards on the first 220, but Bristol, her second man, caught up and opened a slight gap in the lead, which Goodwin increased to about 15 yards. Coleman crossed the line ten yards ahead of Munn.

Little Phelps made a plucky showing in the pole vault, taking second place from Smith of Oakland, after sustaining a painful injury by striking his ankle against the wooden cross-piece at the base of the uprights in one of his preliminary tries. He had to go 10ft. 7in. to get the place.

Los Angeles took all three places in the 440-yard dash, Goodwin landing in first place easily. In the 880, Free and Maddox took great delight in boxing Cook, their former team mate, and carried away eight points for High School honors. Hartwell of Oakland had an easy time winning the mile, and Mills noised out Pillsbury for second.

Results of events:

Mile run—Hartwell (O.) Mills (O.) Pillsbury (L. A.); time 4m. 58 4-5s.

The 120-yard hurdles—Robinson (O.) Johnson (L. A.) Maddox (L. A.); time 18s.

The 440-yard dash—Goodwin (L. A.) Feisenthal (L. A.) Free (L. A.); time 55 2-5s.

The 100-yard dash—Munn (O.) Coleman (L. A.) Goodwin (L. A.); time 10 2-5s.

The 880-yard dash—Free (L. A.) Maddox (L. A.) Cook (O.); time 2m. 15s.

The 120-yard dash—Coleman (L. A.) Leber (O.) McDonald (O.); time 22 3-5s.

The 220-yard hurdles—Robinson (O.) Bristol (L. A.) Williams (L. A.); time 29 1-5s.

Hammer throw—Munn (O.) Maddox (L. A.) Layne (L. A.); distance 129ft. 11in.

Shot-put—Munn (O.) Wallbridge (L. A.) Black (L. A.); distance 50ft. 11in.

Pole vault—Munn (O.) Phelps (L. A.) Smith (O.); height 11ft.

Broad jump—Munn (O.) Coleman (L. A.) Smith (O.); distance 21ft. 3in.

High jump—Munn (O.) Macready (L. A.) and Burk (L. A.) tied for second; height 5ft. 2in.

Relay race (half mile)—L. A. High (Maddox, Bristol, Goodwin, Coleman) won; Oakland High (McDonald, Leber, Smith, Munn) second; time 1m. 38s.

COACH HUFF REFUSES.

Illinois Man Will Not Accept Management of Boston Team—Jake Stahl Considered.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

URBANA (Ill.) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Nothing doing," said President Taylor, of the Boston American League Club, after a conference with Director George Huff of the University of Illinois, whom Taylor sought to manage his leaderless club. Taylor declared before leaving that he was at sea as to whom would be turned to next.

Huff and Taylor held another conference today, after which the club owner made the statement that Huff would not take charge at Boston. Taylor said he was much impressed by the local expert and sorry the coach did not look with a favorable eye on the Boston suggestion.

Illinois fans are tickled to death. The report that Huff might leave created a sensation. Taylor is considering Jake Stahl as a manager.

BIG WINNINGS AT ASCOT PARK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] This town is full of horsemen arriving from Ascot Park. "Conductor" McManus, a well-known plunger, claims to have cleaned up $30,000 at Ascot. Hughey Jones, a book-keeper, also is reported to have taken away $30,000 from Los Angeles.

George Rose, the bookmaker most famous at Ascot, is said to have made $100,000 in Los Angeles this season, and to have given each employé $100 on "get-away day."

John Brink of Los Angeles is reported today to have promised $1000 to Monte Preston to ride Ampedo in a single race—the Carter Handicap—which is soon to take place here.

RILEY'S NERVE.

OFFERS MATCH TO WALSH.

Despite his troubles with partners and backers, Mike Riley keeps up the advertising gag by offering a match to Jimmy Walsh with Phil Knight. He agrees to give the fighters 80 per cent. of the net receipts.

Manager Keevin, for Walsh, says the latter will not accept, as Riley fixed the weight stipulations at 124 pounds three hours before the fight, which is almost making lightweight conditions. Walsh can do 110 pounds, and does not care to fight at 116.

HERRERA'S DEFI.

WANTS TO FIGHT AGAIN.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD (Cal.) April 4.—On behalf of Aurelio Herera, the Mexican fighter, Patrick O'Brien, a local sporting man, will wager $1000 that Aurelia can defeat the winner of the Thompson-Mesmic fight at Los Angeles.

Herrera has been doing work here, boxing and punching the bag, and since his Cosmopolitan Hotel was destroyed by fire Herrera has been taking outdoor exercises, hunts and passes nights under canvas when the weather permits.

SIGN ARTICLES.

MEN AFTER BIG PURSE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Joe Gans and Harry Lewis signed articles for a fight for the lightweight championship of the world this afternoon. The articles of agreement call for a fight of twenty rounds or to a finish, within 100 days from today, and a division of the purse, 75 per cent. to the winner and 25 per cent. to the loser.

The fight will take place before the club offering the largest purse, but no offer of less than $20,000 will be considered. The two men are to weigh in at 133 pounds ringside.

FIREBALL'S CLEVER RACE.

Defeats Good Sprinters Over Futurity Course in Feature Event at Oakland.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—Fireball, ridden by W. Buchanan, beat some clever sprinters at Oakland today. He was well played by stable connections, and after racing E. M. Brattain into submission won handily from Royal Rogue and Romaine. Eduardo, at 10 to 1, proved a surprise in the second, beating Hugh McGowan, the favorite. Early Tide found the two-year-old race easy.

Four furlongs: Early Tide, 112 (Knapp,) 11 to 10, won; Balnade, 112 (Graham,) 25 to 1, second; Galmoore, 112 (C. Williams,) 12 to 1, third; time 0:49 3-5. Exchequer, Memorize, Rhinestone and Rose H. also ran.

HARD BLOW FOR INDEPENDENTS.

PERPETUAL INJUNCTION IN AUTOMOBILE SUIT.

W. Gould Brokaw Is Restrained from Having Anything to Do With Autos He Imported Minus Selden License, and Says He Will Appeal. Licensed Group Claim Victory.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An injunction restraining W. Gould Brokaw from importing or selling automobiles not licensed under the Selden patent has been granted by Judge Chatfield of the United States Circuit Court. A signal victory is claimed by the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers in this fight against the manufacture, importation and sale of automobiles of the unlicensed or "independent" group. Mr. Brokaw says he will appeal the case.

The decree in the case of Mr. Brokaw is a sweeping one. It provides "perpetual injunction, enjoining and restraining the defendant and his associates, attorneys, solicitors, clerks, agents, servants and employés and workmen from directly or indirectly making or causing to be made, using or causing to be used, or offering or advertising for sale, or causing to be advertised or offered for sale, or importing or causing to be imported within the United States, or selling or causing to be sold to others in any manner, or disposing of in any way, any road engines, vehicles, automobiles, devices or apparatus containing, embodying or employing any of the inventions described in said letters patent."

The complainants are awarded costs and disbursements, while the question of damages is reserved pending the report of R. L. Benedict, appointed by the court as master. Suit against Mr. Brokaw, who imported touring and racing cars for his own use, was brought in January, 1905.

SEALS ARE READY.

Prepare to Meet Portland in Opening Series Saturday—Training Stunts Close.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD, April 4.—The San Francisco baseball team has completed its preliminary training for the opening of the Pacific Coast League, and left this morning for San Francisco, where the opening series will be played against Portland, Saturday and Sunday. The team is in excellent condition as the result of faithful training under the guidance of Capt. Mohler.

During the last few days here the Seals indulged in little training. The men are in first-class shape. The mornings were devoted to batting practice and in the afternoons signal work was in order.

Capt. Mohler is pleased with the playing of his men. At Visalia their exhibition was high class. Every man hit hard and fielded well.

Willis, the Canton pitcher, handles himself like a veteran, and Ashley has a world of speed. These two men will hold regular positions on the San Francisco club.

Scofield, who failed to please Manager Long with his work at first base, has accepted a position with Park Wilson at Vancouver.

Hapgood, the fast fielder from New England, joined the Sacramento club and knocked out a victory for that nine last Sunday. Several others released last week have accepted positions in Bakersfield.

METHODIST BASEBALL.

First Game to Be Played With Whittier Wednesday—Every Man Must Hustle.

Baseball men of the University of Southern California will begin systematic work on the diamond coincident with the resumption of school, next Monday. From this date on, the men will be at work five days per week, getting in the pink of condition for the season's games.

The edict has gone forth from Coach Holmes that men who will turn out for practice but two or three times per week will not find a place on the team. He intends to put this sport on the same basis as football and track work, demanding discipline and strict attention to business.

"There is no use trying to make a baseball team out of men who can't play to begin with, and who can't get out regularly for practice," said Mr. Holmes. In accordance with this policy, the men who hope to be in the games will be on the field for practice every day from 4 to 5:30 o'clock, the first five days in the week.

Most of last season's players are not in school this year, and this makes it all the more necessary that consistent methods of training and practice be adhered to. The following names of players who were familiar to college baseball men in the south last year will not be called to bat this season: White and Pierce, catchers; Darby, first baseman; Roudebush, second baseman, and Ernest, who played at third. Peck was a pitcher as well as a fielder. Other men in the field were Shildwater and Watson. These alone almost would make a team, and all must be replaced.

Some good material is on hand to take their places, and with hard work the nine is expected to be even better than before. Bridwell and Burek will pitch and the battery will be complemented by Yates, alternating with Burek, to catch. Another formidable pitcher is Shute, the crack short-distance runner, who delivers a speedy ball from the left hand which puzzles the ordinary batter.

Rich and Riley are eligible for first base, and Wirsching is an excellent infielder, Shute likes to play infield, also. In the outfield will be Comstock, Allen, Skinner, Griffin and Allison.

The first game will be with Whittier, probably on Wednesday.

Boyle Heights.

The Boyle Heights Junior baseball team would like to hear from any local or out-of-town team, with players not over 16 years of age. Challenges may be given by calling up Domingo Glass, Sunset Boyle 291, Home 41177. The line-up: Redden, right field; Williamson, center; D. Gliss, left; Workman, first base; C. Gliss, second Decians, third; Olhasso, short; Bastanchury, pitcher; Bermal, catcher.

Long Beach Wins.

GLENDALE, April 4.—The basketball game between the girls' teams of Long Beach High and Glendale High was hotly contested on the school grounds before a large and enthusiastic audience. The score was 12 to 9 in favor of Long Beach, whose girls are considerable taller than the local girls.

Roller Polo Game.

GLENDALE, April 4.—The roller polo game at the skating rink last night proved a very exciting contest between Santa Ana and Long Beach. The score stood 4 to 2 in favor of Santa Ana.

COMMITTEE BREAKS UP.

HAVANA, April 4.—The committee of Liberal generals that recently started from Havana for a tour of the islands to sound the sentiment of the people regarding the rival candidates for the Presidency, Alfredo Zayas and José Miguel Gomez, and to try to establish peace in the Liberal party before the arrival here of Secretary Taft, has broken up in discord at Santiago. At a meeting held there recriminations were freely exchanged among the members of the committee, the lie was passed and the proceedings became so disorderly that the police were obliged to intervene. The indications are that the Liberal party is helplessly divided.

STEVEDORE FOUND DEAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—E. J. Cosgrove, a stevedore, was found dead this morning in a small outhouse in the Cross Lumber Company's yard, with two bullets through his left lung.

Cosgrove was formerly employed in the lumber yard and the police believe that he went there last night to sleep and was mistaken for a thug by the night watchman, John Fera.

Fera is said to be a very excitable Italian, and it is the theory of the police that when he met Cosgrove in the darkness he fired the fatal shots. Cosgrove crawled some distance from where he was shot to a little outhouse used by the stevedores as a waiting room.

The police are searching for Fera, who has not been seen since last night.

CHIEF CROKER IS HURT.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Thirty firemen, among them Chief Croker, and Assistant Chief Gurin, were hurt by falling debris, and damage estimated at $50,000 was caused by a fire at No. 251 Maiden Lane today. Only two of the men were severely injured.

PITTSBURGHERS ALL A-WAITING.

ANDREW CARNEGIE EXPECTED TO GIVE BIG SUM.

Report That Scotch Iron Master Will Announce Donation of $15,000,000 in Dedicatory Address Causes 'Em to Look Forward Eagerly for His Arrival—Some Petty Bickerings.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The coming of Andrew Carnegie to attend the dedication of the new Carnegie Institute on April 11 is awaited with interest by Pittsburghers because of a report that Carnegie, in his dedicatory speech, will announce a gift of at least $15,000,000 to the people of Pittsburgh.

This vast sum, it is believed, will be given as an endowment to the Carnegie Institute, the Carnegie library and the Carnegie technical schools.

For some time the iron master has been contemplating this move, and the announcement is expected to come when the new institute, the greatest institution of its kind in the world, is formally opened.

Petty bickerings between the board of trustees of the institute and the city officials of Pittsburgh are also said to have influenced Carnegie greatly in his alleged decision.

When the library demanded a $350,000 appropriation from the city this year, there was a bitter fight made by Mayor Guthrie and others to cut the amount to $200,000. Controller Larkin declared that the library management is extravagant.

It is in contemplation of announcing this endowment that Carnegie summoned his Pittsburgh agents, W. H. Frew and Col. Samuel M. Church, to New York this week. Every effort has been made to keep the matter quiet, but it "leaked out" today.

CARNIVAL FOR OLD ENGLAND.

Four Big Bouts Planned for Date in August.

Bat Nelson to Meet Subject of King Edward.

Attell and Walsh to Figure in Good Matches.

Boxing promoters of England are planning a great carnival for some date in August, in which Bat Nelson is to appear in one of the main events. Other battles are to be goes between Gunner Moir and some good opponent, possibly Jim Langford; Attell and Bowker, and probably Jimmy Walsh and Digger Stanley.

While western fight promoters and sports have been engaged in blacklisting Billy Nolan, the foxy manager of Nelson has been busy. "He is not dead but sleepeth (seemingly,)" might fit Nolan. Neither Nelson nor Nolan care whether school keeps or not on this side of the Atlantic, for during their trip to England this winter they sowed good seed, and this summer they propose to harvest the crop.

If the English trip pans out, there is little likelihood of Gans and Nelson meeting in America for some time to come. Whom Bat is to fight in England has not been learned, but those who have had experience with Nolan are ready to wager that there is something big in sight for the lightweight.

Strange as it may seem, Nelson has not boxed in public in England. When Nolan and his manager were on the island there were many comments as to the cause of this. The reason is apparent—a good match in prospect.

Nolan and Nelson have a contract to return to England by July 15 at the latest, so the prospective carnival should take place at least a month later. The plan is to settle the heavyweight, lightweight and featherweight championships of England; and to this may be added the bantamweight championship, for Eddie Keevin, manager of Jimmy Walsh, has been in communication with Nolan, and the latter has advised Keevin to go to England and match Walsh with Stanley. Walsh probably will accept.

Keevin advised Nolan to suggest Jim Langford as an opponent of Gunner Moir. Keevin has great faith in the negro's ability as a fighter, he and Walsh having trained Sam for several of his battles. Langford is one of the very best fighters in the world, and the only man who gave Joe Gans a decisive defeat.

Langford can fight anywhere from 132 pounds to 154, but has beaten heavyweights. He gave Jack Johnson and Joe Jeanette, both heavyweights, all they wanted in limited round battles. Some say that he had the best of both goes. In his fifteen-round fight with Gans he is said to have made the clever lightweight look like an amateur.

Attell has been in communication with fight promoters across the water, and there is little doubt but that the little champion would be glad of the chance to visit England. If the promoters fork up such large purses as they did for the Coronation carnival, there will be prizes worth scrapping for. Nolan is not the man to fight for a small amount of money, and it looks like big doings in Old England for the boxers.

SEASON OPENS ON SATURDAY.

NO MORE DELAYS FOR LOCAL BASEBALL FANS.

Prospects Are Bright and Manager Berry Will Start Off With a Big Automobile Parade—Oakland Club Will Arrive Here Tonight from Santa Barbara.

One more day and the baseball season of the Pacific Coast will be on, and the fans will soon have a chance to see just what the league is offering in the way of ball players for this year. The first game here will be played tomorrow afternoon at Chutes Park between the Los Angeles and Oakland teams, while San Francisco and Portland will meet at San Francisco.

The season promises to be a good one in every way, and Manager Berry of the local team will usher it in in an appropriate manner, with a big automobile parade tomorrow afternoon. This parade will leave the City Hall at 1 o'clock, and go down Broadway to Seventh street, then to Main street, then up Main to the Temple block and down Spring street to Seventh street, and on out to the Chutes grounds by Main street. A band will lead the procession. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

The Oakland team, which plays the first eight games here with the locals, will leave Santa Barbara this afternoon and will arrive late in the evening. The line-up for the opening game will be about as follows:

Delmay	pitcher	Reidy
Hogan	catcher	Hackett
Dillon	first base	Bigbee
Brashear	second base	Haley
Smith	third base	Devereaux
Delmas	short stop	Egan

DONLIN'S DEFECTION.

Theater Attracts Stellar Ball Player Who Says He Will Be Assistant Manager.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mike Donlin has quit the New York Giants and signed a contract as assistant manager of the Whitney Operahouse of this city. The deal was closed formally, tonight, and the player will take up his new duties at once.

"McGraw and I parted company last night in Louisville and I will not return to him," Donlin said, tonight, after the performance of "A Knight For a Day," in which Mrs. Donlin, known to the stage as Mabel Hite, takes a prominent part.

"Did you have a row with McGraw?" was asked.

"Well, things hadn't been going in a way to suit me and I spoke in pretty plain terms to MaGraw. I guess—yes, you might say we had a row, but as I was indifferent about what he had to say, I did not care much what happened."

LOS ANGELES WINS MEET.

One-Man Team of Oakland Beaten at Finish.

Munn Captures Six Firsts for the Visitors.

Relay Race as Last Event Decides Contest.

L. A. High School, 53; Oakland High School, 55.

In a splendidly contested dual track meet on Bovard Field, yesterday afternoon, the blue and white of Los Angeles High School wrested from the white and blue of Oakland the honors the latter won two weeks ago by winning the interscholastic track meet at Stanford. The victory gives the State interscholastic championship to Southern California.

The local boys fought a hard up-hill battle to the last, and the score was against them until the relay gave them a scant margin of three points. Oakland started out by winning the first five firsts and ran the score up to 25 to 17 before Los Angeles High succeeded in capturing the half mile.

The work of Munn, Oakland's star performer, exceeded all expectations and will go down as the most remarkable individual exhibition ever given by a high school athlete in Southern California. Munn scored first place in all five of the field events, and between trials in the pole-vault entered and won the 100-yard dash in the fast time of 10 2-5 sec. Besides this he ran the last heat for Oakland in the relay and recovered part of the distance lost by his fresher team-mates. At the close of the the meet he was strong and undoubtedly would have been capable of competing successfully in other events.

MUNN'S RECORD.

Munn's thirty points were scored in the following manner:

Hammer throw ..... 139ft. 11in.
The 100-yard dash ....10 2-5 sec.
Shot put ..... 50ft. 11in.
Pole-vault ..... 11ft.
Broad jump ..... 21ft. 3in.
High jump ..... 5ft. 2in.

Fastest 220 for his team in a fast relay race.

The record of 50ft. 11in. in the shot put sets a new mark for Southern California in the event, breaking the record that the Oakland man made in the meet at Bovard Field last Saturday. Munn declared 11 feet in the pole-vault in his third try, and without a minute's rest scored first in the broad jump, going 21ft. 3in. on his first and only try.

The relay was the sensation of the day. Los Angeles lost a few yards on the first 220, but Bristol, her second man, caught up and opened a slight gap in the lead, which Goodwin increased to about 15 yards. Coleman crossed the line ten yards ahead of Munn.

Little Phelps made a plucky showing in the pole vault, taking second place from Smith of Oakland, after sustaining a painful injury by striking his ankle against the wooden crosspiece at the base of the uprights in one of his preliminary tries. He had to go 10ft. 7in. to get the place.

Los Angeles took all three places in the 440-yard dash, Goodwin landing in first place easily. In the 880, Free and Maddox took great delight in boxing Cook, their former team mate, and carried away eight points for High School in the event. Hartwell of Oakland had an easy time winning the mile, and Mills nosed out Pillsbury for second.

Results of events:

Mile run—Hartwell (O.) Mills (O.) Pillsbury (L. A.;) time 4m. 58 4-5s.

The 120-yard hurdles—Robinson (O.) Johnson (L. A.) Maddox (L. A.;) time 18s.

The 440-yard dash—Goodwin (L. A.) Feisenthal (L. A.) Free (L. A.;) time 55 2-5s.

The 100-yard dash—Munn (O.) Coleman (L. A.) Goodwin (L. A.;) time 10 2-5s.

The 880-yard dash—Free (L. A.) Maddox (L. A.) Cook (O.;) time 2m. 15s.

The 120-yard dash—Coleman (L. A.) Leber (O.) McDonald (O.;) time 23 3-5s.

The 220-yard hurdles—Robinson (O.) Bristol (L. A.) Williams (L. A.;) time 28 3-5s.

Hammer throw—Munn (O.) Maddox (L. A.) Layne (L. A.;) distance 139ft. 11in.

Shot-put—Munn (O.) Wallbridge (L. A.) Black (L. A.;) distance 50ft. 11in.

Pole vault—Munn (O.) Phelps (L. A.) Smith (O.;) height 11ft.

Broad jump—Munn (O.) Coleman (L. A.) Smith (O.;) distance 21ft. 3in.

High jump—Munn (O.) Macrady (L. A.) and Burk (L. A.) tied for second; height 5ft. 2in.

Relay race (half mile)—L. A. High (Maddox, Bristol, Goodwin, Coleman) won; Oakland High (McDonald, Leber, Smith, Munn) second; time 1m. 38s.

COACH HUFF REFUSES.

Illinois Man Will Not Accept Management of Boston Team—Jake Stahl Considered.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

URBANA (Ill.) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Nothing doing," said President Taylor, of the Boston American League Club, after a conference with Director George Huff of the University of Illinois, whom Taylor sought to manage his leaderless club. Taylor declared before leaving that he was at sea as to whom would turned to next.

Huff and Taylor held another conference today, after which the club owner made the statement that Huff would not take charge at Boston. Taylor said he was much impressed by the local expert and sorry the coach did not look with a favorable eye on the Boston suggestion.

Illinois fans are tickled to death. The report that Huff might leave created a sensation. Taylor is considering Jake Stahl as a manager.

TONOPAH RILEY IS IN TROUBLE.

BACKER SUES FOR LARGE SUM ALLEGED TO BE DUE.

Promoters and Boxers Have All Sorts of Trouble in Desert Town. Schreck and Wills Fight to Be Held, Says Mike—Kid Parker Sentenced to Rock Pile.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mike Riley, manager of the Casino Athletic Club, promoter of prize fights, and manager of the big dance hall here, is in the ring with E. Marks, one of the backers of the Gans-Herman fight.

The trouble arose over the dance hall. Riley's partners are Summerfield and Johnson, neither of whom knew anything about conducting a dancing hall, it is alleged. Johnson discovered there was nearly $10,000 outstanding where he thought all was velvet. He told Riley if things did not change he would have a receiver appointed.

Riley did not believe he would do it, but Sunday morning the Sheriff and receiver walked in. Then Riley got busy. He agreed to put his share of the receipts of the dance hall with those of his partners in bank every day until the bills were paid. He did this two days, and then refused to do so any longer. Meantime the receiver was discharged.

Suit has been filed by E. Marks, of the J. G. Kind Company, for $11,000 for work on the arena of the Gans-Herman fight. Kind died, and Marks, his partner, has brought suit for recovery of the money.

Schreck and Wills are now on the ground training for a fight on April 15, and all say the fight will go on. Percy Cove, and his trainer, Jack Sullivan, left between two days, and Kid Parker, one of the training partners, swiped their trunk out of the hotel where they were staying, and this morning was sentenced to six months on the rock pile.

RILEY'S NERVE.

OFFERS MATCH TO WALSH.

Despite his troubles with partners and backers, Mike Riley keeps up the advertising gag by offering a match to Jimmy Walsh with Phil Knight. He agrees to give the fighters 80 per cent. of the net receipts.

Manager Keevin, for Walsh, says the latter will not accept, as Riley fixed the weight stipulations at 124 pounds three hours before the fight, which is almost making lightweight conditions. Walsh can do 110 pounds, and does not care to fight at 116.

HERRERA'S DEFI.

WANTS TO FIGHT AGAIN.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD (Cal.) April 4.—On behalf of Aurelio Herera, the Mexican fighter, Patrick O'Brien, a local sporting man, will wager $1000 that Aurelia can defeat the winner of the Thompson-Mesmic fight at Los Angeles.

Herrera has been doing work here, boxing and punching the bag, and since his Cosmopolitan Hotel was destroyed by fire Herrera has been taking outdoor exercises, hunts and passes nights under canvas when the weather permits.

SIGN ARTICLES.

MEN AFTER BIG PURSE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Joe Gans and Harry Lewis signed articles for a fight for the lightweight championship of the world this afternoon. The articles of agreement call for a fight of twenty rounds or to a finish, within 100 days from today, and a division of the purse, 75 per cent. to the winner and 25 per cent. to the loser.

The fight will take place before the club offering the largest purse, but no offer of less than $20,000 will be considered. The two men are to weigh in at 133 pounds ringside.

FIREBALL'S CLEVER RACE.

Defeats Good Sprinters Over Futurity Course in Feature Event at Oakland.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—Fireball, ridden by W. Buchanan, beat some clever sprinters at Oakland today. He was well played by stable connections, and after racing E. M. Early Tide found the two-year-old race easy.

HARD BLOW FOR INDEPENDENTS.

PERPETUAL INJUNCTION IN AUTOMOBILE SUIT.

W. Gould Brokaw Is Restrained from Having Anything to Do With Autos He Imported Minus Selden License, and Says He Will Appeal. Licensed Group Claim Victory.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An injunction restraining W. Gould Brokaw from importing or selling automobiles not licensed under the Selden patent has been granted by Judge Chatfield of the United States Circuit Court. A signal victory is claimed by the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers in this fight against the manufacture, importation and sale of automobiles of the unlicensed or "independent" group. Mr. Brokaw says he will appeal the case.

The decree in the case of Mr. Brokaw is a sweeping one. It provides "perpetual injunction, enjoining and restraining the defendant and his associates, attorneys, solicitors, clerks, agents, servants and employés and workmen from directly or indirectly making or causing to be made, using or causing to be used, or offering or advertising for sale, or causing to be advertised or offered for sale, or importing or causing to be imported within the United States, or selling or causing to be sold to others in any manner, or disposig of in any way, any road engines, vehicles, automobiles, devices or apparatus containing, embodying or employing any of the inventions described in said letters patent."

The complainants are awarded costs and disbursements, while the question of damages is reserved pending the report of R. L. Benedict, appointed by the court as master. Suit against Mr. Brokaw, who imported touring and racing cars for his own use, was brought in January, 1905.

SEALS ARE READY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD, April 4.—The San Francisco baseball team has completed its preliminary training for the opening of the Pacific Coast League, and left this morning for San Francisco, where the opening series will be played against Portland, Saturday and Sunday. The team is in excellent condition as the result of faithful training under the guidance of Capt. Mohler.

During the last few days here the Seals indulged in little training. The men are in first-class shape. The mornings were devoted to batting practice and in the afternoons signal work was in order.

Capt. Mohler is pleased with the playing of his men. At Visalia their exhibition was high class. Every man hit hard and fielded well.

Willis, the Canton pitcher, handles himself like a veteran, and Ashley has a world of speed. These two men will hold regular positions on the San Francisco club.

Scofield, who failed to please Manager Long with his work at first base, has accepted a position with Park Wilson at Vancouver.

Hapgood, the fast fielder from New England, joined the Sacramento club and knocked out a victory for that nine last Sunday. Several others released last week have accepted positions in Bakersfield.

METHODIST BASEBALL.

First Game to Be Played With Whittier Wednesday—Every Man Must Hustle.

Baseball men of the University of Southern California will begin systematic work on the diamond coincident with the resumption of school, next Monday. From this date on, the men will be at work five days per week, getting in the pink of condition for the season's games.

The edict has gone forth from Coach Holmes that men who will turn out for practice but two or three times per week will not find a place on the team. He intends to put this sport on the same basis as football and track work, demanding discipline and strict attention to business.

"There is no use trying to make a baseball team out of men who can't play to begin with, and who can't get out regularly for practice," said Mr. Holmes. In accordance with this policy, the men who hope to be in the games will be on the field for practice every day from 4 to 5:30 o'clock, the first five days in the week.

Most of last season's players are not in school this year, and this makes it all the more necessary that consistent methods of training and practice be adhered to. The following names of players who were familiar to college baseball men in the south last year will not be called to bat this season: White and Pierce, catchers; Darby, first baseman; Roudebush, second baseman, and Ernest, who played at third. Peck was a pitcher as well as a fielder. Other men in the field were Shildwater and Watson. These alone almost would make a team, and all must be replaced.

Some good material is on hand to take their places, and with hard work the nine is expected to be even better than before. Bridwell and Burek will pitch and the battery will be complemented by Yates, alternating with Burek, to catch. Another formidable pitcher is Shute, the crack short-distance runner, who delivers a speedy ball from the left hand which puzzles the ordinary batter.

Rich and Riley are eligible for first base, and Wirsching is an excellent infielder. Shute likes to play infield, also. In the outfield will be Comstock, Allen, Skinner, Griffin and Allison.

The first game will be with Whittier, probably on Wednesday.

Boyle Heights.

The Boyle Heights Junior baseball team would like to hear from any local or out-of-town team, with players not over 16 years of age. Challenges may be given by calling up Domingo Glass, Sunset Boyle 291, Home 41177. The line-up: Redden, right field; Williamson, center; D. Gliss, left; Workman, first base; C. Gliss, second Decians, third; Olhasso, short; Bastanchury, pitcher; Bermal, catcher.

Long Beach Wins.

GLENDALE, April 4.—The basketball game between the girls' teams of Long Beach High and Glendale High was hotly contested on the school grounds before a large and enthusiastic audience. The score was 12 to 9 in favor of Long Beach, whose girls are considerable taller than the local girls.

Roller Polo Game.

GLENDALE, April 4.—The roller polo game at the skating rink last night proved a very exciting contest between Santa Ana and Long Beach. The score stood 4 to 2 in favor of Santa Ana.

SEATTLE, April 4.—The Arctic Brotherhood has raised $5000 to send the crack Nome basketball team on a tour of the United States.

COMMITTEE BREAKS UP.

HAVANA, April 4.—The committee of Liberal generals that recently started from Havana for a tour of the Islands to sound the sentiment of the people regarding the rival candidates for the Presidency, Alfredo Zayas and José Miguel Gomez, and to try to establish peace in the Liberal party before the arrival here of Secretary Taft, has broken up in discord at Santiago. At a meeting held there recriminations were freely exchanged among the members of the committee, the lie was passed and the proceedings became so disorderly that the police were obliged to intervene. The indications are that the Liberal party is helplessly divided.

STEVEDORE FOUND DEAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—E. J. Cosgrove, a stevedore, was found dead this morning in a small outhouse in the Cross Lumber Company's yard, with two bullets through his left lung.

Cosgrove was formerly employed in the lumber yard and the police believe that he went there last night to sleep and was mistaken for a thug by the night watchman, John Fera.

Fera is said to be a very excitable Italian, and it is the theory of the police that when he met Cosgrove in the darkness he fired the fatal shots. Cosgrove crawled some distance from where he was shot to a little outhouse used by the stevedores as a waiting room.

The police are searching for Fera, who has not been seen since last night.

CHIEF CROKER IS HURT.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Thirty firemen, among them Chief Croker, and Assistant Chief Gurin, were hurt by falling debris, and damage estimated at $50,000 was caused by a fire at No. 251 Maiden Lane today. Only two of the men were severely injured.

PITTSBURGHERS ALL A-WAITING.

ANDREW CARNEGIE EXPECTED TO GIVE BIG SUM.

Report That Scotch Iron Master Will Announce Donation of $15,000,000 in Dedicatory Address Causes 'Em to Look Forward Eagerly for His Arrival—Some Petty Bickerings.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The coming of Andrew Carnegie to attend the dedication of the new Carnegie Institute on April 11 is awaited with interest by Pittsburghers because of a report that Carnegie, in his dedicatory speech, will announce a gift of at least $15,000,000 to the people of Pittsburgh.

This vast sum, it is believed, will be given as an endowment to the Carnegie Institute, the Carnegie library and the Carnegie technical schools.

For some time the iron master has been contemplating this move, and the announcement is expected to come when the new institute, the greatest institution of its kind in the world, is formally opened.

Petty bickerings between the board of trustees of the institute and the city officials of Pittsburgh are also said to have influenced Carnegie greatly in his alleged decision.

When the library demanded a $250,000 appropriation from the city this year, there was a bitter fight made by Mayor Guthrie and others to cut the amount to $200,000. Controller Larkin declared that the library management is extravagant.

It is in contemplation of announcing this endowment that Carnegie summoned his Pittsburgh agents, W. H. Frew and Col. Samuel M. Church, to New York this week. Every effort has been made to keep the matter quiet, but it "leaked out" today.

CARNIVAL FOR OLD ENGLAND.

Four Big Bouts Planned for Date in August.

Attell and Walsh to Figure in Good Matches.

Boxing promoters of England are planning a great carnival for some date in August, in which Bat Nelson is to appear in one of the main events. Other battles are to be goes between Gunner Moir and some good opponent, possibly Sam Langford; Attell and Bowker, and probably Jimmy Walsh and Digger Stanley.

While western fight promoters and sports have been engaged in blacklisting Billy Nolan, the foxy manager of Nelson has been busy. "He is not dead but sleepeth (seemingly.)" might fit Nolan. Neither Nelson nor Nolan care whether school keeps or not on this side of the Atlantic, for during their trip to England this winter they sowed good seed, and this summer they propose to harvest the crop.

If the English trip pans out, there is little likelihood of Gans and Nelson meeting in America for some time to come. Whom Bat is to fight in England has not been learned, but those who have had experience with Nolan are ready to wager that there is something big in sight for the lightweight.

Strange as it may seem, Nelson has not boxed in public in England. When Attell and his manager were on the island there were many comments as to the cause of this. The reason is apparent—a good match in prospect. Nolan and Nelson have a contract to return to England by July 15 at the latest, so the prospective carnival could take place at least a month later. The plan is to settle the heavyweight, lightweight and featherweight championships of England; and to this may be added the bantamweight championship, for Eddie Keevin, manager of Jimmy Walsh, has been in communication with Nolan, and the latter has advised Keevin to go to England and match Walsh with Stanley. Walsh probably will accept.

Keevin advised Nolan to suggest Sam Langford as an opponent of Gunner Moir. Keevin has great faith in the negro's ability as a fighter, he and Walsh having trained Sam for several of his battles. Langford is one of the very best fighters in the world, and the only man who gave Joe Gans a decisive defeat.

Langford can fight anywhere from 12 pounds to 154, but has beaten heavyweights. He gave Jack Johnson and Joe Jeanette, both heavyweights, all they wanted in limited pound battles. Some say that he had the best of both goes. In his fifteen-pound fight with Gans he is said to have made the clever lightweight look like an amateur.

Attell has been in communication with promoters across the water, and there is little doubt but that the little champion would be glad of the chance to visit England. If the promoters bring up such large purses as they did at the Coronation carnival, there will be prizes worth scrapping for. Nolan is not the man to fight for a small amount of money, and it looks like big doings in Old England for the boxers.

SEASON OPENS ON SATURDAY.

NO MORE DELAYS FOR LOCAL BASEBALL FANS.

Prospects Are Bright and Manager Berry Will Start Off With a Big Automobile Parade—Oakland Club Will Arrive Here Tonight from Santa Barbara.

One more day and the baseball season of the Pacific Coast will be on, and the fans will soon have a chance to see just what the league is offering in the way of ball players for this year. The first game here will be played tomorrow afternoon at Chutes Park between the Los Angeles and Oakland teams, while San Francisco and Portland will meet at San Francisco.

The season promises to be a good one in every way, and Manager Berry of the local team will usher it in in an appropriate manner, with a big automobile parade tomorrow afternoon. This parade will leave the City Hall at 1 o'clock, and go down Broadway to Seventh street, then to Main street, then up Main to the Temple block and down Spring street to Seventh street, and on out to the Chutes grounds by Main street. A band will lead the procession. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

The Oakland team, which plays the first eight games here with the locals, will leave Santa Barbara this afternoon and will arrive late in the evening. The line-up for the opening game will be about as follows:

Los Angeles.		Oakland.
Hogan	pitcher	Reidy
Dillon	catcher	Hackett
Washear	first base	Bigbee
Smith	second base	Haley
Delmas	third base	Devereaux
Carlisle	short stop	Egan

DONLIN'S DEFECTION.

Theater Attracts Stellar Ball Player Who Says He Will Be Assistant Manager.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mike Donlin has quit the New York Giants and signed a contract as assistant manager of the Whitney Operahouse of this city. The deal was closed formally, tonight, and the player will take up his new duties at once.

"McGraw and I parted company last night in Louisville and I will not return to him," Donlin said, tonight, after the performances of "A Knight For a Day," in which Mrs. Donlin, known to the stage as Mabel Hite, takes a prominent part.

"Did you have a row with McGraw?" was asked.

"Well, things hadn't been going in a way to suit me and I spoke in pretty plain terms to McGraw. I guess—yes, you might say we had a row, but as I was indifferent about what he had to say, I did not care much what happened."

PLAN CEREMONY OF ROYAL BIRTH.

SPAIN'S HEIR TO BE GREETED BY FULL COURT.

Imperial Decree Gives Details of Elaborate Rites to Follow Coming Into World of Future Castilian Monarch—Etiquette Prescribes That Widest Publicity Be Given Event.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

MADRID, April 4.—The Royal Decree just issued with the details of the ceremony of the presentation of the heir to the Spanish throne at the moment of its birth, prescribes that the court officials shall be present, also the Ministers, the Presidents of the two chambers, the Knights of the Golden Fleece, the Captain General, the Commission of the Asturias and representatives of civil and military corporations. Members of the diplomatic corps will also be invited to attend the ceremony.

All of the customary decrees ordering a general amnesty, the release of the prisoners condemned for minor offenses and the bestowal of recompenses and decorations upon various persons have been prepared.

The decree directs attention to the remarkable publicity given in accordance with the etiquette of the Spanish court to the intimate affairs of the royal family. As soon as evident signs of approaching confinement are noticed those invited to attend the ceremony must hasten to the palace, the men attired in uniform and the women in court dress. They must wait in the ante-chamber until the infant is presented. With the least possible delay the baby is dressed and placed in a basket standing on a golden salver.

The King takes the basket, holding the child in his hands, and, followed by members of the royal family, enters the salon where the presentation ceremony is held, raising the veil over the infant's face the King says:

"I present to you my beloved son or daughter, the successor to the throne of Spain, the Prince or Princess, of the Asturias to whom my dear spouse has just given birth."

Then the Minister of Justice, as the principal notary of the realm, approaches and views the face of the child and all those invited file past. As soon as the presentation is ended a solemn Te Deum is sung in the royal chapel.

RESTORE COAL LANDS.

Fear of Prosecution Leads Corporations to Return Millions of Dollars of Federal Property.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, April 4.—A dispatch to the Record-Herald from Washington says that it was learned last night that the Harriman corporations, whose ramifications extend to coal lands and other vast interests in the Far West, are offering to restore to the government properties they have heretofore claimed as theirs by good and ample title. They prefer to do this rather than be prosecuted.

Coal lands in the aggregate of millions of dollars are to be restored to the public domain, as a result of the recent activities of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The commission several months ago set about to investigate the land frauds in Wyoming, Colorado and Utah.

As a result of its investigation the Department of Justice was given transcripts of testimony taken at Omaha, Salt Lake, Denver and Pueblo by Interstate Commerce Commissioners Prouty and Clark, and was directed by the President to prosecute in any cases where there was ground for prosecution.

"At the first suggestion of prosecution, however, the Union Pacific Coal Company has capitulated. It has made a proposition to the government that it will return a large area of Wyoming lands to which it admits its title is worthless. The government law officers are considering this proposition, and while final action has not been taken it was learned yesterday on the authority of men who have been conducting the investigation that it will probably be accepted, and the lands returned to the public domain.

It is understood on high government authority that the officers of the Department of Justice will give the Utah Fuel Company and the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company a chance to return the lands in the same manner, and that if they refuse prosecutions will be commenced at once.

The German Emperor, according to report, is soon to visit the Emperor of Austria at Vienna. The object of his visit, it is said, is to influence Francis Joseph to go to Rome, and thereby return the visit which the late King Humbert made to him. This visit has never been returned.

HAWAII FEARS YELLOW PERIL.

JAPANESE LABOR ONLY CAN BE CHEAPLY HAD.

Ruling by Secretary Bonaparte to Effect That Country Must Secure Labor from Europe Only Through Territory and Immigration Board May Lead to American Extinction.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

HONOLULU, March 26.—There is considerable doubt here as to the exact position of the Territory in regard to its supply of labor under the new treaty with Japan. A ruling has been made by Secretary Bonaparte to the effect that Hawaii must secure labor from Europe only through the Territory and its Board of Immigration. This means that the expenses for chartering steamers and paying the cost of the passage of immigrants, from Europe to Hawaii, must be provided for by the Legislature out of the Territorial funds. Hitherto, such funds have been supplied by the Planters' Association. This will no longer be allowed. The Legislature, however, may refuse to make any appropriations for such purposes, and there is considerable sentiment among the members in this direction. Should no provision be made for immigration purposes by the Legislature, then European immigration must be stopped. The necessary supply of labor, however, can still be procured from Japan; but those Japanese who are now coming here from the Orient, at the rate of 1000 a month, can no longer go to the Pacific Coast. They must remain here, and increase the already large Japanese population. There will be an abundant supply of labor for plantation work, but there will also be the added danger of an absolute extinction of Americanism in Hawaii. This danger has never confronted the Territory so alarmingly as it does today, and it is receiving the constant and earnest attention of Gov. Carter, Secretary Atkinson and the Board of Immigration.

Capt. Francke of the Great Northern Steamship Company's liner Dakota, which ran aground in Tokio Bay on the night of March 2, left Yokohama Wednesday on the Japanese steamer Tango for Seattle. He said before leaving that the accident to the Dakota was caused by the failure of the vessel to answer her helm owing to the influence of new currents. He had changed her course three times, but without avail.

COLLEGE BOY

Fond of Doughnuts and Pie, but Could Not "Keep in the Game" on Such Food.

One good thing about modern college athletics is that the young fellows learn some sense about food and what it is really for.

A thing may taste good, but may not be the thing to make clear brains, elastic muscles and "good wind."

A Mich. boy went in for sport, but soon found that there was something wrong with his food. He writes:

"During my school days I was fond of outdoor sport and excelled in nearly every game that I entered. It was just at my greatest growing period and I was springing up like a vine.

"The food I ate then soon proved to be unfit to sustain my growth and hard mental and physical work. I relished and ate pastry and used to eat hot doughnuts by the half dozen. I had starchy and greasy food pretty much all the time.

"Soon I became so weak I would have to eat during the middle of the night before I could go to sleep, (half starved because the undigested food eaten never became absorbed for strength.)

"My body was calling for nourishment that it could not get from the kind of food I ate. My stomach pained me and specialists pronounced my case severe intestinal indigestion.

"I tried everything imaginable in the way of different foods, but without avail. Finally I hit on Grape Nuts which I began to eat and relish, three times a day. Soon my stomach and bowels got all right and my natural sleep returned. Now I am hard at work every day and sound in health, which I owe largely to the advice in 'The Road to Wellville,' the little book in the pkgs." Name given by Postum Cereal Co., Battle Creek, Mich. ANOTHER CHANCE TO SHARE IN THE PROFITS FROM THE NEW WILLS PROCESS OF MAKING STEEL

We have just received word from the National Business Exchange of Washington, D. C., the financial agents of the Delaware and Lackawanna Steel Company of Oxford, N. J., stating that we have been selected as that company's Pacific Coast agents to place an additional small block of that company's stock at par value, $1 a share. This good news was received yesterday in a telegram. We are now pleased to state for the benefit of those who did not get in on the first allotment of this valuable stock, some because they delayed until the stock was taken off the market, and others because orders could not be filled because our supply of stock was exhausted, that we are again in readiness to fill orders for this stock from 25 to 1000 shares until our present block of shares is exhausted.

If you did not succeed in getting in on the other allotment, bring or send in your order now without delay. With orders that we already have on hand the supply of this stock will not last long, and remember that you, not us, will be the losers if you neglect your second opportunity to buy this stock now while the proposition is again open to you.

PROSPECTUS OF COMPANY

The Delaware and Lackawanna Steel Company is a corporation with a capitalization of $200,000, each share fully paid and non-assessable. It owns 4 1-2 acres of land and an immense foundry and machine shops situated at Oxford, N. J., one-fourth of a mile from some of the largest iron mines in New Jersey. Iron, you know, is the material from which all steel is made. This plant also has the advantage of being situated on railroad switches and is only 70 miles from New York City. The iron foundry has already been put into operation, and the steel plant, too, will be running to its full capacity by not later than May 1.

When the Delaware and Lackawanna Steel Company first secured the big steel plant, foundry and machine shops at Oxford, N. J., it was the intention of starting business with one big converter making 60,000 pounds of steel daily. A block of treasury stock was set aside and sold for the purpose of installing this immense piece of machinery, and for making other necessary improvements. We personally sold 5,000 shares of this stock at $1 a share to our Los Angeles and Southern California clients. Before this enormous steel converter could be built and installed the company's contracts had taken so many orders for steel that it found it would be impossible even with this big capacity to fill all of its orders within one year from the beginning of the first wheel. In order to pay for and install a second and possibly a third converter, which will increase the capacity and earning power of the plant two or three times over, it was found necessary to set aside an additional allotment of treasury stock to pay for the desired improvements. This is the stock that we are now giving you the opportunity to buy.

PATENTED PROCESS

The process that will be employed by the Delaware and Lackawanna Steel Company in making steel is a new patented process by which the cost is reduced one-fifth over old methods now in use. Edwin Cooper Wills, president of the Delaware and Lackawanna Steel Company, is the inventor of this process and he will have full charge of the company's plant at Oxford, N. J.

Steel as made by the Wills process is cast direct from the converters into the moulds, thereby saving all the heavy expense of rolling the steel after it is made and then forged into the desired forms.

BIOGRAPHY OF INVENTOR

Mr. Edwin Cooper Wills's experience in steel covers a period of 25 years. His apprenticeship was spent the first ten years with the Cambria Iron and Steel Co. of Johnstown, Pa., in the foundries, steel melting departments and mills. While there he introduced the Silica mould and Silica mould wash that made casting steel in sand moulds possible. The Silica mould and Silica mould wash is used today in all foundries where castings are made.

After leaving the Cambria Iron and Steel Co. Mr. Wills became identified with the Johnston works at Moxham, Pa., in their crucible steel foundry; also with Capt. Jones of the Carnegie Steel Company, Bessemer, above Pittsburgh, Pa.; later on in the West on open hearth and converter work.

Some six years ago Mr. Wills invented and patented the Wills steel converters, two of which have been running steel for the past four years most successfully, making what is conceded to be the best steel for all purposes—especially for steel castings.

Mr. Wills is known as one of the foremost engineers of the present day. Within the past three years among other plants and operations which he has designed and built, are the East River Electric Power Plant at Bluefield, W. Va., said to be one of the best and most complete plants to be found anywhere. Another is the Steel Monitor System for the Thacker Coal and Coke Company, at Thacker, W. Va. The Wills steel cars and elevators, for Carpenter & Boxley, on the Deep Water-Tidewater R. R.; more recently the Wills steel cable system for Dwyer & Son, Glen Lyn, W. Va., for the highest concrete pier bridge in the world; the bridge is two thousand four hundred feet long, for the Deep Water-Tidewater R. R.; also the Wills new steel cable sheave arrangement for the Oregon Coal Co., at Hemphill, W. Va.; all of the above without exception have proven the ability of Mr. Wills in all his undertakings, as well as the confidence placed in him by those with whom he does business.

BIG OFFERS REFUSED

Four times capitalists have offered enormous amounts for the control of the valuable Wills patents, but the company will not dispose of them, preferring to hold the control themselves and give the public a chance to share in the enormous profits that will be made out of an invention that is considered one of the most important in years. Steel is being used more and more in the construction of office buildings, subways, in battleships and hundreds of other places where lumber was formerly used. Steel railroad ties are now being made while steel street cars are also being built for several railroads in New York. Steel baggage cars are now in use on the Erie Railroad, and other railroads are preparing to install them for the reason that they are safer, more durable and less easily wrecked as compared with the old wooden baggage cars. Eventually, big contractors say, steel will be used exclusively in the construction of giant office buildings, churches, postoffices and other structures. Already in New York City steel ceilings and floors are being built in big structures.

The cost of steel in place of lumber is practically the same, while steel is more durable, and the only building material that is absolutely fire and earthquake proof. The scarcity of lumber is another boom in the demand for steel as material for building purposes.

ENORMOUS PROFITS FROM STEEL

When you invest in this company you are putting your money where it will earn money from the start, and at the same time be invested in the manufacture of a product that is more in demand than any other in the world; a product for which the demand is increasing daily. The capacity of every steel plant in the country is now being tested to its utmost capacity to fill the orders on hand, and many of them are more than six months behind with their orders.

This company not only has the advantage of beginning business with big contracts for steel on hand, but it does not owe one dollar in the world. It owns its own big plant at Oxford, N. J. With a low capitalization of only $200,000 there is absolutely no limit to the amount of dividends the company can pay those who are the fortunate stockholders. All of those who saw the advisability of linking their small fortunes with Carnegie when he first went into the steel business are now rich. Those who have the good judgment to join with this company and Edwin Cooper Wills, the inventor of this new process which revolutionizes steel making, should do the same.

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS

The men back of this company besides Mr. Wills are some of the best known business of New York City. John Henry Hurlbutt, secretary and treasurer, was for years the senior member of the firm of Hurlbutt & Hatch, brokers and bankers, members of the New York Stock Exchange. Haverly Brooks Swart, vice-president, is a banker formerly connected with the firm of Redmond & Co., Bankers, New York City. Leslie C. Hillard, another director, is a former contracting agent for several big steel corporations of New York. Henry A. Ingram, director and attorney of this company, is one of the best known lawyers of New York City.

GET YOUR ORDER IN EARLY

We personally are heavy stockholders in the Delaware & Lackawanna Steel Company, and thoroughly indorse it as a safe, sure and big money earner for those who get in now. We are not only advising our customers to buy as heavily of these steel securities as they possibly can, but we are advising our friends to do likewise.

FABULOUSLY HE REVEALS PLAN.

PRESIDENT LEARNS SCHEME TO KILL HIS HOPES.

Many Men Opposed to Him and Much of Their Programme, Executive Takes Field in Support of Policies and Relies Upon Publicity to Win.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President Roosevelt has taken the field openly against the combination of corporations and rich men who are charged by him with a conspiracy to defeat his policies by controlling the national conventions next year. He is out to fight and he wants the country to know it. He is convinced that an underhanded campaign has already been started by the other side to get in the White House as his successor a man who will serve the interests and not the people. But the President has more to base his charges upon than the mere suggestions of such men as Harriman and others similar to his most public-spirited critics. He has information which can be questioned that the plotters have perfected their organization and are at work with such promise of success as gives them encouragement, in a way the President found this week sensational and interesting in the extreme. There was recently given out, whether in Washington or New York the President has not said. Those present included many of the leading stock manipulators and corporation magnates of the United States, with several politicians.

WINE BETRAYS SCHEME.

Curiously, one of them, Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, talked. He told of the plans that had been formed and of the work already accomplished. He told how a fund of $5,000,000 had already been raised to defeat the administration forces in the coming Presidential fight. More money would be forthcoming if it were needed. Several of the men present had not been taken into the confidence of the plotters. Senator Penrose, it is said, explained to them the purpose and force of the movement.

Among the men to whom Penrose explained was one who believes in the President, and what he had done, and is doing to defeat the President.

The President knows exactly who the diners were, knows what was said, and is fully informed respecting the intentions of those who have formed the combination against him and the means by which they expect to carry out their schemes.

KNOWS DANGER IS REAL

Because he knows the danger is real and not fancied he is determined to start the fight at once to prevent the American people from being led astray. The success of the reactionaries the President would look upon as the defeat of all his policies. It is known at the White House that one of the plans contemplated in order to accomplish the defeat of Roosevelt policies is to encourage the idea that he is candidate for a third term and have delegations instructed for him. These delegations will not be committed as to a second choice. The manipulators know Roosevelt will not run, and the delegations which otherwise would have been for Taft or some other candidate who believed in the President's policies could then be thrown to a reactionary candidate.

The President has made no effort to conceal his belief that Taft more than any other man in public life represents the views and purposes which he himself upholds. He is prepared to do battle for the continuation of his policies, because he believes these policies are for the best interests of the country, and at the same time he holds that Taft is the one man who can be relied upon to carry out these policies and to make certain to the country a continuation of the great work which he himself has started.

KNOX IS HIS OPPONENT.

Against Taft the candidate of the reactionaries has not been named, but it is believed here that Senator Knox is regarded most favorably. This would account for the general understanding that Senator Penrose is identified with the anti-Presidential movement, and that he is the man who unintentionally betrayed the secrets of the combination.

There are explanations given of why Penrose did this, which are not at all complimentary to the Senator. Whether they are true or not, it is a fact that the President understands Penrose was in the movement to defeat him, and that it was due to Penrose's garrulity that he now is so well informed of what the anti-administration leaders are plotting.

OVERPLAY SITUATION.

No combination of powerful financial and political influence apparently has ever so badly overplayed its hand in an effort to overthrow a popular idol of the people. Whatever the popular impression may be on the subject, the men who have combined to defeat the Presidential policies bank on the belief that the President will not accept the nomination if it is tendered him. For this reason one hears much of a third-term candidacy for the Presidency. Every eastern newspaper inimical to the President has again raised the third-term cry. It is declared that the President really wants the nomination and knows that the way to get it is to pretend that he is not seeking it. It is thoroughly understood at the White House that there is nothing genuine in the effort to force delegations on the President in a number of States.

'It is part of the anti-Roosevelt plot. In States where there are favorite sons this plan can be successfully worked, but in other States where there are no available candidates the opposition to the President expects to work the "Roosevelt delegation" scheme. This scheme is to send delegates to the national convention instructed for the President, but unpledged for second choice. In the popular enthusiasm for the President throughout the West this will be an easy role to play.

HOW THE PLAN WORKS.

Minnesota is a State where the President's popularity is at its height. South Dakota is another and Nebraska and Kansas both are strong Administration States. It will be the plan in all these States unless publicity kills the scheme, for the anti-Roosevelt interests to encourage sending delegations instructed for the President. The conspirators count upon fooling the genuine Roosevelt supporters.

It should only be necessary to consider what interests and politicians are continually asserting that the President ought to have another nomination to unmask the plan. There may be here and there exceptions, but broadly speaking there is not a Senator or a Representative known to be on confidential terms with the President, who is urging the selection of Roosevelt delegations to the national convention.

There isn't anywhere a politician who has sustained confidential relations with the President who is urging his candidacy for a third term. Nowhere is there a newspaper printed which has consistently supported the President and his policies which is advocating a third term. The third-term candidacy is to be found only in the columns of newspapers secretly or openly opposed to the President. In every Western State there are politicians who have never liked the President, but who have supported his policies because they did not dare do otherwise. Protesting the supremest loyalty to the President, they respond with sly winks and nods when asked whether the President will accept a third term.

THINKS HE WILL NOT ACCEPT.

They believe he will not do it. Harriman thinks he will not accept, and so does Fairbanks, Cannon and Knox, and all other Presidential aspirants. And counting on the fact that the President cannot again be induced to make the race, these politicians in States which are known to be overwhelmingly for Roosevelt, are seeking to have delegations elected and instructed for him, but to be given no second choice instructions.

With the President declining to accept the nomination, the manipulators would have an easy time controlling delegations not further bound by instructions, and probably personally antagonistic to the "Roosevelt policies."

PRESIDENT KNOWS THIS PLOT.

The public has but an indefinite conception of the sources of White House information. The scheme to defeat the President through the election in certain States of delegations instructed for him has long been understood by the President and his friends. It is this duplicity which has incensed the President as much as the knowledge of the financial combinations made against him. While this is plain in such States as Michigan, Kansas, Minnesota and Nebraska and South Dakota, there is different schemes being worked in the Southern States. Here there will be contesting delegations from every State which attempts to declare for any candidate committed to "Roosevelt's policies." The plan has already revealed itself in Alabama, Louisiana and Texas. The favorite son game is of course an old one in American politics. It has been worked in every contested campaign for a nomination of all political parties, and it is to be utilized again. But the politicians and financiers who have hatched the scheme to overthrow the President's policies are destined to a rude awakening.

Theodore Roosevelt is today America's best politician. He will not run from a fight. His weapon is publicity. He believes that when the American people know all the facts there will be no danger of the Republican party taking a step backward.

HARRIMAN IS DISGUSTED.

WANTS CONTROVERSY ENDED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 4:—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When E. H. Harriman was asked about the latest report from Washington that a $5,000,000 fund had been created by New York capitalists to defeat all of the Rooseveltian policies, he turned away with a show of disgust, saying: "I won't say a word about it."

Today Harriman made a statement relative to the exchange of correspondence between the President and himself:

"I do not intend to continue this controversy. Everybody knows that the contest for the Senatorship in 1904 was between Messrs. Black and Depew, and there could not possibly have been any other candidate. There was no bargain whereby money was to be raised in consideration of having Depew appointed Ambassador to France or made United States Senator, and my letter to Webster does not so state. That part of the agreement was for the purpose of harmonizing the Black-Depew forces if necessary."

PUT THE BLAME ON PRESIDENT.

CHEVY CHASE CLUB REJECTION EXECUTIVE'S FAULT.

Perry Belmont and Friends Also Claim Thomas Nelson Page Had to Do With Keeping Him Out of Washington Social Body—Roosevelt Receives Reports of His Criticisms.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Perry Belmont and his friends place the responsibility for his rejection for membership in the fashionable Chevy Chase Club upon President Roosevelt. The rejection of Belmont is the society sensation of the year, and has already resulted in the formation of two factions. Thomas Nelson Page, the author, too, is blamed by Belmont's friends for taking a very active part in preventing his being elected a member of the club.

Of the fourteen governors of the club, twelve voted for the admission of Belmont, and when it was found that two, A. S. Worthington, a local attorney, and Gen. Wallace Randolph, formerly Chief of Artillery of the army, but now on the retired list, would vote against his admission, his friends withdrew the name and it will come up at a later date. The two "blackballs" necessary to reject, however, were cast.

Belmont told a close personal friend here today before leaving for New York, that he had no doubt the President's friends were "laying for him," and that the blackballing incident of the Chevy Chase Club afforded the first chance they had been offered to get even with him.

Belmont's opinion and frequent criticism of the President is given as the reason why the President has been anxious to assert himself in return. It is well known in New York that Belmont has been outspoken in caustic criticism of the President, and any number of reports reached the latter respecting what Belmont was saying about him. It is even said that reports came all the way from France, where the Belmonts recently were, that Belmont, when asked for his opinion of the President, said: "I don't believe he's sincere."

After this, access to the White House was denied the Belmonts, and the President's friends are said to have awaited their chance. It came when the Belmonts filed their applications at Chevy Chase. It was then that Brig.-Gen. Wallace Randolph and A. S. Worthington, both close personal friends of the President, stepped in and offered the two "black balls" necessary to rejection.

The antagonism of Thomas Nelson Page to Belmont is said to be that more than ten years ago Page wrote an article against what he regarded as the wrong doings of New York society. He is opposed to the New York "smart set," and makes no secret of his dislike of the Perry Belmonts.

TO PRISON FOR LIFE.

the jail entrance, if possible. In this they would have been disappointed, because it is a rule at the jail that the night guards, when they start on their rounds, shall leave the outside door keys in the safe in the office.

When two officers, instead of one appeared, the criminals hoped to overpower both. Deputy Jailer Gallagher was first to reach their door, and he waited for Norrell, because there is a rule which forbids the opening of that particular door unless two officers are there. The moment the door was opened the officers saw the prisoners loose in the corridor. As Fleenor approached with a long iron bar uplifted to brain them. Norrell began shooting. The criminals immediately surrendered.

As soon as Sheriff Hammel arrived yesterday morning he ordered that complaints for jail-breaking be filed against the prisoners and Dist.-Atty. Fredericks issued them. Whatever may be the outcome of the trials of the men, these plaints will hang over them, and if they are acquitted on other charges, they will be prosecuted for their murderous attack upon the officers.

Borne will be placed on trial today in the Superior Court on a charge of burglary with a prior conviction. He is a Chicago man, not a mulatto as has been reported, and has served one term in San Quetin for burglary.

Fleenor is the "barefoot" burglar. After having confessed his guilt to fifty-seven burglaries, he pleaded not guilty in the Superior Court. He is to be tried within a few weeks.

A dispatch from Rome says that fifty yards of the exterior wall of the Vatican collapsed Wednesday. The fall of the wall destroyed the courtyard Della Zittella. It was planted with orange trees and was the favorite promenade of Pope Leo XIII.

HURLED TWENTY FEET BY CAR.

FATHER, MOTHER AND BABY ARE NEAR DEATH.

Rapidly-Moving Inter-Urban Car and Buggy in Collision at Strawberry Park—Baby Is Disentangled from Wreckage Unhurt—Parents Sustained Severe Injuries.

In a collision between a buggy and an in-bound Inter-Urban electric car at Strawberry Park last night, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Kleinmyer of Sunnyside station were injured, and their infant son escaped death almost by a miracle. Twenty feet from the débris of the carriage the baby was found by a passenger on the car, while the crew was disentangling Mr. and Mrs. Kleinmyer from the wreckage. They were taken to the Receiving Hospital here.

"My wife cried to me that the car was upon us," said Kleinmyer, when he was at the hospital. "We had been to one of my farms near Wilmington, and were returning home. When my wife told me of our danger, I looked up just in time to see the electric car a few feet away. There was no headlight on the car that I saw. In an effort to escape the danger, I struck the horse, and that is all I remember until I came to my senses on board the car."

It was learned that San Pedro car No. 156 was running at a high rate of speed, and that the buggy was immediately upon the tracks when the collision occurred. Both the motorman and Kleinmyer saw the danger when it was too late to avert it.

When the crash came Kleinmyer was thrown to one side of the right-of-way, his wife was hurled along the tracks with the wreck of the vehicle, and the baby was tossed from its mother's arms for some distance, but escaped injury. The crew assisted the passengers in carrying the injured on board the electric car.

At the hospital it was found that beside some severe bruises and several slight scratches, Mrs. Kleinmyer had sustained a fracture of the right shoulder blade. She was removed to the women's ward. Kleinmeyer was injured about the body and his head was scratched and cut. No injury was sustained by the baby.

Kleinmyer returned to Sunnyside with his child late last night.

DESCRIBES EARTHQUAKE.

American Missionary Tells of Terrible Tembler Which Shook Bitlis Like Dog Would Prey.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 4.—The following dispatch was received here today from the Rev. Roy T. Lee, head of the American mission at Bitlis:

"At 10 o'clock, in the forenoon of March 29, there burst upon us unannounced the worst earthquake witnessed in forty years in these or the Erzeroun volcanic regions.

"Such was its force that our city seemed to be in the jaws of some monster who would shake us into shreds as a mastiff does his game. Down came the plastering, and the furniture was overturned. Cracks were opened in strong walls, roofs were shattered and rain poured in. During the first day there were fourteen shocks, and they still continue. There have been altogether twenty-eight shocks.

"Of the 4000 houses here over 300 have fallen, and the remainder have been seriously damaged, about $50 to $500 being needed to repair each house.

"The official report shows that eight persons were killed by falling walls, but they are all unknown in Bitlis. Many persons were wounded, and many churches and government buildings were damaged. The surrounding villages sustained heavy shocks, but it was in the day time, so that there was no great loss of life.

"The foreigners at Bitlis are the Russian Consul, Charlotte E. Ely, Mary A. Ceceley, Royal M. Cole and Miss Nellie A. Cole.

"Famine prices prevail, and there is great poverty and extreme suffering."

Paris Physician Gets Revenge.

A Paris physician with Whistlerian ideas lately sued a patient to recover f.2000 for a surgical operation. The court reduced the bill to f.500, whereupon the doctor forwarded to his patient a receipted bill for f.2000 francs, with a note saying:

"Permit me to abate the total honorarium claimed of you. The court has shown me that many consider you a pauper."

With still further refinement of delicacy the doctor kept a copy of his note, which he is showing to his friends. The patient regrets he did not settle the bill in full.

The race is not always to the swift.

The fast colors are those that won't run.

We are showing some Blue Serges that our Resident English buyer has sent us from the mills of Martin & Sons. They are wool dyed. The yarn is made from pure wool, is soaked for 48 hours in indigo. Each shred of each thread of this Blue Serge is absolutely and unfadably blue. It is not dyed in the piece—dyed after the wool has been made into yarn and the yarn woven into cloth. The blue is as much a part of this Serge as the color of your eyes is a part of your optics.

Suits made from this Blue Serge —$40.

BLAZE OF C... M...

"SUPERB!" said city society, seing the Shrine Society Sircus.

Battling their way through the one narrow entrance to the big show at Fiesta Park, nearly five thousand persons witnessed the premier performance last night of the best aggregation of clowns and performers ever gathered from the fashionable homes of a great city.

With a snap and a dash and a go, not to be looked for in amateurs, the first of the four entertainments of this week went through to a successful conclusion.

Gay with banners and bunting, shimmering in a thousand lights, with thousands of handsomely-dressed women melting away in tiers (not tears,) that seemed to reach to the blue sky above, the interior of the big tent was a mass of color and life long before the hour set for the opening of the main performance.

That brilliant spectacle alone was worth the price of admission. It carried you into the realms of fancy that your imagination has conjured up as the abode of fun and frolic. It was just like Nemo-land, without the fall out of bed.

There was a circusy smell in the air as far away as Seventh street and Broadway. The munching of peanuts could be heard on Crown Hills. The illuminated camel perched at the corner of the grounds was visible for many blocks, and the notes of the calliope screamed their way into the ears of people miles away.

YOU JOSTLE IN.

But you had to jam your way through a jostling horde of thousands outside and inside the grounds before this lovely vision of an interior greeted your eyes.

The four sides of the main tent were two stories deep in color, backed by the dress suits of the Shriners, many hundreds of them, in red fez and each with a captive balloon sailing skyward from his coat lapel.

Down below was the sawdust ring, with platforms and a smaller ring inside.

Up against the roof of the tent stuck scores of varicolored balloons that had broken away from their moorings and bobbed against the ceiling like soap bubbles that wouldn't burst.

Without a single turn, the feast of lights and color would have been enough to please almost any fancy.

It was just like a real circus from the time the grounds were entered at Twelfth street and Grand avenue, until the last notes of the concert after the big show had died way, the lights were snuffed out, and the roars of the beasts in the menagerie heralded a spell of repose for the performers.

Unlike the circus of one-night stands, the canvas did not come tumbling down about the heads of the audience as it departed. For this show is to last two more days, during which three performances will be given.

NO SHORT CHANGE.

Under the flickering torches at the main entrance to the grounds stood the familiar ticket wagon of the old days; only this was a big red moving van, impressed into service in the absence of the gold-and-red wagons of other circuses.

In place of the short-change artists of the other days, were Shriners Ed W. Gillett and Bill Hamaker, who passed out the pasteboards to the strings of patrons that began somewhere east of Broadway and emptied into the menagerie, for you had to see the animals before you saw the big show.

If any short-change work was done it never was mentioned. Besides, the money all goes to the good cause of entertaining the thousands and thousands of Shriners who are coming here in May for the Fiesta and for their own big doings.

And there you saw Al Levy and Fred Silverwood and Louie Spruance barking the attractions of the fat lady and the Siamese twins, and all the other natural and unnatural exhibits in the side show.

You didn't have to be informed that it was a side show. Manager Rouse's banners told the story, as no spoken words could have painted them. Any one who ever in the dim and misty past of boyhood gazed in wonderment at the marvelous things shown on the flapping banners thought he knew what was in store behind the free Punch and Judy show on the outside.

But he was mistaken. The painted canvas failed to reveal, one-half, even of the half lady. The other half that the signs failed to tell will be found in other part of this account.

Also the wonders of the menagerie, of which Shriner D. C. McGarvin was menanager, is described elsewhere, for we must hasten into the big tent.

PEANUT SHRILLS.

These shrill cries we hear; are they of children in distress? Or is some one sticking a hot poker into the ear of the musical pig? Ah, no! Chief Concessionaire Nightingale, who does not bark like one, is hawking peanuts and cigars, and Shriner John Burr, Arthur Perry and about a million others are helping him. And Fred Hines, his fairy form hidden beneath the folds of a Chinaman's garb and his face unrecognizable in yellow paint, is selling balloons.

As soon as Fred Hines sells the last of his balloons, they tell us that the show will begin.

And now we hear a shrill whistle, the faraway music of a band; the curtains in the east side of the big tent part, and the grand entry is made.

Then the wonder is that the colors in that gay audience could have attracted attention.

For here, spreading over the wide expanse of sawdust, unrolls a picture that only a master artist with a thousand and paint pots could bring into being. (This is laying it on pretty thick, but the Shriners will stand for it.)

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The crew of Engine Company No. 1 on the East Side has been cited to appear before the Fire Board and show why they shall not be dismissed from the force for playing poker in the engine house while on duty.

Mayor Harper has held for further investigation the ordinance creating two places as police surgeon at the Police Station; also the latest modification of the billboard ordinance.

Despite the request of the boy's mother that he be sent to Whittier, Judge Wilbur decided yesterday to give James Jackson another chance and continued the case against him.

Girdina Horton, a notorious character who has been repeatedly charged with horse stealing, sought to impoverish his mother by inducing her to sell her property to get him an attorney, but Judge Smith appointed an attorney for him.

Managers of the East Side Athletic Club, where pugilists are trained, were in the Police Court yesterday, charged with dispensing booze without the necessary formality of having secured a license.

The three Police Court justices collected more than $10,000 in fines during the past month.

AT THE CITY HALL.

FREEZE-OUT FOR FIREMEN.

PLAYED POKER IN ENGINE HOUSE "FOR FUN."

Now Commissioner Schwamm Has Them on the Carpet and They're All Willing to Pass the Deal—Hearing for Six Thursday—Mayor Holds Up Bill-Posting Ordinance.

Commissioner Schwamm lifted the lid off the fire department yesterday and almost the whole crew of Engine Company No. 1 bubbled out of the caldron. Capt. Grotsinger escaped; his men enabled him to prove an alibi—besides it was said to be his first offense.

Battalion Chief Casey reported the crew for playing poker in the enginehouse. Schwamm grew almost hysterical when he learned it was an East Side company.

"Mayor, this is awful!" he exclaimed, "over on the East Side, too, the best part of town, and right next door to the Police Station. I move we suspend them and send them all to jail."

Chief Lips suggested in a mildly frigid tone that the crew would probably prove more valuable to the city in the engine-house than in the jail, especially as there are no names on the eligible list for successors.

Lieut. Davis of the ill-fated company got up and, with a clean breast of the whole affair, he said he wanted to get it off his conscience.

Schwamm didn't believe in State's evidence; he wanted to suspend them all, beginning with the Lieutenant. Davis evidently expects to be disciplined, probably dismissed, as he was in charge of the house at the time complaint was made; but he was very careful not to incriminate his captain or the policemen of the substation next door.

"The men did play poker for money in the engine-house and I played with them," said Davis. "I knew it was against the rules, but they had the upper hand and dragged me in."

"I guess they kept the upper hand after they got you in, too," interjected Schwamm.

"Some time ago we started to play freeze-out for fun. Some of the boys were so reckless with their chips that the others suggested a 10-cent ante. I stayed in.

"A few nights after that they started another game; this was while the captain was away and I was in charge. I said that this must stop, that it was against the rules.

"'You can't do anything; you were in it, too. I'd like to see you report us,' replied one of the boys. Right then I saw I was in the wrong. I thought the best thing would be to get transferred to some other house, where I could start in right; so I applied to the Chief for a transfer, telling him my wife was sick."

"Then your wife was not sick at all; you lied to me when you asked for the transfer," interrupted Chief Lips.

"Yes, Chief, I lied to you in order to get away from that house; but it didn't do any good; you wouldn't let me go."

Davis said that the time named in the complaint was on the evening that Capt. Grotsinger was off. He could not say of his own knowledge that his captain knew poker was played for money in the house. He admitted that play had taken place while the captain was there, but the captain did not take a hand.

Battalion Chief Casey said that he could produce witnesses to testify that right after the last pay day the game continued all night and that one fireman went out and borrowed $10 of a friendly policeman to keep in the game.

"Yes, and if a fire had broken out they would have stayed there to cash in and let her burn," added Schwamm. "I move they all be suspended and sent to jail."

Lieut. Davis named two members of the crew that never have taken a hand in the games. These and the captain of the company were excused. Davis and five of his fellows were ordered to appear before the board next Thursday and show cause why they shall not be dismissed from the department.

MAYOR HESITATES.

A DOUBTING THOMAS.

Mayor Harper is not displaying any especial haste to sign the latest effusions of the Council. He has not yet been convinced that property owners in the residence districts have not some rights, as well as the bill-posting trust; also, he fails to appreciate the advantages that will accrue from a Siamese twin as police surgeon.

These two ordinances he segregated yesterday from the bulk of the Council miscellany and laid aside for further investigation. Although but three months in office, he has grown wary of expressing an opinion in advance of his action on a public document; but he has notified several Councilmen, quietly, that he would like to confer with them in his private office. There are a number of things to be arranged before the Mayor will agree to the Republican programme of two police surgeons.

The Chief Executive looks with evident disfavor on the latest amendment to the bill-board ordinance, but Councilmen predict that he will yet be about to their way of thinking before the end of the week. They have implicit confidence in the ability of the bill-posting trust to take care of its own.

CONCRETE INSPECTOR.

OSBORNE SUCCEEDS HELLMAN.

J. J. Backus, Superintendent of Buildings, has appointed Raymond G. Osborne inspector of reinforced concrete construction, vice Irving Hellman, resigned. The appointment was made from the civil-service list, the appointee having passed the highest percentage in the examinations held for the place. Inspector Osborne received his technical training in the engineering department of Stanford University. He has made a specialty of cement testing and cement work and he stands well with prominent engineers and architects, by many of whom he has been employed since leaving college, for testing cement and overseeing cement and concrete work. Inspector Osborne has had much practical work, having acted for the county in superintending the construction of cement bridges. During the absence of Mr. Hellman on his vacation last fall Mr. Osborne performed the duties of the position under Mr. Backus.

New Cement Inspector.

Raymond G. Osborne is now wearing the spurs as reinforced concrete inspector that he won in the civil service competition. Mr. Osborne secured a high rating in an examination that was exceptionally difficult. Yesterday Building Inspector Backus rewarded his diligence by appointing him concrete inspector, to succeed Irving Hellman. The salary is $150 a month.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

GIVES BAD BOY ANOTHER CHANCE

COURT REFUSES TO SEND HIM TO WHITTIER.

James Jackson, Who Lost His Arm in the Detention Home, Is Not Considered as Bad by Judge Wilbur as His Mother Would Have It Appear.

James Joseph Jackson, a small boy with a frightful record of juvenile crime, was brought before Judge Wilbur again yesterday afternoon. His mother, Mrs. Luther, who also has been Mrs. Miller since she ceased to be Mrs. Jackson through process of law, was present to ask the judge to send her son to Whittier. Judge Wilbur, however, who showed by his comments on the case that he considered it one of unfortunate influences rather than one of inherent criminal tendency, continued the matter for one week, and "Teddy" Jackson was returned to the Detention Home.

It appears that in the course of a long struggle to regenerate a boy whose brightness and good disposition made him well worth saving, the authorities have been hampered by the action of Mrs. Luther, or Mrs. Miller, for while she was Mrs. Jackson all had been well with the boy.

Two years ago young Jackson, then 12 years of age, and spoken of as "the prettiest boy that ever came into the Juvenile Court," lost an arm while an inmate of the Detention Home. He was playing marbles with some other boys near the entrance to the old jail, where a rusting iron stairway stood precariously in position. The boy reached under the stairway for a marble, and the mass of iron crashed down upon his arm.

Already, at that time, James Jackson's forbidding record was partly formed, by stealing a jar of pennies from a lodger, and thereafter he added sundry burglaries and other serious offenses to the roll of sad dishonor.

Judge Wilbur had placed him upon probation during his minority, calling forth a bitter protest from the mother, who yesterday asked that the boy be sent to the reformatory. At other times she opposed the purposes of the Juvenile Court for his regeneration.

"I want him sent to Whittier to be developed," the mother told the court, after emotionally kissing her child in what she supposed was to be a long farewell.

It was thought, however, that the bright little fellow was developed too well already in certain ways. An effort is to be made to find a place for him which will offer better opportunities for development than Whittier could give.

HEARTLESS HORSE THIEF.

WOULD IMPOVERISH MOTHER.

Girdine Horton, who several times has gained a continuance of his trial for grand larceny by stating that he had not succeeded in securing an attorney, was compelled to confess yesterday that he was depending on his mother, who has a little ranch near Calabasas, to raise money to pay an attorney to defend him.

Judge Smith rebuked the culprit sternly, and appointed an attorney to defend him.

Horton is charged with horse stealing, and is supposed to be one of a gang that has been stealing horses in bunches and selling them in Los Angeles. He has been under arrest several times before for horse stealing. On one occasion, three years ago, he varied what is said to be his usual custom, by buying a horse on credit, by means of misrepresentation, selling it the same day. The matter was "squared" by the employer of Horton's young son paying the dealer for the horse and letting the boy work out the sum at $6 per month.

CHARGE DISMISSED.

MAX TIECK GOES FREE.

The preliminary examination of Max Tieck, a pastry cook, on a charge of threats to kill his wife and daughter, resulted in the dismissal of the charge yesterday by Justice Stephens.

The alleged threats resulted from the old German's dislike of certain suitors for his daughter's hand, who persisted in calling on the girl at her mother's apartment-house on Seventh street, in spite of the paternal displeasure. From frowning upon them he came to terrifying them with a display of ponderous Teutonic wrath, driving them from the house. Finally, it was alleged, he vented his anger upon wife and daughter, uttering threats.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

SPRING-STREET LEASE. J. B. Stockdale, who has charge of the rental department for R. A. Rowan & Co., testifying yesterday in the trial of the quiet-title suit of the United Merchants' Realty and Improvement Company against B. F. Gardener, admitted that a bond is not required in every case from lessees of premises in the business district. "I use my judgment in almost all cases," he said. The suit against Gardener, who had opened negotiations for the renewal of his lease on a part of the building at the southeast corner of Spring and Third streets before the plaintiff in the action, is based largely on the fact that Gardener had given no bond.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER [illegible] suit to recover $350 from N. E. Devers, whose trial on a charge of embezzling that amount while Street Superintendent of Redondo, is set for April 23, has been filed by the city of Redondo for trial in the Superior Court.

SUIT FOR ALIENATION. A suit for $50,000 damages, brought by Edward Lefevre against J. Frank Stanley, was on trial yesterday in Department Three of the Superior Court. The complaint charged that Stanley had alienated the affections of Mrs. Lefevre from her husband. Stanley, on the witness stand, admitted intimacy with Mrs. Lefevre, which, he said, had begun before her marriage. He asserted that his relations with her were resumed only after she had written to him from Wichita, Kan., that she was separated from her husband, and asking him to send her money to return to California. She came, and her husband with her. Stanley declares he has no money to pay a judgment with if it were given against him.

WANTS DIVORCE AND PROPERTY. Adam Hahn, an old soldier, aged 73, and much bent and worn, was in Department Seven of the Superior Court yesterday, seeking divorce from his wife, whom he married in February, 1904. He stated that his wife had made constant efforts, after the marriage, to induce him to deed to her a lot, valued at $3000, which he owned. Finally, April 22, 1905, he granted her request, and that day she deserted him. Several months ago Hahn filed suit for for divorce, but when the case came to trial it was shown that Mrs. Hahn had returned to her husband and lived with him three days within the year preceding. This lost him his suit. The present suit failed, because it was brought within a year of the trial of the previous one. Hahn must try again.

STURDEVANT LOSES. Judgment for the defendant was rendered yesterday by Judge Bordwell in the case of D. M. Sturdevant vs. Birnbaum Bros., jewelers. The case was an action for the recovery of notes and mortgages given by Sturdevant to cover the alleged peculations of Albert R. Sturdevant, who, while employed by the jewelry firm, was prosecuted on a charge of having stolen various articles of value.

ILLEGAL LIQUOR CASE BREWING.

East Side "Athletic" Club in Court Because Owner Ward Sells Liquor Without License — Ten French Toughs Plead Guilty—Much Money from Court Fines.

The entire time of Justice Chambers's court was taken up yesterday with the "blind pig" case of Fred Ward, charged with illegally selling liquor at the East Side "Athletic" Club place, beyond the end of the Downey-avenue car line. There was a large number of witnesses and spectators present when the case was called in the morning, and they were there again in the afternoon, and will come back today, for a jury was not secured until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Luther Brown appeared for Ward, and Guy Eddie for the prosecution.

There was considerable trouble in securing a jury, quite a number of men being excused for bias and prejudice and some for sickness, but the required number of men was finally sworn in, the names being as follows:

L. Apffel, M. Cole, A. T. Webley, J. H. Wideman, C. L. Seals, G. Heyser, V. L. Carroll, B. F. Uglow, A. H. Armsrong, L. E. Gould, D. J. Moody and A. J. Erskine.

Ward is charged by A. A. Green with, on January 25, carrying on the business of retail liquor seller without having a license.

The only witness examined was B. C. Weigel, who was a private detective on January 25 when he visited the East Side club in company with his brother and two women. While there that night they had eight rounds of beer and whisky, for which they paid $4.50. The case will doubtless be bitterly contested.

Toughs Convicted.

Fifteen Frenchmen from the tenderloin part of the city, who were arrested on charges of vagrancy, appeared in Justice Fredericksen's court yesterday and ten of them pleaded guilty and five pleaded not guilty. One of the sixteen arrested was absent on account of sickness. The entire lot will come into court again Saturday morning, the guilty for sentence, and the others for trial.

Minnie Wants Pin.

Minnie Cote, a young lady who is employed in the Fifth Street Store, was in the Police Court yesterday on the charge of petty larceny, and entered a plea of not guilty. It seems from the story in the case that about two months ago she found a breastpin that is said to belong to a Miss Martinis, who lives near Miss Cote. The latter refused to give up the pin and was arrested for having it. She will be tried Monday.

Justices Coin Money.

The three Justice Courts did a land-office business last month and turned in more money than in any previous month in their history. The total was $10,117 from 1272 cases. Justice Chambers turned in $7042 from 553 cases, and the greater part of his money was collected from the 252 women caught in the recent raid of the crib district. Justice Rose had $1619 and Justice Frederickson $1456.

Wake Is Costly.

H. Dasso, L. Hawtrew and F. Howbrey, three young boys about 20 years of age, were fined $10 each by Justice Frederickson yesterday for disturbing the peace. Several nights ago they started to a "wake" that was to be held over the remains of a dead friend and while passing through the crib district broke a window and smashed in a door of a house.

HAMBLE NON-SUITED.

Judge Wellborn Terminates Conductor's Action for Damages—Salt Lake Railroad Is Sued.

The damage suit of Conductor Mark B. Hamble against the Santa Fé Company was finally non-suited in the United States Circuit Court yesterday.

The case has been long in litigation, and bore several peculiar features.

Hamble was a Southern Pacific conductor, but the track near tunnel 4, Mojave division, has been used jointly by the Southern Pacific and Santa Fé systems, the Southern Pacific maintaining road control.

Hamble was in his caboose, and a train crashed into his while shouded in tunnel darkness. Hamble made his case against the Santa Fé, operating this train.

The action was first brought in the Superior Court, and on petition of the corporation was transferred to the United States Circuit Court.

When the case came up for final disposition the other day, the Santa Fé attorneys, Messrs. Norton and Millikeh, made a vigorous contest on the point of track control, maintaining that the Southern Pacific and its dispatchers were masters of every train on this particular track, and that therefore the system which employed Hamble should be held accountable—not the rival railroad.

Hamble's attorney, Hon. Will A. Harris, contested this masterfully, but the evidence produced turned the case against him, and yesterday Judge Wellborn terminated the proceedings.

NEW DAMAGE SUIT.

An echo of the disastrous early-March crash on the Salt Lake road, in the yards near Seventh street, came into the United States Circuit Court yesterday afternoon, when George M. Pruitt of Pomona filed an action for $25,000 damages.

Mr. Pruitt is the father of Walter C. Pruitt, 16-year-old youth who met death when the train in question jumped the track at a switch.

In the complaint the burden of responsibility is thrown entirely on the Salt Lake operating system.

TO TEST FIRE ESCAPE LAW.

CALLAGHAN BYRNE HAS DESIGNS ON THE ORDINANCE.

His Attorney Declares no Owner of Building Is Safe from Action of Future City Council—Matter Can Be Settled Only by Supreme Court of the State.

Owners of buildings that are adorned with fire escapes of various sizes or that have none of any kind, will feel much more at ease when they learn that the fire-escape ordinance that is now a part of the city's laws, is to be tested as to its validity as far up as the Supreme Court.

That is, the ordinance will be fought to that point if the many interested property holders in the business district will join in the fight, and if they do not, the matter will in all probability be carried to the highest court by Callaghan Byrne, owner of the Byrne Block at Third street and Broadway.

Mr. Byrne has not put fire escapes on his building, and on account of this he was arrested and appeared in the Police Court yesterday to answer the charge. The case was continued until next Thursday.

Byrne was represented by Attorney George Denis, who stated that he had been in consultation with Attorney Pope concerning the validity of the ordinance under which the arrest was made. Denis declared that Byrne had intentionally failed to place fire escapes on his building on account of a doubt about the constitutionality of the ordinance, and that in all probability the business men affected by it will combine to test the law. If they do not, Denis said, he will handle Byrne's case as he sees fit, the intimation being that he will carry it to higher courts if Byrne is convicted.

Later in the day Denis declared there is no question but that the ordinance will be tested in the Supreme Court, for a Superior Court decision will not settle it. A walk down any of the principal business streets would convince any man that the fire escape ordinance is not complied with, he said, for it provides for escapes not less than eight feet long and forty inches wide, and there are very few buildings in the city with escapes of that size. He said it is not a question of putting fire escapes on buildings, but of the kind and size.

Denis contends that if one City Council can provide for escapes eight feet long, and to be made of a certain kind of steel, any succeeding Council may specify escapes twenty feet or more in length, and that they be made of brass or any other metal; that no business man owning a building of over two stories could be assured that any fire escape he might put up would not be changed the next year, and that there should be some uniform size, because it was not just that the size could be subject to change every year or so, for no business man could keep up to possible changes.

HORRIBLY BURNED.

Explosion in Gas Oven May Cause Mrs. Orr to Lose Her Sight—No Explanation.

A serious and inexplicable accident occurred to Mrs. Frank L. Orr yesterday at noon at her home, No. [illegible] West Forty-first street. Mrs. Orr was using a gas range, the oven fires having been burning at least an hour before she stooped and opened the oven door. As she did so an explosion occurred, the flames flashing into her face, burning her in a horrible way. Her whole face is burned, her hair burned off, and it is possible that she may lose her sight, though the exact extent of her injuries cannot yet be told.

The only explanation seems to be that by some means gas had leaked into the oven, though Mrs. Orr has the pies to show that she had baked them, and had placed her cornbread in the oven and was about to see how it was progressing, when the accident occurred. Employés of the gas company examined the stove as soon as they could reach the house, and pronounced everything right, with no evidence of a leak.

The lady is the wife of Frank L. Orr, druggist, at Twenty-fourth street and Vermont avenue.

TOTEM'S PLOT NIPPED SHORT.

FIFTY MEN DISCHARGED BY THE LOCAL FOUNDRIES.

Molders' Union Jawsmiths Try to Saddle Their Organization on the Various Plants, but Their Dupes Are Weeded Out by the Independent Industrial People.

An insidious plot of the Molders' Union to foist its organization upon the foundrymen of the city has been discovered, and as a result there has been a house cleaning at the various industrial establishments.

Since the action of the Founders' and Employers' Association last fall, when they determined to employ no union men, the work of the jawsmiths has been kept under cover. They have not yelped in the open, and have instructed their members to deny strenuously that they belong to the organization. As a result of this plan the men wearing the union yoke have secured positions in the various shops and have been utilising their spare moments in preaching the gospel of discontent among the other workingmen.

The employers have determined upon a rigid line of action and will conduct a searching inquiry into each workman's affiliations with the union. This has resulted in the discharge so far of over fifty molders. Their places were immediately filled. The discharged workingmen are unhappy.

The foundrymen have presented a united front, and not one of these discharged men has been given employment unless he sundered his relations with the union. There is one exception to this stand by the foundrymen, and that is D. C. McCan, who has a machine shop on the Long Beach electric line. He was one of the loudest shouters when the founders determined that as a measure of self-protection they could no longer permit workingmen dominated by the trouble-breeding jawsmiths to remain in their employ. He said that he would "fire" all the men in his employ if members of the organization.

The next morning the other members of the organization quietly began to find the union molders in their employ and ask them to resign from the union or quit work. Not so McCan. He went at it drastically. He called in his men, one at a time, and asked them if they were members of the union. When told that they were he discharged them on the spot. He kept this up until most of his molders were gone, and then his entire force of men stopped work and went home.

He visited other establishments and found work going on quietly, and immediately charged the other foundrymen with bad faith. The latter replied that they were carrying out their plan and that there was not one union man in their employ; only they had used diplomacy.

McCan returned to his shop and called in the leaders of the union and bared his intentions to them. In short, he became a union sympathizer, and manned his shop with union molders.

This action has caused some trouble to the other foundrymen, as the union has used this one controlled shop as a basis to attract other workingmen to its organization. The jawsmiths tell them they "own McCan," and that he is completely under their thumb. Then the weaker brothers fall into line, much to the discomfiture of the foundrymen who run their own affairs.

WILL FIGHT FOR RANCH.

Calabasas Woman Holds Fort in Mountains.

Los Angeles Man Files on Her Homestead.

Town Torn by Factions in Controversy.

For three years Mrs. Edith M. Bower, 35 years old, has been holding down a homestead of 160 acres in the Calabasas Mountains between the town of that name and Chatsworth Park near a little station called Newberry, but next Monday she will have to appear before Receiver O. R. W. Robinson and Registrar Frank C. Prescott in the government Land Office in this city to fight for her home.

John H. McGowan is the man who wants the homestead and has filed a claim to it in the land office, but has never lived on the ranch. McGowan is said to be a tailor in this city, proprietor of a rooming-house on South Hill street, and the owner of considerable real estate in Santa Monica and elsewhere.

When Mrs. Bower took possession of the quarter section of land about three years ago she tried to file a homestead claim on it. But her claim could not be allowed at that time by the land office on account of a controversy between the government and the Southern Pacific over title to this land. The railroad claimed it and the government held the railroad had no right to it.

GOVERNMENT WINS.

It took nearly two years for this controversy to be settled. Meantime Mrs. Bower built a nice farmhouse and with the assistance of her two sons raised cattle and horses, chickens and pigs. As soon as she heard that the question of title had been settled in favor of the government Mrs. Bower hurried to Los Angeles to file her claim.

When she appeared at the land office with her papers, however, she found that McGowan had been ahead of her. Being right in the city, the latter was able to get to the land office before Mrs. Bower and she was thus in danger of losing her home.

This was on March 28, 1906, and all that the poor woman could do was to file a contest of title and it is this hearing which will come before the land officers on Monday.

But during the past year Calabasas township has been all "torn up" over this question of who has the legal right to this quarter-section now improved and worth quite a tidy sum. Original settlers favor Mrs. Bower, while second filers favor McGowan. Also there is politics.

One faction is led by former Justice of the Peace G. W. Beckwith, who is the champion of McGowan.

The present Justice of the Peace, Charles A. Bell, heads the forces of Mrs. Bower and as the factions are about evenly divided there are some warm arguments in Calabasas, and now about half the population don't speak to the other half—except when excited.

FEUD DAYS OVER.

The Calabasas cohorts will attend the hearing in this city on Monday under the guise of witnesses, and though the old feud days of Pumpkin Land are supposed to be over a justice-of-the-peace warrant ... now takes the place of the one-time shotgun, whichever way the case goes it is likely to stir up some real lively old-fashioned bumps again.

In fact, this fight between McGowan and Mrs. Bower has afforded lots of excitement to the Calabasans, especially when the town turned out to attend trial of a suit brought by McGowan against Mrs. Bower at Santa Monica on January 29 last.

McGowan claimed that Mrs. Bower had been entrusted by him with the care of a number of horses and that she had converted them to her own use and he brought suit to recover the animals or their equivalent.

There was so much feeling in Calabasas that McGowan secured a change of venue to Santa Monica and the witnesses in the case had to make a long journey on horseback through the Topanga Cañon to attend court. Mrs. Bower was reinforced home in triumph when decision was not only given in her favor, but she recovered a verdict in a cross complaint for $114.

Mrs. Bower is represented by Attorneys Hanry H. Roser and M. C. Hester and recently they have been trying to catch McGowan to collect this money, but so far Mr. McGowan has kept out of the way of the process servers.

Mrs. Bower has two sons who live with her on the ranch, and two married daughters, Mrs. Myrtle M. Griffith and Mrs. Margaretta Swanner, both of whom live in this city. The family came to California seventeen years ago, but since that time Mr. Bower has disappeared and the family do not know what has become of him.

SNAKES SCARE CITIZENS.

Neighborhood of Sixth and Crocker Streets Alarmed at Wriggling of Many Reptiles.

Crocker street, near Sixth street, is infested with snakes of all kinds and sizes, and according to one of the residents in that vicinity, the women and children are afraid to venture out at night, and every one steps on the high places in the day time. This situation is due to the presence of a man who lives at No. 637 Crocker street.

He is said to own a snake store on a downtown street and keeps a number of yards of the reptiles in his back yard in boxes. Very frequently, the neighbors say, he lets his snakes out of their boxes into his yard to sun themselves, and this causes the trouble. Some of the snakes crawl outside the fence, and a few days ago a blacksnake, eight feet long, was killed in the middle of Crocker street.

Complaint was made to the police yesterday, but as there is no ordinance covering the exercising of snakes in the sun, nothing could be done in the way of issuing a warrant.

SCHOOL GIRLS GOOD COOKS.

Domestic Class of Polytechnic High Entertains Members of Board of Education.

The golden glory of spring in a riot of yellow jonquils decked the festal board at the Polytechnic High School last evening when the members of the Board of Education were entertained by the girls of the A 10 Domestic Science class, under direction of the instructor, Miss Owens. The lights were shaded with paper jonquils, and palms and yellow mustard were artistically disposed about the pretty dining-room, while the place cards for the honored guests were hand-painted with the same spring beauties.

The viands served were just "what men like," as the girls expressed it, a course dinner fit for a queen or king, prepared and served by these accomplished young maids. The members of the board and the superintendents present were wholly converted to the idea of this useful department ere the first course had been disposed of.

Principal J. H. Francis was the host, the guests including Dr. E. C. Moore, M. C. Bettinger, J. B. Monlux, Joseph Scott, J. M. Guinn, Roger S. Page, H. W. Frank, F. W. Steddom, Birney Donnell and Winterburn.

The Polytechnic High School pupils have made up their minds to have a beautifully-adorned building. To this end for the purchase of pictures and statuary, an entertainment will be given this evening in the Auditorium, presenting the Dunbar male quartette, which comes heralded as a high-class attraction. Besides vocal numbers, the quartette makes a specialty of bell-ringing features and playing on various musical instruments.

The dear delight and pride of a fiesta float will be given up this year by Polytechnic boys and girls, and the money usually so expended will be devoted to the purchase of pictures. The Board of Control will give the entire proceeds of this evening's entertainment to the same purpose.

COUNTY FINDS OFFICE ROOM.

CROWELL BLOCK, SPRING AND FRANKLIN, IS RENTED.

"Solid Three" of Board of Supervisors Pay Trifle Less for Much Smaller Quarters Than Offered by Others, but Say Convenience of Location Justifies Them.

By a vote of three to one, the Supervisors yesterday decided to rent the Crowell building at Spring and Franklin streets to be used by county officers for whom there is no room in the Courthouse. It is said the space will be devoted to the uses of the Tax Collector, the Assessor and the Surveyor, whose offices now are in the Courthouse. It is considered unlikely that there will be room for the Superintendent of Schools, the Law Library, the Coroner, the Public Administrator and the Horticultural Comission, offices that have been outside of the Courthouse for a number of years. The county is paying about $7000 a year rental for these outside offices.

With the addition of $15,600 a year rental for the Crowell building, the county will pay in the neighborhood of $20,000 a year for outside quarters, a slight deduction being made for one or two smaller departments that may be moved back into the big red building.

Just why the Supervisors chose the Crowell Block in preference to other bids that were made, is something that is agitating the other bidders, principally the Barr-Harrington Realty Company, which offered to erect a four-story building opposite the Courthouse for a rental but a trifle higher than that demanded for the Crowell building, while the floor area would be almost 50 per cent. greater.

Supervisors Patterson, Wilson and Eldridge, the "solid three," voted for the Crowell building; Supervisor Manning favored the Barr-Harrington bid. Supervisor Alexander was at home, ill.

G. R. Johnson offered a building on Temple street, opposite the Courthouse, with about the same floor area as that of the proposed Barr-Harrington building, and at about the same rental.

But the Supervisors decided they were justified in paying practically the same rental for much smaller quarters at Spring and Franklin streets; convenience of location being the argument.

The proposed Broadway building offered four stories, reinforced concrete, with elevators, steam heat and ventilation, at $1400 a month, the net floor area being 33,056 square feet. Possession was guaranteed by August 31.

The Crowell building, two stories in height, and fitted now for store rather than office purposes, with no heating arrangements except stoves, contains a total of 24,000 square feet. The rental to be paid is $1300 a month. The county will have to put it in shape for the Collector and Assessor.

Bidders on the Broadway building say that all the present outside offices, together with the Assessor, Collector and Surveyor, would have had ample quarters in the structure they proposed to erect. There will be room for but few of them in the Spring and Franklin-street corner.

CLOSE IN ON SIXTH.

Lot Between Figueroa and Flower Streets Sold for Thirty-five Thousand Dollars.

W. W. Middlecoff, the attorney, has sold to Dr. Ralph Williams a lot on the south side of Sixth street between Figueroa and Flower streets. The property sold has a frontage of fifty feet on Sixth street, with a depth of 100 feet. The price paid was $35,000. W. H. Allen & Son and John D. Foster & Co. made the sale.

The property at No. 1240 South Flower street, consisting of a house and lot, the latter 50x155 feet, to an alley, has been sold by R. W. Illingsworth to W. C. Fisher, through the agency of W. B. Merwin & Co. The consideration was $14,500. The house is a two-story frame building, renting for $50 a month.

The same agency reports the sale of the property at No. 613 Banning street. A. Karnoski bought of the Title Insurance and Trust Company for $6000. The lot is 70x138 feet and is improved with a one-story frame building, which will be removed to make way for a large warehouse building.

Beverly Hills

Perhaps nowhere in the world is there a spot where every feature, natural and artificial, renders it so inviting, pleasureable, artistic and desirable as this suburb of Los Angeles.

It is interesting to know that Beverly Hills is not a creation of chance, but a deliberately planned enterprise, the ideal behind it being to provide a residence district so imposing and magnificent that it will help to spread the fame of Southern California.

The money lavished on Beverly Hills in the way of improvements seems like an incident from the Arabian Nights. It has not been a question of doing simply what purchasers might demand, but doing everything that art and science could suggest. In the improvements at Beverly Hills there is a flavor of extravagance—a lavishness of costly street work, wide sidewalks and parkings—a tone of solid aristocracy that gives Beverly Hills a social position, as it were, of ultra exclusiveness.

Los Angeles should be justly proud in having a residence district which will rank as one of the world's show places, and will undoubtedly inspire hundreds of wealthy easterners to build themselves a California home.

Pen Points

As usual the spring of the year is starting out with a circus.

Not until stocks are dried out may we expect Wall street to dry up.

There is a man in Paris who has a celluloid nose. Automobiles have no terrors for him.

If Secretary Taft is to ride into the Presidency on a popular wave it will have to be a big wave.

Harry Thaw has been pronounced sane. It is admitted that he murdered a man. What next?

Between railroad wrecks and fires the Italians in California are getting a good deal the worst of it.

Mr. Roosevelt takes no pains to hide the fact that he thinks Alton B. Parker is in the Ananias class, also.

When Miss Theodora Shonts changes her name to De Lunyas de Chaulnes et de Piequingy she will make a change, all right.

Judging from the columns of eastern newspapers the summer back yonder is already over and winter has started in again.

Those men who are thought to be gunning for the President will do well to remember that he is a quick man at the trigger.

Thomas F. Ryan says this is no time to speculate in railroad stocks. But it can't be any worse than some of those other times.

One good reason for supposing that the army engineers will stick to the Panama job is that each of them draws two salaries.

The discovery of a means by which the human breath can be photographed should prove a great aid to the cause of temperance.

"What is a frog?" asks the learned Boston Transcript. In railroading it is one of the convenient places for trains to jump the track.

Mr. Rockefeller warns people to keep out of the stock market. The temptation to go in will, therefore, be now greater than ever.

Only that our Japanese scare is somewhat frayed at the edges we might be able to trade it off for England's Islam scare.

If J. Ham Lewis is as sorry as he says he is over the defeat of Dunne let him dye his whiskers black as a proof of his sincerity.

All Jerome need do now is to subpoena a few alienists to prove that the commission that pronounced Thaw sane was composed of crazy men.

When a man buys an automobile it may be an indication that he is rich, but it is also an indication that he won't stay that way very long.

The suspicion that the New York Sun has degenerated into a mere corporation organ is greatly strengthened by its attacks on President Roosevelt.

If Walter Wellman insists on staying here and talking all the time, some one else is liable to sneak out and discover the pole ahead of him.

"It is time enough to bid the devil good morning when you meet him," goes the saying. But it is usually evening before the devil puts in an appearance.

Salem, the capital of Oregon, has decided to pave its streets. Not merely with good intentions, we hope, as a certain other place is said to have done.

It is to the credit of neighbor James J. Jeffries that, when he retired from pugilism he neither went into the saloon business nor became a member of the Legislature.

The proper thing to do with those five or six opponents of the Owens River project who reside in this town is to turn them over to the Society for the Suppression of Unnecessary Noises.

A Congressman has discovered that the meals might be better on the Isthmus of Panama. But, as far as that's concerned, there are some men living right at home who make the same complaint.

We can't help thinking of that Pasadena man who bought $682 worth of flowers at Easter when all he had to do was to go out in the fields or the neighbors' gardens and get as many as he wanted for nothing.

"The cutting out of all the rotten and useless timber in our present city government would effect a vast saving for the taxpayer," says the San Francisco Chronicle. It would do more than that. It would save out the city government entirely, as far as San Francisco is concerned.

RUSSIA AND THE HAGUE PEACE CONFERENCE.

The latest news from St. Petersburg is to the effect that the Russian government is now hesitating about calling the peace conference at The Hague next summer. The reason given is the disaffection reigning in the Russian Empire.

The reason is insufficient. The Russian troubles are particular to the Russian people and government. Furthermore, while Nicholas II was the first proponent of The Hague conference, neither his predecessors, nor the Russian people as a whole, were the original advocates of international peace; nor has Russia, either in her government or her people, done the most in the way of ameliorating the horrors or eliminating the possibilities of war.

Among the nations the United States stands out as the real peace power of the ages. In the century and a quarter during which this government has lived and exercised its influence in the world, more propositions looking toward peace and more active work making for peace have been done by us than by all the other powers of all time.

It is desirable that all the great powers be represented, but it is not absolutely essential that every one of them be there. The conference can be held, the peace of the world discussed, measures taken to ameliorate the horrors of war and to lessen the chances of war, without Russia being a party to the compact. Of course, her absence might possibly influence other powers, notably Germany, and if several of the highest powers of Europe should abstain from taking part in the discussions, it would jeopardize the meeting, and in proportion to the number of powers absent, the work of the other powers which might be present, would be made ineffective in that ratio.

It is all the more desirable that the powers should get together and discuss measures tending to make wars more difficult because there are at the present time war clouds over many of the nations. The millennium is apparently as far away today as in almost any of the past ages. There are two great influences at work with peculiar potency which threaten serious ruptures of international peace. They are of such widespread nature that, should the outbreak come, it would involve half the world.

There is no doubt of the existence of Moslem unrest. The Sultan of Turkey is getting to be an old man, and the succession to the Moslem scepter is always attended with more or less danger. France finds herself involved in serious difficulty in her African possessions. Moslemism is in our time a survival of the unfittest, and by the law of evolution its disintegration and dissolution should not be remote. The western powers are encroaching continually upon this Asiatic civilization. The very fact of its being pressed to the wall is the thing which tends seriously toward an outbreak. Mohammedanism will not yield up the ghost without a last and very serious effort at self-preservation. Resentment against foreign influence is manifested in many places by the Moslem people. England's presence in Egypt is far from a welcome one in the eyes of Moslems. Germany's known pretensions in the Balkans and even on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus, while managed with consummate diplomacy, are regarded with grave suspicion.

This is the present war cloud in what is known as the Near East. It seems to threaten a "holy war" to exterminate the "infidel dogs" and reassert Mohammedan and Asiatic influence. In the Far East there is the growing Japanese power. There is also the awakening of China, and this means much. The resentment of the Moslems against occidental encroachments and influences is fully duplicated by Asiatic suspicion and hostility against the same influences in Japan and China. England's rule in India is a vexation to multitudes of Hindoos. There is a pretty close connection between these Asiatics of the Near East and those of the Far East. Mohammedanism is one of the prevailing religions all through India. Side by side with this system of faith is the ancient Buddhism, which has been spread until it is the dominating religion in China and Japan. Underneath this Buddhism, which sits lightly on the surface, persists the old Shintoism of these Mongolian peoples, the worship of their ancestors. Here is a point of contact, a chord of sympathy. In the not distant future it need not surprise western peoples if a very loud cry is raised, from the islands of Japan to Ceylon and through all the confines of India, of "Asia for the Asiatics."

The Hague peace conference will not quite dissipate these war clouds. For generations to come men will settle their international disputes by the arbitrament of the sword. At the same time, during the hundred years and more of the existence of the American republic, much has been done for universal peace. American propositions for settling international disputes have made wars much less frequent than they were. The same influences exerted in the same way in the future will at least promote the "Federation of the World."

FOR FAIRNESS

A number of citizens of Los Angeles have been summoned to San Francisco to tell the grand jury what they may know as to the franchise transactions of the Home Telephone Company. So far as The Times is informed, these citizens, with one or two exceptions, frankly and without evasions or attempts to shoulder responsibility on the other fellow, have given their testimony. This is no more nor less than the duty of a right-minded citizen, and it should be a satisfaction to any such to assist in the administration of justice by the properly constituted authorities. The time and sacrifice of private concerns required for attendance on court should not be permitted to weigh against what is due the community from any and every member of it.

There have come down from San Francisco in the telegraph dispatches various reports and rumors that certain citizens of Southern California may have been involved in wrongdoing; that some of them are menaced by the grand jury with indictment for acts committed in connection with the granting of the telephone franchise. The prosecuting officers have displayed a disposition to permit no person possibly guilty of offenses to escape from a searching investigation. The inquiry has been unrelenting—and all this is as it should be.

But because the finger of suspicion has been raised, because of vague reports that corporation officers may be indicted—or even if they shall be indicted, for that matter—that is not sufficient reason for condemning persons who may be suspected. A man accused of the most heinous of offenses is entitled to a full and impartial trial before being sentenced; and public judgment should not be hastier in rushing to a conclusion than is a court.

The Times is quite sure that this is the attitude of mind of this Southern California community. These men who have been entangled in the Heney investigation are—most of them—of goodly repute as upright fellow-citizens and honest financiers. They have long lived among us and have been helpful and respected members of society. They always have had and still have the highest respect of their neighbors. The public is indebted to them for works of enterprise and benevolence. If any one of them shall be proven guilty of any violation of law he must expect to take the consequences; he should not be spared on account of record or position; but the point is that no one of them has been found guilty as yet. It will be time to criticise or to condemn when any has been convicted by the courts.

There could be nothing more obvious than that the meanest man who ever lived should not be hanged on the testimony of such yellow dogs as the San Francisco Supervisors. To save themselves from felons' cells they have made confessions implicating others. They have acknowledged themselves thieves and bribe-takers, and if they can get rid of punishment they do not care whose name they may taint. On their testimony alone no man, not even Ruef himself, should be indicted; unless there is corroborative evidence, the say-so of these self-confessed liars should not be accepted as conclusive.

The Times desires to see punishment meted out to all the guilty fellows, large or small, high or low. If any of our fellow-citizens have been particeps criminis, if it becomes fully proven to the satisfaction of a jury that they have bribed public officers or conspired against the integrity of the public service, there is no reason why they should be spared. But The Times reiterates that as yet no one of them has been found guilty of any misdemeanor or crime; and not yet should their neighbors' confidence in their honesty be shaken.

CANADA TODAY AND TOMORROW.

"It is here in the New World that the Canadian's destiny is cast and that his part is to be played. Here it is that he has to do what he can to make popular government stable, wise and beneficial. At present his eyes are always being turned toward a state of the Old World which cannot be reproduced in a new world. This is the bad part of the prolongation of the state of dependence and justifies the policy of British statesmen in former days, who generally looked forward to colonial emancipation."

The above paragraph contains doctrine likely to produce a sensation among Canadians and to be interesting to Americans. It is not the view of an American, but of Goldwin Smith, in a recent number of the London Contemporary Review. The average Canadian, as we are acquainted with him in the United States, is more British than the Britisher, and more loyal in his expression of opinion than the average Londoner who lives within the proverbial limits of Bow Bells.

In the paper referred to, Prof. Goldwin Smith points out the close proximity of the Dominion of Canada to the United States, with only imaginary boundaries at many points stretching across the continent. He says there are 1,200,000 Canadians in the United States. On the contrary, there is also an immense emigration of Americans into Canada. There are probably all of a quarter of a million born under the Stars and Stripes who are at present inhabitants of some part of the Dominion. The intercourse between the two countries is almost as close as that between separate States of America, or separate provinces of the Dominion. Canadians read American newspapers and magazines more generally than they do their own. There is an immense amount of American capital invested in Canada, and the sum is yearly increasing.

Besides the old French population in the Dominion, there are large numbers of inhabitants of Irish extraction, and all of these in religion and almost every other characteristic are decidedly non-British. Probably 50 per cent. of the people of Canada are of non-British extraction. This is reflected in every element of Canadian life. The government is modeled largely after that of the United States.

The federation of the provinces into the Dominion is of very loose construction. Many of the provinces entered the confederation with unwillingness. Speaking of these features of the Canadian people, Prof. Smith says: "A parallel instance of a nation so totally wanting in unity of territorial basis it would not be easy to name."

Another feature of this paper will surprise many of us who dream that we are the only people on earth where grafting and dishonesty prevail. According to this Canadian writer, these crooked practices prevail at the capital, Ottawa, and extend through the whole political framework. They have borrowed our caucus system and put it in full operation. Mr. Smith, speaking from his own knowledge, declares that the machinery and vocabulary of parties generally have been imported from the United States. This, with the lack of political cohesion and of territorial unity, aggravate this political corruption.

In these statements from so high an authority we have an interesting summary of the Canada of today. It is all very well for colonists direct from England, who know little or nothing about the United States, to make loud protestations of loyalty to the mother country and to express unenlightened opinions uncomplimentary to America. The raw immigrant is not the one who moulds public opinion in any community. The born Canadian, especially the one of two generations removed from the immigrant, and particularly if he be of Irish descent, or of any other nationality than direct English, is prone to regard lightly the tie that binds the country to the imperial Parliament or the crown. The original American colonists bore very patiently their political inabilities until the mother country undertook to impose an unfair tax upon them. The same spirit would develop in Canada in a moment at the slightest movement on the part of Parliament in London to impose any burden upon them which they regarded as unfair.

Undoubtedly in case of any serious rupture in the relations of the Dominion with the home government, the first impulse would be the erection of the colonies into an independent republic. If a popular movement of that kind sprang up, the English government, however disposed it might be to force the colonies into resubmission, would learn that the temper of the people generally would not permit it. The popular clamor would undoubtedly be to let "the erring sister go in peace." Once free from the ties which bind the colonies to the home government, self-interest would immediately suggest annexation to the United States.

HOROSCOPE FOR THIS DAY.

Friday, April, 5, 1907.

BY COZETTE.

"A doubtful day for change."

This is the ninety-fifth day of the year. Moon is in the last quarter; age 22 days. Jupitor is Evening Star and rosy Venus is still star of the morning.

Beware of changes today. Do not travel. Avoid new enterprises, no matter how tempting the guise, lest utter ruin follow in their wake.

Do not move household goods, even from one room to another, not make changes in the wearing apparel. Make no alterations in the terms of any contracts or offers you may have submitted previous to this, and do not alter any papers drawn up or made on this date. Reject all proposals received.

Follow your ordinary customs in all actions as nearly as possible, even to the most insignificant affair—such as going to and from your business. If you habitually walk, do not under any circumstances allow yourself to be persuaded to ride or drive today.

Those whose birthdate it is, are threatened with treachery. Beware of traps and be on your guard every moment.

Children born on this day will be fickle, heartless, untruthful, unsettled and restless in character, careless in dress, but abandoned to pleasure and extremely fond of company. They will meet with many ups and downs in life and be often in difficulties.

WHAT A NERVE-RACKING THING THE PHONE IS!

VIVE L'AMOUR!

Oh, little crab, sunning yourself on the rocks,
By the side of the restless sea,
What do you know of its boundless waste?
Of its great immensity?
The tide comes in, the tide goes out,
That fact you probably know,
And you order your life to fit, no doubt,
The law of its ebb and flow.
A corner snug for you and your wife,
A chance to get food to prolong your life,
A crevice to hide in when danger is rife,
That's all you ask of the sea!

And what does it know of your corner snug?
Of your hopes, your fears, your strife?
What does it reck if the strong crush the weak?
That's only a law of life.
What does it care if you live or die?
There are billions of lives like yours,
That come and go as the centuries roll,
But ever the sea endures!
So what do we care, you and I, little crab?
Let us get out of life all the joy we can grab—
A life of love, then a marble slab!
Vive l'amour! Vive l'amour! Toujours!

THE ALL-AROUND GIRL.

[From the Cleveland Leader.]

Word comes from Washington that Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Jr., is rapidly taking her place as a leading hostess and that her Tuesdays at home are brilliant social features.

Back of Mrs. Longworth's conspicuous hospitality is the shrewd plan of a devoted and ambitious wife. She is eager for her husband to succeed in politics and so she is grafting a foreign custom on American society. She is aiming to start a political salon. That flourishes in London, where the petticoat influence is wide and strong in politics.

A wise, bright, tactful wife is one of the best assets of the budding British statesman. She makes his home attractive to the men in power, which is a big step. She brings his best qualities to their friendly notice. She keeps him at his tasks when he is lazy, curbs him when he gets unduly impatient; guides him skillfully in ticklish places and jockeys him along under the wire when, if left to his own running, he would have been distanced, in all probability.

All these wonders are achieved, mark you, by women who are mere kindergartners in the school of life, while the American matron is a graduate with the highest honors. Our women, whatever their social standing, are quick-witted, energetic, resourceful, convicing, cajoling and altogether fascinating. They have beauty and good taste; all the decorative qualities. They have adaptability. They are at home anywhere and everywhere.

The American girl is the best helpmeet of man because she is the best all-around girl in the world. She does everything and does it well. If she starts a salon it will succeed in all ways. It will entertain and reward its guest; it will boost the pet plan of its hostess.

What Gab Will Do.

Dist.-Atty. Jerome was talking at a dinner about the power of speech.

"Speech, talk," he said, "if it is fast and fluent and earnest enough will achieve miracles, turn black white, do anything.

"A woman went to buy an Easter bonnet the other day. The salesman, getting his tongue slightly twisted, brought out a handsome bonnet and said rapidly and excitedly:

"'A great bargain, madam. The last one left. They have all gone off like hot cakes. And no wonder. Formerly $10, now offered for $15.'

"'I'll take it,' the woman, much impressed, said hastily."

The Golf Caddy.

"The golf caddy," said a southern journalist, as he chewed a sprig of mint, "is a new type. This lad is independent, witty, altogether without reverence.

"On John D. Rockefeller's visit to Bon Air, he tried a little golf one afternoon in the neighborhood of Augusta.

"On a rather difficult shot Mr. Rockefeller struck too low with his iron, and as the dirt flew he said to his caddy:

"'What have I hit?'

"The boy answered with a harsh laugh:

"'Georgia, boss.'"

IN THE BIG INDUSTRIES.

Corn Husking Machine.

A machine has been invented by a Wisconsin man that will husk standing corn at the rate of ten acres a day. It is drawn by three horses and will gather the ears of corn from the stalks, husk them, and convey them to a wagon.

America's Beer Production.

The honor of being the chief beer-producing and consuming nation in the world is divided between the United States and Belgium—the first in point of production, with 1,561,394,000 gallons annually; the latter for consumption, with an average of 40.1 gallons per head of population per annum.

But Germany runs her American friends pretty closely for first place on the question of output. No fewer than 1,512,246,000 gallons of the popular beverage are brewed in the Fatherland in twelve months.

Great Britain comes third on the list, with 1,253,230,000 gallons and incredible as it may seem, the English consume more beer than their Teutonic rivals—23.8 gallons per head per annum, against the Germans' 27.2.

Some excuse for Germany's apparent inferiority as a beer-drinking nation may be found in the fact that, to a great extent, wine replaces malt liquor in South Germany.

Substitute for Brass.

A new alloy, called McAdamite metal, has recently been put on the market, with the idea that it may largely take the place of brass in machine making. Its base is aluminum, but the exact composition is kept secret. It resembles aluminum only in lightness and non-corrosiveness. It has about one-third the weight of brass, but about twice the tensile strength, and its resistance to compression is nearly four times that of brass. It takes a high polish, and does not tarnish. It is sonorous, and bells are now made of it.

Iron Plant for Seattle.

British investors are to erect at Seattle an iron and steel plant with the greatest and most diversified capacity of any similar works ever planned for the West, says the Seattle Times. The plant will occupy a tract of about seventy acres and the company to construct and operate the same will be capitalized at $8,000,000, of which amount $1,000,000 will be raised locally. The company will build both ships and railroad cars. The proposed graving dock will be 750 feet in length and ninety feet wide.

Year's Production of Cement.

According to a statement issued by the Geological Survey, the total production of hydraulic cement in the United States in 1906 was 50,027,321 barrels, valued at $54,010,713. This represents an increase in both production and value of cement over the preceding year, the increase in production being 9,133,013 barrels and in value $10,003,594.

Of the total amount manufactured in the United States in 1906, 45,610,522 barrels were Portland cement, with a value of $51,240,632; natural rock cement 3,935,275 barrels, valued at $2,362,140, and 481,204 barrels of puzzolan cement valued at $412,921.

Sugar Pine to Africa.

Hundreds of carloads of Sierra Nevada sugar pine are being annually shipped to Europe and Africa through the port of Galveston. In addition to the lumber in the rough, shipments of its products in the shape of doors and window frames are also being extensively made.

Owing to the depleted pine forests of Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota, foreign buyers of sugar pine come to California.

Many California trees turn out what is considered perfect lumber in the rough—that is, boards thirty-five or forty feet long and three or four inches thick without a flaw.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

When a girl never looks at any man in a street car its a sign she is with her mother.

The only way a woman can ever account for her shoes hurting her is that she got them a size larger than usual.

About the best recruiting scheme the devil ever got up is to have a man slip on a cake of soap in the bathtub.

A man wants good things to eat, but he would rather pretend he is satisfied with bad things than discharge the cook.

It's only fair to college education to admit that most boys who have it know how to accept an invitation in the proper way.—[New York Press.

India's Gold Production.

The production of the gold mines in India in 1906 was 577,260 ounces, as compared with 628,415 ounces the previous year.

SCIENCE NOTES.

A Wireless Dynamo.

A "wireless" dynamo for the measurement of air resistance on the alternating current dynamos is the invention of the department of mechanical engineering of the State University. The machine is made entirely of wood except for a few small pieces of iron to hold the wood together. It is so built that it will not act as a conductor.

Profs. Joseph LeConte and Nowell of the department of engineering have been trying to solve for some time the problem of just how much power is wanted by the dynamos in overcoming the resistance of the air. The apparatus is designed to measure this quantity.

Cutting Steel With Electric Arc.

The problem of cutting steel of varying thickness and in awkward positions is solved by the electric arc. In New York City they are using the process for cutting steel ¾-inch thick and three inches at the interlocking point. It is stated that the time required in burning the ¾-inch steel is four minutes a foot and the time required at the interlocking points is said to be about eight minutes.

The arc light carbon is held in a metal clamp fastened to a metal rod and socket, which is, in turn, bolted to a long wooden pole, the wire conducting the current being fastened and connected to the metal clamp and the carbon terminal. The steel to be cut is connected to the other conductor from the alternating current circuit.

Yellow Fever Germ Discovered.

Dr. A. E. Thayer, professor of pathology in the University of Texas, is believed to have discovered the germ of yellow fever. This microbe was found during the examination microscopically of the body of a young Irishman who had taken sick with yellow fever on his way from New York to Galveston via Havana. All the yellow fever germs were blue.

New Arc Lamp "Wick."

In the effort to remove some of the objectionable features of the arc lamp as at present constructed it has been discovered that "magnetite" is a desirable substitute for carbon. Incombustible at all temperatures, it is as good a conductor as carbon and gives a white arc of high brilliancy. Says J. L. R. Hyden, writing on the subject in Cassier's Magazine: "In the new arc lamp steadiness and whiteness of color of the light are combined with a high efficiency and long life of the electrodes. It was found that the flame which carried the current is fed by the negative terminal only. It shoots out from this terminal almost in the form of a blast flame. The positive terminal takes no part in the production of the arc flame, and its material is, therefore, unessential. Even the negative electrode magnetite alone can be used. The life of a magnetite electrode 8 inches long and half an inch in diameter is about 180 to 8 hours; that is, much longer than that of an inclosed arc electrode."

Nicknames of London Papers.

Judge Rentoul's reference on the bench to the Times as the "thunderer" reminds us how remarkably the nickname has persisted. The Morning Post is no longer "Jeames;" the Standard has not been "Mrs. Gamp" since the decease of the Morning Herald—the "Mrs. Harris" to which it would allude as an independent authority, though the two represented the same proprietor. But the Times is still the "Thunderer." It owes the name to Capt. Edward Sterling. It is said to have begun a Times article with the words: "We thundered forth the other day an article on the subject of social and political reform." (London Chronicle.

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

After a month of vicissitudes with his band and Palm Garden—at Eighteenth and Main streets—Manager Limouze has decided to open subscription lists and proceed on something like an orchestral basis.

It is whispered that not only Limouze, but Director Ferullo as well were on the point of abandoning the whole enterprise, and only consented to continue on the urgent solicitation of many music lovers.

Meanwhile, the affair has brought out rumors of a new hall for the band, in which it is said that Mr. McCann, a capitalist of this city, has at least interested himself as far as the speculative point is concerned.

Another contest for a license has been fought with losing result, as chronicled. Limouze says that his coming pavilion will be at least within the present license limit.

Meanwhile, to practically empty houses, Ferullo has been discoursing brilliant programmes of the finest music.

MISS SUZANNE SIEGEL, young Los Angeles girl who will make her stage debut soon.

Miss Suzanne Siegel, a pretty Los Angeles girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Siegel of Westlake avenue, will make her professional début at the Belasco production of "The Undertow."

Believers in the uselessness of long "dramatic school" training for young actresses should watch Miss Siegel's first performance with interest, for she has not the slightest tutelage of folk who profess to teach acting.

Messrs. Blackwood and Bosworth believe that she has genuine dramatic temperament. She at least has ardent personal leanings toward the stage, and possesses a pretty face, a petite figure and a glorious abundance of Titian hair.

She is well known in local society, and is an accomplished horsewoman.

Miss Carroll McComas, whistling soloist, will be heard at Simpson Auditorium tonight.

The Ferris season here this year will probably conclude with a revival of the ever-popular "Holy City," to be put on after a week of "Fedora."

Dromgold Lines Up.

LOS ANGELES, April 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] There appears in your editorial department of today, under the title "Amateur Water Finders," the following:

"Frank Olmstead, Joseph H. Call and Councilman Dromgold, the self-constituted auxiliary water board, presented the Big Rock Creek scheme to the Mayor and other officials at a private conference in the Mayor's office on Tuesday night, and that will be about all of the wonderful discovery of the Amateur Water Finders, and so on."

The facts about the Big Rock Creek investigations are substantially as follows: The Mayor invited me to go with him to see this Big Rock Creek with a view of acquiring it for a supplemental water supply in the event we should need it before we get our Owens Valley water here. All the Councilmen were invited to go and I believe all signified a willingness to go except one, and he had some good reason for not going. The Mayor, Niles Pease, Clampitt, Lyon, Healy and myself did go, and looked at the water; and at a special called meeting by President Pease, to which the Water Board, the Public Works Board, Mulholland, Lippincott, Mathews, Olmsted, Call, Mushet, the Mayor and Council were invited, we made a report to the Water Board and we are now awaiting their answer as to the advisability of accepting the offer tendered by Mr. Tighlen who holds the filings on this creek.

I have acted in the best faith in the above matter, and have in no way reflected on the Owens River enterprise. I have always been favorable to the Owens River water, I am now, and I do not hesitate to say, as I have said before, that I believe if the Owens Valley water could not be brought here our property would depreciate 50 cents on the dollar. I hope you will correct the impression in the article referred to and place me in the right light in this matter.

Deputy Sheriff and Attorney Make Night Trip to Saugus in Vain to Seize Children.

Armed with a writ of habeas corpus for the seizure of the two children of Albert Sutton, a San Francisco architect, Deputy Sheriff Claude Mathewson and Attorney Earl Rogers made a night trip by automobile to Saugus Wednesday, returning yesterday morning without the objects of their search.

They had expected to find the children with Mrs. Sutton on one of the trains bound south by the Valley road, but neither mother nor children was found.

Mr. and Mrs. Sutton are separated, and pending a legal settlement of their differences, the two little girls were placed by the courts in the custody of the father. The mother is supposed to have defied the order of the court, and left San Francisco with her daughters.

ARTISTS will be especially interested in the story of the discovery of a long-missing Bonheur picture, which will be published in The Times' Magazine the coming Sunday. The story is told by the artist himself, and is illustrated with a half-tone reproduction of the picture.

According to the officers, Washington was found shortly after the fire in the vicinity of the house. SHRINERS' CIRCUS.

ing Arabs and Bedouins in native garb —rare curios from foreign lands— educated ponies, porcine professors, mummers and trouble-breeders, concluding with brilliant equestrian entry."

It was all this, and then you wondered what kind of sleeping potion the press agent had taken that should close his eyes to the real beauties of the pageant. But it is too late to change the programme, and only a personal view of the parade can give an idea of its magnificence.

Heading the procession was a dog cart drawn by a horse of wonderful beauty. In the cart were seated Chester W. Thompson, promoter and manager of the circus, and Edward Shipp, equestrian director, a circus man of renown. For ninety days they have worked with local Shriners to make the show a success. They were ready for the worst, which didn't happen.

THE PAGEANT.

Some of the features and hits of the show.

Shrine Band, otherwise the Catalina Band, directed by E. C. Kammermeyer, the parade advanced. Camels bedecked in Oriental colors fell into line, one of them carrying on its back a howdah surmounted by the insignia of the Shriners. They told you that the genuine holy carpet was within that howdah, and there was no one to say them nay.

Then came the Bedouin and the Arab patrols of Al Malaikah Temple, clowns, dancing bears, trained pigs, ponies, fine horses, zouaves, Shriners in robes of great beauty, more clowns, trick animals, the wonderful calliope played by W. N. Munholland as "Sis Hopkins," and accompanied on the flute by A. C. Helps, as a fat farmer boy.

There was a good deal more to this grand entry than could be grasped in the twice-around-the-ring. As a curtain-raiser it was the best that has come over from circus land in many a long day.

COME THE CLOWNS.

Quickly after the disappearance of the pageant through the exit, United States Marshal Lee Youngworth and "Heine" Krohn, two of the many clowns of the show, dashed into the ring in a burst of silence, red and white paint and baggy clothes.

They sang something about several persons of nursery renown to the tune of "L-Tidly-Idly-Um," and they danced something to the same step. One verse had something about a young lady who went out to swim and lost all her clothes. You had to guess what she went home in.

She went home in the twilight, to the same tune, and the clowns got a fine "hand" as they disappeared behind the curtain.

Youngworth had only a short breathing spell before he made his reappearance with Shriner Walter G. McCarthy. McCarthy gave an excellent exhibition of bareback riding on a fine old-wide-backed white horse. The rider acquitted himself like a true professional. Only those who know him were aware that he is more familiar with the back end of a street car than with the upper deck of a horse.

This act gave Youngworth a chance to get in a lot of funny work that made a big hit. He threw a number of fits that lasted as long as a bottle of whisky held out to revive him. When the whisky was gone, the fits stopped.

Then Youngworth, with the aid of a mechanical contrivance that held him suspended in the air, gave an exhibition of bareback riding that rattled the boards.

TRAMP AND GOOSE.

Shriner "Herb" Cornish divided honors with Youngworth as a mirth provoker. Appearing in the grand entry as a ragged tramp of marvelous make-up, he came trotting in a little later with Youngworth, each leading a trained giraffe, the only ones of their kind ever shown here.

The giraffes did fancy steps and otherwise displayed the care that had been given to their training; they sat on their trainers and gave and took a deal of abuse before one of them, falling down, disclosed the sleeves of a blue shirt in its forequarters. The giraffes contained the human forms of Ralph Bailey and Bob Train, in the Youngworth animal, and of George Bacon and Don Fisher in the Cornish beast.

Aided by Public Administrator Frank Bryson, Cornish later introduced a William Tell act that had many remarkable features.

But, this was not the end of Cornish, not the last end. Further down on the progrmme he was listed to appear as the rider of the acrobatic horse, "Wicker Willow," which suggests a rocking chair rather than a performing steed. Cornish and the animal made one of the big equestrian hits of the night.

MISS COPPRINO CHARMS.

But it remained for Miss Arabella Copprino to charm the eyes of the old circus-goers with her feats of bareback riding. The abbreviated red skirt, blonde hair and pink tights, so surely disguised A. J. Copp, Jr., that only a glance at the printed programme convinced the audience that it was a man and not a woman who was riding the horse.

"Heine" Krohn, who is "Henry" in real life, had a stunt with a trained bear that kept the laughs going for many minutes. "Steve" Brode, as "Little Bo-Peep," leading a black goat; Dick Bronson with his educated goose; Cecil Frankel and his precocious pig; Dr. A. M. Smith as the "Old Newspaper Woman;" Frank Bryson as a rube; Dave Martin "cumbersome copper;" George Fitch as "Slivers," the one-man baseball game; Fred Hines as "Hop Lee;" Nagel, the two-faced mummer; the great [illegible] brothers in strong-arm work. Many other well-known Shriners made up the list of fun-makers in clownish costume.

LAWLER ANNOUNCES.

United States District Attorney Oscar Lawler displayed his talents as an announcer of the great concert that was to end the big show. If the job only paid better, he could make more money with a circus than as a lawyer.

Among the really professional acts were those of Mabel Rex, the High School horse, which, ridden by Don Hogue, marched, danced and gave fancy steps in addition to an exhibition of fine traveling that charmed equine lovers.

The Eddy family gave excellent exhibitions of vaulting and tumbling and of tight and slack-wire work. J. L. Von and Charles Leora presented trapeze performances. Herman T. Glass on the flying rings, and the Riva brothers as muscular marvels made good the claims of the programme. Karl and De Elmer as horizontal-bar performers, and Prof. Rawson with his trained ponies and dogs, added greatly to the entertainment, and just before the big aggregation of clowns made their final appearance in amusing wheelbarrow races and other side-splitting stunts, the Fremont Zouaves, commanded by Capt. A. D. Cloud, went through some remarkable evolutions, including the scaling of a high wall.

SO MANY OTHERS.

There were numbers of other amateur and professional performers who had creditable parts in the show. To enumerate them would require two pages of a newspaper.

From its auspicious start, the Society Sircus will be a remarkable financial success.

FIERCE FREAKS IN SIDESHOW.

MENAGERIE MONSTROSITIES ADD MANY SENSATIONS.

Mountainous Fat Lady Was Once Matt Everhardy, While W. H. Cramer Has Retrograded to Gorilladom. Astonishing Herd of World-rare Baby Elephants.

The side show was no little part of this monster aggregation of talent.

Its glorious units were aggregated under the direction of W. J. Rouse, and scintillated beautifically from 7:30 o'clock until the grand opening later in the evening.

Unquestionably the heavy villain of the play was Mlle. Clarice, a rhinocerian beauty whose Venusian shape covered up almost a quarter of the whole allotted space. Fichu lace, gaudy satins, polka-dot stockings and radiant hair decked this earth-beating "Fat Lady." She chirped daintily a grand opera air entitled "When Ma Was a Little Girl Like Me." It is rumored that hidden somewhere in the depths of this finery was Matt Everhardy.

The "Siamese Twins" would hold you for awhile, too, as their attractive power was nothing less than a railroad link and pins. The "off" twin, who was reminiscent of Senator Fred Smith, glowed in a fetching costume of dark-red silk, flounced in Spanish lace and set off by a peroxide wig.

One of the marvels of the assemblage was the "shortest and heaviest midget in the world." As far as the optical illusion went, this sawed-off had the crowd guessing. The subject was Jewler A. E. Morro, and the hoax lay in the fact that he was standing in a hole up to his knees, with cute little shoes appending in lifelike fashion from his thighs. The midget's attire was evening raiment and minstrel diamonds, the jewelry scattered nonchalantly in true Metropolitan Opera-house profusion.

William H. Cramer frightened his friends to death by his ferocious demeanor as a real African gorilla, the only one in captivity. Mr. Cramer proves Darwinism backwards.

G. M. Mitchell, seven-foot four-inch negro who is a familiar department-store figure, had his longitude further accentuated by outlandish clothes and a skyscraping hat.

Knowledge and wisdom were disseminated with rash extravagance by A. P. Chipron, official "lecturer" for this accumulation of monstrosities. Monsieur Chipron's verbiage was [illegible]—in its bewildering muchness being absolutely like the side-show hot air which glass-diamoned professionals sling at the Rubes.

One feat of extraordinary cleverness was "Lunetta, maid of the air," a genuine stage mirror trick. This was gotten up and worked by P. C. Hummel, who was also in full control of the fine Punch and Judy show which tickled the gapers without the tent.

Ki-Ki, familiar freak "barker" who virtually made the Venice Midway, contributed a laughable impersonation of "Bosco, the Human Salamander," a wonder-stunt traveling with one of the big shows that visit these parts.

A pair of boxing roosters, intrepid little game cocks with tiny gloves on their long spurs, fought furiously in the intervals. Bean's "Um-ta-ra-ra" band and "Farmer Jones's" pigs and birds made music.

THE MENAGERIE.

Next to the "big top," and separating it from the sideshow, was the abode of the most peaceful menagerie the town has ever held.

The rarest display was the world's only herd of baby elephants. Nearly a dozen diminutive pachyderms stood at attention on the straw, one fierce-looking little fellow being cruelly shackled with an enormous rope. They were gotten at vast expense from the deserts of Africa, the sacred forests of India and the jungles of Hindostan. They were so well trained that they did not make the slightest disturbance during the whole evening.

The only discomforting moment was when a certain well-known Shriner's baby, being carried by, vociferously recognized the felt, bead-eyed plaything that papa had surreptitiously sneaked from the nursery yesterday morning.

Real camels, baby deer, baby elk, a huge African lion and several other animals, including rare specimens of horseflesh, afforded genuine delight to enjoyers of a really, truly menagerie.

In the center of this tent an Indian family, in their tee-pee, attracted many visitors. They came from the Indian Crafts exhibit at Eastlake.

CONCERT, TOO.

AND IT IS GOOD.

After the big show came the customary concert, and it was really enjoyable, although delayed by the inability of the large crowd which did not stay, to get out of the main tent. There were but four numbers on the programme, but these were made into eight by the recalls for all, and the aplause was most generous throughout.

The first number was given by James and Kitty Brady, and was a singing and dancing turn, rendered in a very taking manner. Following this came Treator and Voitle in solo and duet singing that was heartily applauded. The piece de resistance was then brought on in a quartette by the big local four, Youngworth, Bryson, Krohn and Goldsmith, and they made a great hit in their song of the "Four Old Maids." They were rigged out regardless of how they looked, but really cut their laughable turn on account of the lateness of the hour. The final event was a fine exhibition of weight-lifting and physical culture work by Al Treloar and wife, Mr. Treloar being the physical-culture director of the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Glove Making in Prague.

Consul U. J. Ledoux writes that about 80,000 dozen gloves are annually manufactured in Prague and vicinity, representing a value of about $2,248,000. About 1500 glove cutters and 120 other employés are engaged. The export of leather gloves from that Austrian district to the United States declined from $408,870 in the fiscal year 1895 to only $60,275 in the fiscal year 1906, entirely due to the higher tariff rates on this article and the great development of this industry in America.

TO CURE THAT COLD

Local Druggist's Suggestion

Said a member of the Owl Drug Co., "This is the season for coughs and colds, and for the benefit of Los Angeles people we want to tell them the best means for a cure.

"Don't dose the stomach with cough syrups. It's no use; they only soothe a little—upset the stomach and do not heal.

"The best cure we know is Vinol, which contains in a highly concentrated form all of the healing, curative elements taken from genuine fresh cods' livers, without a drop of oil to upset the stomach and retard its work. It contains no sickening drugs whatever. Vinol heals, cures and strengthens the sore lungs and bronchial tubes. It makes rich, red blood, builds up the appetite and creates strength; in fact it is the best remedy we have ever sold in our store for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all lung affections.

"We ask every person in Los Angeles who has a chronic cough or hard cold to try Vinol on our guarantee to return their money if they are not satisfied."

Lawyer for Harrim... That Right to Com... Railway or Other ... not Be Restricted b...

(BY THE ASSOCIATE...

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Argument in the matter of E. H. Harriman's railroad transaction was begun before the Interstate Commerce Commission today. The case commenced at 10 o'clock, and when the commission adjourned for the day, at 4:30, Harriman's lawyers had not concluded their presentation in his behalf.

The first of the series of addresses was made by Attorney Paul D. Cravath, who represented not only Harriman, but also Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and he was followed by Judge R. S. Lovett and John C. Milburn. Mr. Cravath dealt especially with the Chicago and Alton Railroad capitalization, while Lovett devoted most of his attention to the attack upon the consolidation of the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific roads.

Cravath contended that the Chicago and Alton transaction had been misunderstood by both the commission and the public, and he declared the proceeding followed was not unusual in financial transactions.

With reference to the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific roads Lovett declared they were not competing lines, but argued even if they were the transaction had not been illegal, because the Southern Pacific had been purchased outright by the Union Pacific, which was not in contravention of the statutes.

Milburn said the general application of the anti-trust law to the railroads of the country, as it was proposed to apply in the Southern Pacific-Union Pacific deal, would put every railroad in the country on the defensive and most of them would have greater difficulty than would the Union Pacific in meeting the attacks.

PROGRESS OF ARGUMENTS.

Commissioners Clements, Lane, Harlan and Clark were upon the bench to hear the arguments. Judge Lovett, representing the Harriman interests, presented a few papers and directed attention to certain parts of the hearing held in New York.

Paul D. Cravath, representing the Harriman interests, stated that a misapprehension had been created in the public mind as to the Alton transactions, and as to the purposes of the recapitalization of the line.

Cravath said that the time had come for much stricter regulation of the stocks and bonds of semi-public corporations.

"The liberal laws that have existed in this regard," said he, "have materially aided in the development and growth of the country. The watering of stock, in my opinion, has been helpful in the past. The time has come, however, in the development of the country, in the balancing of advantages and evils, for a much stricter issuance of the stocks and bonds."

Cravath asserted that in the Chicago and Alton deal the officials were pursuing a well recognized method of distributing money to the stockholders, and that all these transactions were well understood by the financial interests of the country. He asserted that no secret was madeof these transactions, and that they were presented fairly to the public by all the financial agencies. No interest and no investor so far as he knew could have been misinformed concerning them.

Cravath said it was evident that the time had come when the par value of securities should obtain a definite relation to the actual value of these securities, and there was no reason for the belief that the Alton transactions had not been conducted in that view.

SAVED MONEY FOR PUBLIC.

In the afternoon session Judge Lovett contended that in so far as the recapitalization of the Alton affected the public, it had resulted in a saving of $168,000 per annum as compared with the expenditures of interest and dividends made prior to the change.

He argued that all the criticism of the readjustment of the Chicago & Alton's finances had been due to the unusual methods pursued, and said that if the ordinary methods had been followed no attention would have been attracted to the transaction.

Taking up the relations of the Southern and Union Pacific he contended that this was not a Northern Securities case for, whereas, the North... Pacific and the Great Northern were contiguous as well as parallel, the distance from the Union Pacific lines to the Southern Pacific lines is fully a thousand miles, while there are many other lines in the intervening territory.

He also entered into an argument to show that the Union Pacific purchase of the Southern Pacific had been, in every way, legitimate and not in pursuance of a conspiracy, as was the case in the Northern Securities case. In the matter of the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific there was a purchase; in the other a conspiracy.

CLAIMS GOOD FAITH.

That no court had ever held that a bona fide purchase by one company of the stock of another is in violation of the anti-trust act, Lovett asserted this with emphasis.

He admitted that there had been some combination between the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific, but declared if the volume of business had been much larger it would have no bearing upon the purchase of one road by the owners of the other, as that purchase was in itself a legitimate business transaction of such a character that the courts will not interfere with it.

There could be no curtailment of the right to buy property under the anti-trust act.

"Suppose the motive of the purchase was to get rid of competition?" asked Commissioner Clements.

"I believe the purchaser would still have a right to buy."

"Do you apply that doctrine to public utility corporations?" asked Commissioner Clark.

"Assuming that they have the power under their charters, I should say yes."

PURCHASE IS NOT BARRED.

"And you would regard the suspension of competition as merely incidental," Mr. Clark asked.

"I am inclined to that opinion," answered Lovett. He contended, however, that in the Southern Pacific-Union Pacific transaction the suppression of competition had been as remote as to remove that feature as a motive for the transaction. He also attempted to show it was the design of Congress that the Pacific roads should be operated as one line regardless of the diversity of the ownership, and referred to the earlier purchase of the Central Pacific by the Southern Pacific as a precedent for Harriman's acquisition of the Southern Pacific.

Lawyer for Harriman Boldly Argues That Right to Complete Purchase of Railway or Other Commodity Cannot Be Restricted by Statute.

SAVED MONEY FOR PUBLIC.

In the afternoon session Judge Lovett contended that in so far as the recapitalization of the Alton affected the public, it had resulted in a saving of $[illegible] per annum as compared with the expenditures of interest and dividends made prior to the change.

He argued that all the criticism of the readjustment of the Chicago & Alton's finances had been due to the unusual methods pursued, and said that if the ordinary methods had been followed no attention would have been attracted to the transaction.

PURCHASE IS NOT BARRED.

"And you would regard the suppression of competition as merely incidental," Mr. Clark asked.

"I am inclined to that opinion," answered Lovett. He contended, however, that in the Southern Pacific-Union Pacific transaction the suppression of competition had been as remote as to remove that feature as a motive for the transaction. He also attempted to show it was the design of Congress that the Pacific roads should be operated as one line regardless of the diversity of the ownership, and referred to the earlier purchase of the Central Pacific by the Southern Pacific as a precedent for Harriman's acquisition of the Southern Pacific.

Referring to the question of the suppression of competition, he outlined the situation, with reference to the Union Pacific, which has just emerged from a receivership, and asked:

"Does any sane man suppose it would enter upon this transaction for the mere purpose of suppressing competition?"

As a matter of fact, the Union Pacific was in no position to control transcontinental business, and the men in charge of it had found themselves compelled to buy the Southern Pacific to protect their own interests. They knew they must get an outlet to the Pacific Coast, which they must do by securing control of the Central Pacific, then owned by the Southern Pacific, or build a line to the ocean. Naturally, they had chosen the former course. The Union Pacific must either secure the Central Pacific or see it absorbed by a rival, which it could not consent to, even though the Southern Pacific Company owned the Southern Pacific "Sunset" line, as well as the Central Pacific. Hence, he argued, the transaction should be regarded as the purchase of a connecting, rather than a competing, line.

Replying to Commissioner Clements, Lovett said the Union Pacific had bought into the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe as an investment. He contended for the legality of this transaction, and when reminded that his position was at variance with that of Harriman, said one might easily differ from that gentleman on a legal question. Commissioner Clark said such a line of reasoning would lead to the conclusion that one man with sufficient money might control all the railroads in the country, and Lovett said he did not believe that the Constitution would interfere with such a right by any man.

PURCHASE RIGHT IS VALID.

Lovett contended that the anti-trust law does not deal with the question of the acquisition of the stock of one company by another, but its sole purpose is to prevent the suppression of competition in restraint of trade. No such result, he declared, had followed the Union Pacific purchase of the Southern Pacific Securities. Speaking of Senator W. A. Clark's line from Salt Lake to Los Angeles, which the Senator had built in conjunction with the Union Pacific stockholders, Lovett contended for their right to enter upon this enterprise. While he was willing to admit the law might prohibit the acquisition by one company of a parallel road, he argued that this prohibition does not extend to the construction of a parallel line. In reply to Commissioner Lane, he said there had been no change in the ownership of the Clark road since the beginning of the hearing.

Attorney John G. Milburn expressed the opinion that if the Southern Pacific-Union Pacific system is illegal every railroad system in the United States is illegal. He considered the question involved is the most important that could possibly be raised in connection with the railroads. He said he was sure other systems would have more difficulty than he, and his fellow-counsel in sustaining their contentions. Purchase of the Southern Pacific, he declared, was legal under the anti-trust law. "If you make illegal every purchase of competing railroad property you stop the business of the world," he said, and then declared the wheels could not revolve for twenty-four hours under such a restriction.

In support of the assertion that the "great mass of business in the acquisition of property interferes with competition," he referred to the general tendency toward consolidation of business interests. All these combinations rest upon right of purchase, he said, and he contended that such a right is recognized regardless of its effect upon competition.

Milburn will continue tomorrow.

UNIONS AND THE LAWS.

THE RIGHTS OF WORKERS AND EMPLOYERS DEFINED.

Intimidation Does Not Always Mean Violence—Rights That Belong to One Side of a Controversy Also Belong to the Other Side—Picketing Not Allowable.

The numerous cases wherein the power of the courts has been invoked during labor disturbances has resulted in decisions defining the rights of labor unions, as well as the rights of employers. Nevertheless, whenever a strike is on, one of the natural acts is an attempt at intimidation to prevent free men from taking the places of those who have voluntarily given up their places of employment. By intimidation is not necessarily meant physical violence. In fact, the courts have said that the most potential and unlawful force or violence may exist without lifting a finger against any man or uttering a word of threat against him. The keeping near a mill of large bodies of men, massed and controlled by leaders so as to be used for obstruction, if desired, is a most substantial exhibition of force, according to the court, which says: "A willing worker but a timid man would be deterred by the mere knowledge of that fact from going to the mill, when he desired to go, or had agreed to go, or, being already at work, feared to return through the streets where the men were congregated, or, having started, would turn back, fearing the trouble that might come of the event. Such a force would be violence within the prohibition of the law; and its exhibition should be enjoined as violating the property rights of the plaintiffs in the streets, their liberty of contracting for substitute labor, and the liberty of the substitutes to work. If they wished to accept the wages offered them and to pass through the streets to their work."

The manner in which Cornelius Shea and his fellow labor conspirators were acquitted by the Chicago courts recently is not conducive to respect for the local courts. Even the labor unions themselves would have got a better conception of the rights of man if this case had gone differently. Elective courts, it is to be regretted, are prone to measure their political future against the duty which they owe to the communities which they represent.

The fact that labor-union leaders, roused by passion to the pitch of violence, have, as a general thing, been immune from terms of imprisonment, which would be imposed upon others under similar circumstances, encourages others, all the country over, to commit similar offenses, in the belief that the same leniency will be shown them. It is the court that stands for law and order and is ready and willing to enforce it by such measures as are deemed and shown to be necessary, that constitutes the bulwark of our industrial peace today. The court which, when an assault of a serious nature is committed or a riot started, will not quail in the presence of a vote of thousands, but will give punishment commensurate with the acts done, is the tribunal worthy of the name of "court."

From a consideration of the general law on the subject, the following propositions may be laid down:

First—Employés act within their rights when they go out on a strike, whether with good cause or without any cause or reason. They have the right to quit the employ of the company for which they work, and their reasons for quitting work are reasons which they need give to no one. The fact that they all go out in a body by agreement, or by preconcerted arrangement, does not militate against them or affect the case in any way.

Second—Such rights are reciprocal, and the company has the right to discharge any or all of its employés, with or without cause, and it cannot be inquired into as to what the cause was.

Third—It is immaterial whether the employés are not in the service of the company, because of a strike, or by reason of a lock-out.

Fourth—The employés have the right to combine and work together in whatsoever way they believe will increase their earnings, shorten their hours, lessen their labor or better their condition, and it is for them and them only, to say whether they will work by the day or piecework. It is a part of their liberty, but they can so conclude as individuals, as organizations, or as unions.

Fifth—This right is also reciprocal. The company has the right to have its work done by the premium or the piece system, or any other manner, or by any other rule, without molestation from employés or others. This is liberty for the employer, and the employer alone has the right to determine as to that matter.

Sixth—When employés go on a strike, or when they are locked out, their relations with their employer are at an end. They are no longer the employés of the company, and the places they once occupied are no longer their places, and never can be again, except by mutual agreement between them and the company.

Seventh—No one of the employés can be compelled by any law or by any order of any court to again work for their employer on any terms or under any conditions.

Eighth—The company cannot be compelled to employ again any of the defendants or any other persons by any law or any order of any court or any terms or under any conditions.

Ninth—Each of the foregoing matters is, in precisely the same way, to be applied to the company and the employés.

Tenth—The employer has the right to seek the services of others to take the places once filled by the strikers, and in employing others, their former employés are not to be consulted. It is of no lawful concern to them, and they can make no lawful complaint by reason thereof. It makes no difference whether the new employés are citizens of the city in which the manufactory operated against is located, or are from any other city or State in the Union. Their rights remain precisely the same.

Eleventh—The striking employés have the right to argue or discuss with the new employés the question whether the latter should continue to work for the company. They have the right to persuade them by proper means if they can, but in presenting the matter, they have no right to use force or violence. They have no right to terrorize or intimidate the new employés. The new employés have the right to come and go as they please, without fear of molestation, and without being compelled to discuss this, or any other question, and without being guarded or picketed, and persistent and continued and objectionable persuasion by number is of itself intimidating and not allowable.

Twelfth—Picketing in force proximity to the shops or elsewhere on the streets of the city, if in fact it annoys or intimidates the employés, is not allowable. The streets are for the public use, and the employés have the same right—neither more nor less—freely and without molestation, and without being harassed by so-called arguments, and without being picketed as have unionists or any other person. In short, the rights of all parties are one and the same.

Thirteenth—More than this, the former employés have no right to use intimidation or coercion for the purpose of boycotting the product of the company involved in their difficulties.

FIRES BURN FOR CENTURIES.

KITCHEN FIRE IN ENGLAND LIGHTED A CENTURY AGO.

Persian Fire Worshipers Kill a Person Guilty of Letting Flame Die Out—Sicilians Light Fires That Burn Till Their Vengeance Is Satisfied.

At Slapstones, near Osmotherly, a village on the Yorkshire moor, is an unpretentious inn called the Chequers, which, despite its commonplace name and appearance, boasts of the possession of something absolutely unique, so far as England is concerned. It is a fire that never goes out. The inn has been in the occupation of the same family for over one hundred years, and during that long term the fire in the kitchen has never been extinguished. The only British rival to the "eternal fire" of Slapstones comes a long way behind. A Donegal publican, named Halloran, has a fire which has not been extinguished for twenty years.

But fires that have lasted for hundreds of years are comparatively common in other parts of the world. The ancient fire worshipers of Persia kept fires alive for centuries and the practice is kept up by the Parsees, their modern descendants.

It is an article of faith with some of the semi-savage tribes of Portuguese East Africa never to let fires go out. The local superstition is that every time the fire is extinguished a human being goes to death. A man who lights a fire and deliberately lets it go out is set upon by the tribe and killed. His death expiates the crime and is supposed to prevent the death of some of his comrades.

FIRES IN SICILIAN FEUDS.

Sicilian vendettas sometimes lead to the keeping up of a fire for years. The wronged individual solemnly lights a fire and swears that it will never be extinguished until his desire for vengeance is assuaged. When he leaves his home, intent on murder, he exhorts his wife to keep up the fire; otherwise his enterprise will fail. When he has taken vengeance he returns home, takes a live coal from the grate, singes his beard or mustache and tramps on the fire until it has gone out. At a trial which took place at Palermo about twelve years ago it was shown in evidence that the accused, who had just murdered an enemy, had kept his kitchen fire alight for four years.

The Shamanist tribes of Western Siberia regard fire with such reverence that they dread its extinction. When as many fires have gone out on earth as there are stars in the sky the world, they believe, will come to an end. In a cold country there fires are needed more than half the year this belief is, of course, a cause of much inconvenience. A little casuistry, however, enables them to get over the difficulty. One fire, originally lighted with tinder or matches, is always kept alive, two tribesmen being constantly on the watch.

BORROW FROM CHIEF BLAZE.

Fires for domestic use are lighted by taking a brand from the chief fire. The Shamanist logic is that these latter are not real fires, not having been kindled by artificial means. They are merely parts of the great fire; their extinction causes no harm.

In the year 1906, just past, a Bradford (Eng.) man kept his study fire burning for seven months because of a dream. In this dream he saw his fire suddenly go out and the next moment he imagined he was bankrupt and starving. Being somewhat superstitious he has since insisted upon the fire being kept up. If it goes out he firmly believes financial trouble will overtake him.

Near Debreezin, in Hungary, is a fire which has lasted for thirty-seven years. It is kept up in consonance with an old custom existing in the family of M. Avyari, a local landed proprietor. When M. Avyari was born, thirty-seven years ago, the fire was lighted. It will not be extinguished until his death. In the same house exists another fire eight years old lighted on the eldest son's birthday. This, in turn, will be kept alive until the son's death; and when an heir shall be born to him a third fire will be lighted. In the eighteenth century four fires were going at the same time, the oldest being that of the grandfather, the youngest that of his great-grandson.

TRAIN HITS LANDSLIDE.

One Man Killed by Wreck Near Lang Station.

Baggage Car Smashed and Baggage Scattered.

Traffic Will Be Delayed for Twenty-four Hours.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LANG, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The second section of No. 23, a heavy Southern Pacific passenger train, ran into a landslide one-half mile west of Lang tonight at 10 o'clock. A great smash-up is the result. One unknown man was killed, but not a single passenger or member of the crew was hurt.

The train left Los Angeles at 7:30 o'clock and had twelve cars and two engines. It was running only about fifteen miles an hour. The jar of the heavy train brought down probably a thousand tons of earth and stone. The head engine was crowded about ten feet off the track and surmounted the earth pile to an elevation of several feet. The second engine has but one truck off the track.

The baggage car is smashed to smithereens and stands on one end and grips are scattered in all directions and baggage smashed. Baggageman Higgins was in the express car, which was only slightly damaged. All the other cars on the track little injured.

Engineer Billy Nearice, on the front engine, No. 1701, saw the slide coming down upon him and jumped and ran after putting on his air and reversing steam. He escaped miraculously.

Sam Young was engineer, Robert Garber was conductor and C. W. Ritchum was head brakeman. The delay will be almost twenty-four hours. The slide is exactly where one occurred a month ago.

One man was killed. A portion of his body only has been found. He was probably a tramp stealing a ride. Until the wreck is cleared there is no means of getting his body.

KNOCKED FROM TRACKS.

FIREMAN IS INJURED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BAKERSFIELD, April 4.—While moving slowly down the mountain this morning the engine of the Coast Line Limited running to San Francisco over the valley division was hit by a landslide and knocked from the tracks. Engineer Ed Curi was slightly injured about the ankle and Fireman Andy Nolan was badly cut on the forehead and has a wrenched leg. No passengers were hurt and no cars left the track. Traffic was delayed six hours.

Three other small wrecks occurred last night, a freight train on the Porterville branch leaving the rails near Famosa, two cars left the track at Cable and the wrecker was derailed en route to the Famosa wreck.

VETERANS' MEETING.

A meeting for the veterans will be held tomorrow afternoon in Memorial Hall, Soldiers' Home, under the direction of Mrs. Hester Griffith. The speaker will be Miss Percy B. Rickards, who has charge of the Presbyterian Church at Rivera. Her topic will be: "Our Country's Needs." Mrs. Paul Brown will sing.

LECTURE ON BRAZIL.

Prof. A. F. Shaw of Occidental College will lecture before the Young Men's Christian Association tomorrow evening, on Brazil. The lecture is a prelude to the opening of the spring term of the educational classes.

FIT SNATCHES FROM DEATH.

Long Beach Girl, Bent on Suicide, Is Stopped from Carrying Out Intentions.

[SPECIALLY CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.]

LONG BEACH, April 4.—Elsie Granada, the pretty 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prockoff Granada, would now be a suicide but for an interposition of Providence, which struck her down with an epileptic fit as she was wading out into deep water in Cerritos Slough to carry out her mad intention.

The young woman, who lives with her parents at the corner of Fifteenth street and Daisy avenue, has been in ill health for several months, and of late has grown despondent. This morning she was in unusually low spirits, and at noon suddenly told her mother that life was no longer bright and rushed out of the house toward Cerritos Slough, which flows past the Granada house, two hundred feet from Daisy avenue. The mother and elder brother hurried after her, and, reaching the banks of the river, found the girl lying in the shallow water in an epileptic fit, which had stricken her as she entered the stream. Thinking her dead, Miss Granada was carried home, where a neighbor detected signs of life, and sending for a doctor, the unfortunate girl was soon restored to consciousness, and this afternoon was reported to be recovering nicely. Had the attack come a moment later, death would have resulted, as the water in the slough deepens rapidly.

ELECT TRUSTEE TODAY.

Much interest centers in the election of a school trustee Friday for the Long Beach district, as upon the result depends the retention of Prof. J. J. Morgan for another year. The holdover trustees stand one in favor and one opposed to his retention. It is set forth that no logical reasons for his dismissal have been given, and the fight is generally understood to be a personal one. Of the candidates Friday, George H. Blount, who is put forward as a representative of Alamitos favors Prof. Morgan. The election will be a warm one, and a big vote is looked for, with chances favoring Blount, as he comes from that part of the district not now represented and which contributes largely to the school fund.

SEASHORE NEWS POINTS.

A novel organization was formed in this city last night of a Sunday-school baseball league, with a team from every Sunday-school in the city, following a regular schedule, to be played on Saturdays until June 8. A requirement of all players is that they must be regular attendants at Sunday-school and under 16 years of age. A silver cup will be awarded to the winners, and a pennant for second honors.

Fern Hasty, aged 6 years, was struck down and seriously injured this morning by an unknown bicyclist, who hurried away without waiting to see his victim's condition. Her mouth was seriously cut by one of the handle bars.

Mrs. George Hoeppner, wife of a local druggist, today filed suit for divorce, on the grounds of cruelty and incompatibility, and this morning left the action comes as a surprise to their friends in this city.

The trio of gamblers caught in a raid Tuesday night and released on cash bail have forfeited their bond and left town.

Mrs. Mary Ayer Gould, aged 34, died this morning at the home of her daughter on Atlantic avenue. She was a native of Canada, and came to Long Beach six months ago from Colorado.

Mrs. Mary A. Stevens died this morning after a short illness. She was a native daughter, and had lived in Long Beach eighteen years.

Mrs. Mattie A. Bridges, a well-known lecturer on Odd Fellowship, and an author and musician of some note, was taken to Los Angeles today to be examined as to her sanity.

Prof. E. S. Fields of the State Normal School was in the city today in conference with Jotham Bixby relative to his offer of ten acres as a site. One requirement that may bother Long Beach is the rule necessitating the availability of 500 children to attend the training schools.

ALHAMBRA.

ALHAMBRA, April 4.—C. E. English died suddenly last night at his home on East Main street as a result of a stroke of paralysis. Mr. English removed to Alhambra about twenty years ago, and had lived here since that date.

Youngest Telegraph Operator.

The Wisconsin and Michigan road claims the distinction of having the youngest telegraph operator in the world. This world wonder is located at Loretto in the person of Earl Moss, who at the age of 6 can send and take messages from the wire with person of L. J. Moss, the operator at Loretto for the Wisconsin and Michigan road, and when quite young was taught the Morse code by his father. He is quite correct in his manipulation of the key. His father and employés of the road generally say he is the youngest operator they have ever heard of.

Miss Parmenter Married.

At the home of her parents, No. 143 West Forty-first street, at 2 o'clock Sunday, Miss Nellie Parmenter became the bride of George De Haven of Long Beach. The cottage was prettily decorated throughout with English ivy callas and roses. As the wedding march was being played by Miss Nina Ramey, little Minta Rensimer, as a flower girl, advanced, carrying a bouquet of large pink carnations for the bride. At her side marched Master Dwight Kindig, ring-bearer, carrying the bride's ring, buried in the heart of a calla. After them, on her father's arm, came the bride, dressed in light blue silk, followed by the bridesmaid, Mrs. Beulah Gerard. As they took their place under the canopy of flowers, the groom came forward, led by the best man, Earl Gerard. The ring ceremony was then performed by Rev. Andrews. Immediately after congratulations luncheon was served to a host of friends and relatives present. The bride received many pretty and useful presents. The bride and groom will make their home at No. 926 East Fourth street, Long Beach.

Birthday Party.

The pretty home of Miss Hazel Ralphs, No. 422 West Avenue 56, was the scene of a pleasant gathering of young people Tuesday evening, the occasion being the eighteenth birthday of the young hostess. The house was decorated for the event—the reception hall and library in green and white, the large living-room in red and green, and the dining-room, where luncheon was served, being effective in pink and green. A large birthday cake decorated with pink candles, graced the center of the table.

Progressive whist was the feature of the evening. Prizes were awarded to Miss Elma Butler, Fred Muncy, Miss Lulu Bonsack and Stillman Ingalls. Miss Ralphs was assisted in entertaining by Misses Shull and Bernice Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Hutchison, who arrived in Honolulu with the Southern California excursionists, have decided to remain until April 6, when they will sail for home on the Korea.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

General Federation.

The council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs will meet this year in Norfolk, Va., June 5 and 6. June 6 has been designated "Federation Day" and the concluding session of the council will be held that afternoon in Exposition Hall, grounds of the Jamestown Exposition.

Norfolk has a large and flourishing women's club, and is close to the exposition center. The headquarters for the council will probably be in the new Hotel Lyndham, which has a large assembly room accommodating 500 persons. The morning, afternoon, and evening sessions of June 5, and the morning session of June 6, will be held here if the hotel is positively decided upon.

The only Los Angeles woman belonging to the board of directors of this council is Mrs. Josiah E. Cowles, who expects to attend. The function of this body is to consider and promote the interests of the general federation. The board of directors, the presidents of all federations and clubs and other organizations directly federated, and all general federation secretaries, constitute the voting body of the council, but all club women are welcome to the meetings. Subjects of vital importance to every home maker will be considered in the informal reports of the standing committees on art, education, household economics, pure food, civics, library extension, literature, forestry, industrial and child labor legislative, civil service reform, reciprocity and outlook. These reports give opportunity of noting the progress made along all lines of work since the St. Paul biennial last year and are an incentive toward further achievement for the next biennial to be held in Boston, June, 1908.

Special attention will be given at Norfolk to the bureau of information established by the general federation, and which has more than 800 lines of study prepared by experts for the use of clubs.

During the council Henry T. Bailey of Boston will deliver a lecture on the "Beauty of Common Things," and Miss Jane Brownlee of San Diego will speak on "Moral Education in the Schools."

Arts and Crafts.

The Arts and Crafts Committee of the Friday Morning Club will have charge of today's programme which will consist of a talk by Hector Alliott on "Handicraft in Metals," illustrated by various exhibits.

Department of Civics.

The Department of Civics of the Ebell Club, of which Mrs. Augustus Hine is curator, came close to home in its discussion this week on "Influence of Women's Clubs in Matters of Public Interest in Los Angeles."

Madame Severance spoke particularly of matters affecting the morals of the community, and particularly of the temptations that beset our boys and girls in all parts of the city, urging concerted attention on the part of women to counteract this evil.

Mrs. O. Shepherd Barnum spoke of the Scholarship Fund for keeping children in school who are not able to attend because their services are needed for making a livelihood for the family. Mrs. Barnum's interest and enthusiasm so aroused her hearers that the members of the department assumed the work of raising funds to meet the expenses of a scholarship.

Tell us how much Lard your grocer sells and we will tell you how much indigestion is in the neighborhood.

Lard is made from hog-fat and is bound to be greasy and indigestible—sometimes absolutely unhealthy. There isn't an ounce of hog-fat in Cottolene. Its basis is just pure, refined Cotton seed oil, which is thoroughly digestible and healthful.

The stomach of the average American has been subjected to lard-soaked food for years simply because people have not known the dangers of the "lard habit." Cottolene is so much superior to lard, both as to the palatability of the food it produces and its healthful qualities, that it will surely supplant lard for shortening and frying purposes wherever its virtues are known. Give your poor stomach a chance—divorce yourself from lard, and use Cottolene.

Cottolene is made by a cleanly, hygienic, sanitary process, which insures its purity. It is, moreover, healthful, because its chief ingredient is a healthful product. It will aid rather than retard digestion. The housewife who pays any attention to hygienic cooking will use Cottolene in place of lard every time.

COTTOLENE was granted a GRAND PRIZE (highest possible award) over all other cooking fats at the recent Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and food cooked with COTTOLENE another GRAND PRIZE.

"Home Helps" a book of 300 choice recipes, edited by Mrs. Rorer, is yours for a 2 cent stamp, if you address The N. K. Fairbank Company, Chicago.

A NEW FEATURE—The patent air-tight top on this pail is for the purpose of keeping COTTOLENE clean, fresh and wholesome; it also prevents it from absorbing all disagreeable odors of the grocery, such as fish, oil, etc.

ON THE TRAIL OF MARK TWAIN.

NOTED AUTHOR ON STILL HUNT FOR MATERIAL.

Finds Many Pathetic Incidents in Life of Famous Humorist and Describes How He Got His First Start in Writing—Two of Twain's Old Friends Now Dying.

Alfred Bigelow Paine, the author, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, accompanied by his wife and daughter, and they are guests at the Alexandria.

Mr. Paine is on a still hunt and shuns the light of publicity for he is on the trail of Mark Twain.

Mr. Paine has been asked by Harper Bros. to follow the trail of Mark Twain from San Francisco to New York and gather all available data to be used in an autobiographic article. The real nuggets of the inwardness of Mark Twain's life are a treasure to Mr. Paine, he says, and he will not reveal them until he puts them in print under his own name.

"I have encountered several pathetic incidents connected with Mr. Clemens's life," said Mr. Paine yesterday. "It is strange, but two of the old comrades of Twain, or Clemens, as you please, were on their deathbed and one other old friend died one week before I could reach him.

"Every one who has read Mr. Twain's works knows of Jackass Hill up near Sonora. This is where Twain really got his first start in writing. He had tried his hand on the San Francisco Call and had been asked to resign; that is, he had been fired, point blank. He went back up to Jackass Hill, which is one of the greatest placer gold mining properties in the world, and there, with old Jim Hillis, spent some of the most pleasant moments of his life. It was here that he heard the first tale of the Jumping Frog which he afterwards wrote and which was the first pillar of his success. Hillis is now dying in a hospital in Sonora. He is about 80 years old and I was fortunate in getting a moment to talk to him.

"Then there is Maj. John Dennis of Reno, Nev., one of Twain's old friends. He is also in a hospital and is dying. In Carson City I found that two of Twain's bosom friends had died two weeks before my arrival. I have started out on this hunt for original data on Twain's life in an effort to secure the first-hand stories of the old friends who knew him before he was a national figure, before the grim reaper had gathered them in. I will go from here to New Orleans and thence back up the Mississippi River to St. Louis, where I want to see old Pilot Horace B. Bixby, who is now over 80 years old and who is the man who broke Twain into the steamboating business so long ago. Bixby is still in the harness and takes his boat regularly on the big river. From there I will go to New York and call my quest over."

PICKS A LEMON ORCHARD.

It's Juicy, and Enables Rev. Mr. Edwards to Give His Time Gratuitously to Bethlehem.

Rev. Nicholas Edwards has just resigned the pastorate of the Whittier Congregational Church, to become a coworker with Rev. Dana W. Bartlett, in Bethlehem Institution. Mr. Edwards is well known as an active and efficient man in Congregational affairs, is a brother of President Edwards of Throop Polytechnic Institute, Pasadena, and a son of Richard Edwards, who was for many years president of the Illinois State Normal University, and State Superintendent of Public Instruction of Illinois.

Mr. Edwards has been in the ministry for twenty-five years, and was known in Illinois as a church builder, before he came to California. Concerning his decision to turn his efforts into a new channel, he said yesterday:

"I regret very deeply to leave my work at Whittier, for it was never more encouraging than at present, but I have long felt the insufficiency of ordinary church methods for reaching the people. They are good as far as they go, but they do not go to the root of the matter. I ask nothing better than to give my personal services to the Bethlehem work, in which I have been interested since its beginning."

Mr. Edwards's business tact enters largely into his ability to take up work at Bethlehem without a salary. It is said that three years ago he was struggling along on a limited salary as a preacher, when his business sagacity suggested that he had a good opportunity to buy a lemon grove, and he acted on the impulse. Last year it "cleaned up" $9000 from its lemons, and he expects to do better this year. He has attracted attention among business men by his dealings in lemons, and has had attractive business offers, but he turned them all down to join hands with Mr. Bartlett. He puts his hands to the plow yesterday and will be actively engaged in the raising of the $50,000 fund. Over $500 came in yesterday, bringing the total up to 34012, without any canvassers in the field, but an organized committee will probably take up the work next week.

GAMINS SHOCK THEATER-GOERS.

One Newsboy Arrested and Others Driven Away from Grand Operahouse.

As the result of many complaints to the officers and the management of the Grand Operahouse by patrons, an effort was made last night to quiet the newsboys who loiter around the entrance during the early part of the evening. Leon Chaira of No. 3020 Clinton street, a twelve-year-old newsie, was arrested after the officers had made several attmpts to drive away the boys.

Complaints come from patrolmen to Central Station that they have a great deal of trouble with the newsboys who sell papers in the vicinity of Main and First streets. Several times the officers have attempted to correct these lads, but as a rule citizens, who are not aware of the true conditions, have interfered.

It was learned from the special officer of the Grand Theater that the lads, among whom was Chaira, were using vile and obscene language. When he asked them to stop a volley of curses was hurled at him. An effort will be made to keep the newsboys within proper bounds.

VICTIM'S WIFE PROSTRATED.

So Friends of Dead Track Walker Solegano Urge Postponement of Inquest.

Because Mrs. J. B. Solegano, wife of the track walker killed by an engine in the Southern Pacific yards April 1, is prostrated with grief over the death of her husband, an effort was made last night to postpone the inquest, which was to be held today. A representative of the family communicated with the police last night and will lay the case before the Coroner today.

Solegano's home was in Azusa. Until the account of the death was read in the papers the family did not know of the accident. His wife hurried to a local morgue and after recognizing the dead man as her husband, swooned and was taken home in a semi-conscious condition. Since then Mrs. Solegano has been prostrated with grief.

Chinese Inspector Coming to See What That Government's Students Here Are Doing.

According to dispatches from Washington the Chinese government has notified this government that Mr. Weh, has been commissioned to visit the United States to examine into the education of Chinese youth. The examination will have nothing to do with local school affairs. According to Mr. Fawn, interpreter in Chinatown, the learned educator has been commissioned to ascertain the extent of the learning acquired by the students in the colleges and universities of California and in the Eastern States. These students are maintained by the Chinese government, and it is desired to know if they are learning anything, whether they are giving more attention to football than to information that may be useful to the Chinese government. If their progress is not satisfactory to this visiting educator, they will be degraded and recalled to China, and other students sent in their places.

NOT A SWEETENHAM INCIDENT.

People of New Zealand Know How to Appreciate the Aid of American Sailors.

Apropos to the recent incident in Jamaica, in which Rear-Admiral Chas. H. Davis, U.S.N., in return for his prompt and generous efforts to relieve the victims of a frightful disaster, was treated with vulgar discourtesy by the Governor-General of the island, James N. Douglas, chief master at arms, U.S.S. Tennessee, writes from the League Island Navy Yard to the New York Sun as follows: "In January, 1885, I served in the United States steamship Iroquois, then lying at Auckland, N. Z. A fire started in some lumber yards about midnight. The then captain (the late rear-admiral) Yates Stirling did not wait for any elaborate invitation, but landed fifty bluejackets, who were extremely useful in taking shipping out in stream, unbending sails from vessels which could not readily be moved, taking furniture and valuables from houses in the immediate vicinity of the fire district. The assistance rendered was considered so valuable by the people of the city that the officials corresponding to our Board of Aldermen, passed a resolution thanking the captain and praising the work of the crew, and presented the ship with a framed engrossed copy of their resolution. This was in striking contrast to the unmannerly, beggarly conduct of the person of the picturesque Dickens name."—Army and Navy Journal.

MISSIONARIES A... STARVING

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF ...

SHANGHAI (China) March 5, 1907. —The whole world has heard of China's great famine, but there are evidences, from this viewpoint, that the world knows of the connection of the missionaries therewith, which is an interesting story of itself, although it cannot be separated from the warp and woof of the tragic story of this overwhelming calamity. By an interesting coincidence, just at the moment of Sir Ernest Satow's attack on missionaries in China, the latter are silently answering his and kindred criticisms, and justifying their presence in the interior of this enigmatical country, by saving the lives of thousands, tens of thousands and hundreds of thousands of starving Chinese. I...

MISSIONARIES AID STARVING CHINESE.

They Alone Almoners of World's Bounty in Great Famine—Chinese Officials Untrustworthy—Only Missionaries Know People.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SHANGHAI (China) March 5, 1907.—The whole world has heard of China's great famine, but there are no evidences, from this viewpoint, that the world knows of the connection of the missionaries therewith, which is an interesting story of itself, although it cannot be separated from the warp and woof of the tragic tale of this overwhelming calamity. By an interesting coincidence, just at the moment of Sir Ernest Satow's attack upon missionaries in China, the latter are silently answering his and kindred criticisms, and justifying their presence in the interior of this enigmatical country, by saving the lives of thousands, nay of thousands and hundreds of thousands of starving Chinese. I have returned this week from a month's tour of the famine district, which is so remote from the treaty ports that I was informed that no other traveler had ever been there before me, and I am prepared to say that the presence of the missionaries alone makes it possible for the world's relief to be administered, and that were it not for these Americans most of the myriads of starving people would be permitted to perish.

In this correspondence many sharp criticisms of missionaries have been written here, however, is a state of facts which, as an indorsement of the missionaries by the Far East, needs no itself. The simple fact that the North China Famine Relief Committee is composed of the consuls, leading merchants, government officials and other prominent citizens of Shanghai, who pledged its word to distribute all foreign relief funds exclusively through the responsible hands of the missionaries shows what the settlement officials really think of the missionary body. For by intrusting this gigantic task of relief distribution to the missionaries the business community here declares plainly its confidence in the integrity as well as the integrity of the missionary. Shanghai may not like the missionary's views or work, but it really trusts him.

MISSIONARIES TO THE RESCUE.

The people in America clearly understand that there are practically no men, except missionaries, living in China outside the treaty ports. They have no right to reside or business elsewhere. The foreigners in the interior, with the exception of a few working on concessions, are only missionaries. These latter are likewise practically the only ones who spend several years in learning the Chinese language; the foreign mercantile class do business through English-speaking Chinese "shroffs" or "comprador." It is as true as most generalizations, to say that the missionaries live among the foreigners unknown to the Chinese.

When it was, quite naturally, the missionaries who first called attention to the presence of famine in Kiangpeh, the Hwai River country. During the spring and summer heavy rains fell throughout Kiangpu and Anhuei provinces, and in the adjacent parts of Honan and Honan provinces. The Yellow River overflowed its banks, and the Grand Canal and lesser canals, dikes breaking in many places, since the land is at many points lower than the ancient canals. The country was a long time submerged, remaining so in numerous places until this day.

Despite the floods, the missionaries managed to traverse their fields, one of them, at least, nearly losing his life in the swirling. Miss Read, for example, while itinerated among the sufferers for six and seven miles at a time, sometimes above her waist, on one occasion she was barely out of a house before it collapsed. Native churches and native homes, both alike built of mud or of sun-dried brick, crumbled before the attacks of the water. So before China herself knew there was a famine, the missionaries were sending home their pleas to the relief papers. A missionary relief committee was first in the field, but it later rendered unnecessary by the far stronger general committee at Shanghai, which soon had the missionaries who live in the district busily engaged distributing its funds.

THE UNSPEAKABLE CHINESE.

Christendom can never understand the Chinese, not even when it sees and feels in its native element. The depth and callousness of his selfishness and materialism are simply beyond the pale. In sharp contrast with the apathy of the missionaries in behalf of the homeless and the hungry was the indifference of the Chinese officials. These they reported that there was famine. Then they tried to minimize it. Then, when it became evident that relief funds were in sight, they swelled the figures enormously. Even when investigation confirms me in the belief that the missionary figures are conservative: 10,000,000 people, over 40,000 square miles, affected by famine, and 2,000,000 menaced by actual starvation, unless given aid unto next summer.

A normal resident of a civilized country can scarcely realize that a nation could be indifferent over the impending death of 5,000,000 of its subjects. Yet the Chinese seemingly have no sense of compassion; for simon-pure selfishness they outrank even an American corporation. When a Chinaman does good deeds it is for his own advantage, not for the other man's assistance. In most cities in this country there are societies "for laying up merit by doing good works;" the supporters are after the merit which Buddhism assures them.

Last Monday in the office of one of these societies I saw three little children, aged perhaps 12, 8 and 6, apply for help. The two younger were ashen with cold and hunger, and they were crying. A fat and greasy official drove them out with noisy imprecation. I asked him what ailed the wee one, which seemed to be suffering sorely. He said the children are homeless orphans, and that the one rag which covered this little one's shoulders was its only protection from the penetrating cold. Still it did not occur to him to help. Two missionaries were with me, and calling upon the children to follow, one of them led the way to his house, where he obtained some garments belonging to his own child and gave them to the little sufferer. The spectacle of three foreign men, and an old coolie, trying to dress that Chinese waif in the kilts and pantalettes of a Scotch laddie was highly entertaining to a great crowd of Chinese. Incidents could be multiplied by the score, all drawn from personal observation, showing the utter heedlessness on the part of the Chinese of a neighbor's suffering.

GRAFTERS HINDER HELP.

From the American Consul-General here I learn that considerable is being said in America about the danger to missionaries at this time. This is only another adroit manifestation of the Chinese crafty, grafty politics. The officials here are merely trying by these wiles to force the foreigners to place the disbursement of the relief funds in Chinese hands.

It is a matter of first-hand knowledge that the sentiment toward foreigners in the famine region is wholly friendly. I found the peasants expressing distrust and hatred of their own officials, and looking to the foreigners for help. With no escort whatever and with no Chinese-speaking companion, Mrs. Ellis and I traveled through hundreds of miles of the territory which the officials declare to be so dangerous. We went through the refugee concentration camps and even ventured to give assistance to especially needy cases, which, it has been owlishly averred, would be almost certain death to any one attempting it. Absolutely alone, with no other foreigners near, nor any English-speaking Chinese, we attended a Chinese execution, and were the center of a mob of many thousands, gathered to gloat over and fiendishly enjoy the decapitation of criminals; and not so much as a hostile look did we receive, although a Chinese crowd is proverbially in its most dangerous mood at an execution.

All the missionaries in the afflicted area are absolutely unafraid; the only frightened one I met was a young Southern Baptist at Chinkiang, which is an open port, with British police, and outside the famine belt; his scaredness has been a matter of jest among his fellow missionaries during the entire two years that he has been on the field. One of the mission jokes is his request to a naval officer to keep a warship at Chinkiang.

The ugly aspect of this situation, though, is that these officials who predict trouble have the power to make their own prophecies come true. If, before this article is printed, or later, trouble occurs in the famine field, it will probably be directly due to the avaricious officials, who, by obstructing the free movements of the missionaries, and by various other tactics, are hindering the work of relief, all with the object of securing a "squeeze" for themselves. But the Shanghai relief committee, and Consul-General Rodgers, representing the American Red Cross, are unyielding, relief funds may be distributed only by missionaries, and by Chinese who work under their oversight and direction. Moreover, they are frankly placing the responsibility on "the man higher up," thus involving Chinese "face," and if the officials do not soon cooperate in saving the lives of their own countrymen, they will, at least, give a clear track to the foreigners.

By a general system of comity among the missions, the territory which is now suffering from famine is allotted to the Southern Presbyterians. Thus it comes about that the only American missionaries actually at work within this 40,000 square miles belong to a single denomination. This fact illustrates the immensity of China as a mission field. There are other denominations working on the edges of the famine, Northern Presbyterians in Shantung, Northern Methodists, Southern Baptists, Quakers, Disciples and Presbyterians at Nanking, Yangchow and Chinkiang.

Within the affected zone there are three Roman Catholic missions, but these are manned by French priests. There are also a few China inland missions, but the authorities of this organization have taken the position that their missionaries shall not engage in relief work, except to care for their own members and adherents. Doughty Miss Read, at Antung, has apparently cut communications between herself and headquarters, for she, declining to be bound by any such narrow regulations, is working as manfully for all the needy as the best male missionary concerned. The Roman Catholics at first declined to cooperate in a general relief work, in which no sectarian distinctions or proselyting are permitted, but later they accepted the Shanghai committee's terms.

The situation is at present that the missionaries have to a great extent surrendered their regular religious work and have become organizers of relief and distributors of foodstuffs. No attempt is being made to turn this work to the advantage of the missions. Indeed, most of the missionaries are standing up so straight that they are bending over backwards, for they refuse to let Christians and inquirers share in the relief funds that come from Shanghai. I heard a villager offer to join my companion's church if he would only give her something to eat; he told her that such a step would simply remove her present chances of securing food.

At this writing the only form of relief work for the benefit of the famine victims that has been started—such is the doddering incompetence and blithering foolishness of the Chinese officials—is a road building operation at Suchien inaugurated and managed by blustering, big-hearted Dr. J. W. Bradley. Not a single Christian has been employed, and when a large number of the men presented themselves at church on Sunday, they were plainly told that they were under no obligation to come, and that their jobs would not be affected by their presence or their absence. Three hundred of the neediest men are engaged upon this work, and will be kept busy until the famine breaks, the Shanghai committee having provided the funds. Dr. Bradley could put a thousand men to work any day that the funds are forthcoming. He narrowly escaped with his life from the perfectly friendly mob which gathered at daybreak one morning in the hope of securing work tickets. As there were ten men to every ticket, the crush to secure that which literally meant life to many overwhelmed the stalwart doctor and he was crowded into unconsciousness.

The needy Christians are being helped by the missionaries out of their own funds; the number of converts is so small in this field that this is practicable. Every precaution is taken to prevent persons from joining the church from unworthy motives. Whatever may have been true in the past, I find that today "rice Christians" are more odious in the eyes of the missionaries than of anybody else.

A FRAGMENT OF HUMANITY.

In addition to their self-sacrificing and broad-minded labors in behalf of the pitiable millions of the starving, the mission stations on the field are each doing a special relief work with their own funds for the needy at their doors. Thus, it was only the shelter provided by the Tsin Kiang-pu missionaries which could receive and care for an afflicted bit of humanity which I found one day by the roadside. This most deformed human being it has ever been my lot to see or learn of, has a broken back, a pigeon breast, his atrophied legs are twisted up to his chest, his arms, utterly useless little stumps, are pressed close to his body, and he is covered with open sores. Although 20 years old, he measures less than thirty inches in any direction. His mind, however, is strong and alert. This poor creature, like so many other helpless ones and little children, has been abandoned by his famishing family. Before he was found he had lain three days in the ditch where he had been thrown. He will hereafter live permanently at the Southern Presbyterian Hospital at Tsin Kiang-pu, under the care of Drs. J. B. Woods and L. S. Morgan.

At Chinkiang, where 30,000 hungry refugees are encamped, Rev. John W. Paxton heads up a special relief work, which pays particular attention to the sick, to women and to children and to the babies that are being born in little mat shelters on the bare ground. Here, too, M. J. Walker, of the Scotch Bible Society, carries on the herculean task of transshipping and forwarding all the relief foodstuffs from Shanghai up the Grand canal.

At Nanking, Yangchow, Suchien and Tsin Kiang-pu local relief work is being done including the furnishing of clothes to the freezing, shelter and medical aid to the suffering, mat shelters to the homeless, work for a few scores, and food for an infinitesimal proportion of the innumerable horde of famishing.

Worthy of special honor for their devotion to the nerve-wearing ministries of relief are Messrs. Patterson, Bradley and Junken at Suchien; J. B. Woods, Henry Woods, A. D. Rice and C. N. Caldwell at Tsin Kiang-pu; Messrs. Drummond and Beebe at Nanking, Messrs. Grier and Grafton at Hsuchowfu, Dr. Cochran at Hwaiyuen and Messrs. Evans, Trindle and Pierce at Yangchow, not to mention a noble company of women, who are having countless hardships, and are carrying a heavy burden on their spirits, because of this haunting, horrible indescribable famine.

FLOWER SHOW DRAWS CROWD.

COLLECTIONS OF BLOOMS PLEASE IN PASADENA.

Proves Artistically a Surprise, Even to Those Familiar With What Has Been Done—Exhibit of Orchids Proves One of Pleasing Features. Several Local People Among the Exhibitors.

Office of The Times, No. 24 S. Raymond Ave.

PASADENA, April 5.—Like unto a modern Garden of Eden appears the big tent on North Fair Oaks avenue, in which the second annual flower show of the Pasadena Gardeners' Association is being held. With exquisite taste the exhibits have been grouped about the inclosure, so arranged that each has its full share of light and effect.

Preparations for the show have been under way for weeks, and it was rumored that an effort was being made to outdo all former efforts, but the unqualified success of the affair, artistically, was a surprise even to those who were cognizant of what was being done. Flower lovers who flocked in when the doors were first thrown open pronounced the exhibition the best ever held in Southern California, and warmly complimented the men having charge of the arrangements.

Although the show is held under the auspices of the Gardeners' Association many of the chief exhibitors are members of the local 400, and the gardens and hothouses of Orange Grove and Grand avenues were extensively drawn upon to fill the various classes.

Among the local people who exhibited are Fred Elmer Wilcox and A. Kingsley Macomber. Mr. Wilcox, who is an amateur floriculturalist of no mean ability, has taken particular interest in the affair, and his efforts were crowned with success, he having secured a certificate of merit for his roses as well as several blue ribbons.

Although the weather is hardly suitable to the exhibition of orchids, A. K. Macomber exhibits a beautiful collection of the hardier varieties. The exhibit is one of the most popular in the show, and crowds stood before the tables upon which it was shown all last evening.

The exhibits of palms and ferns are especially effective, and the larger plants, arranged as they are in groves with walks winding in and out, give the tent the appearance of a tropical forest. Last night the glitter of the electric lights added an extra charm to the scene, while the soft music rendered by the orchestra completed the effect.

Among some of the notable prizes awarded yesterday were the first prize in class one, which went to Theo Frane for twelve large delicate pink Enchantress carnations. The second prize in this class was awarded to Fred Elmer Wilcox for a vase of brilliant scarlet carnations.

In class seven, which was for the best twelve field grown roses, the first honors were carried away by George W. Dell, who exhibited a bunch of exquisite pink Maman Cochets. The second in this class was awarded to J. Mansar for a like cluster of white Maman Cochet roses.

Class nine was also for roses, but instead of field grown they were the delicate nurtured hothouse variety. The blue ribbon was given to a tall vase of beautiful white Kaiserin Augusta Victorias, which were exhibited by the Park Nursery Company of Pasadena.

Among the most beautiful plants shown were those of the bulbous varieties, which included orchids, iris, hyacinth, freesia, gladiolus, amaryllis, tulips and many others. The first prizes for the queen of these, the orchid, were all carried away by A. K. Macomber, who was awarded the first prize, and also a special prize ribbon and a certificate of merit.

The first prize for the best twelve blossoms of freesia was given to Mr. McLeod, and the first for amaryllis to John L. Childs. The award for tulips was given to a cluster of deep red beauties grown by J. Mansar, and the second to a cluster of Bybloom tulips shading in color from a deep purple to a delicate lavender.

For the iris, Mrs. M. A. Clarke carried away the first honors, and Mrs. H. M. Singer the second, both of them exhibiting twelve blossoms of the purple iris. The first for gladiolus was given to A. Campbell-Johnson for twelve sprays of this blossom a delicate pink in color.

In class 76, the aquatic exhibit, there was only one entry which was made by Mr. Sturtevant of Hollywood, but the beauty of this made up for the lack of competition. The water lilies were given a place of honor in the middle of the room, and were displayed in the bed of a fountain of beautiful design. The blossoms were of a light shade of pink and cream and white.

Naturally the exhibits of the best dining-room table and the bridal canopy were made by women. The table was decorated by Miss Thomas and Miss Hudson, and had as a centerpiece a basket of Cecil Bruner roses and maidenhair ferns, and the bridal canopy was a bell of white roses and asparagus ferns made by Miss Thomas. There was no competition in these classes.

Other prizes awarded were class 11 (stocks,) first to D. M. Cameron, and second to E. Kirby. Class 12 (pansy,) first to Mrs. Girouard and second to Frank Powell. Class 13 (sweet pea,) first to Thomas Lambert, and second to George Deu. Class 14 (gaillardia,) first to A. Campbell Johnson, and second to C. Holder. Class 18 (marguerite,) first to H. Ramsey, and second to Mrs. Durand. Class 22 (lilac,) first to Mrs. Watson, and second to A. Harding. Class 31 (bulbous plants,) to Mrs. Watson for daffodils. Class 31a (anemones,) to J. Mansar. Class 32 (bougeanvillea,) first to C. P. Morehous, and second to Fred E. Wilcox. Class 33 (poppy,) C. Holder. Class 35 (calendula,) to C. Holder. Class 37 (verbena,) to C. Holder. Class 38 (antirrhinum,) first to D. Cameron, second to J. Mansar. Class 39 (acacia,) to Mrs. Watson. Class 41 (wild flowers,) to Rev Dell. Class 42 (cut flowers,) to A. Campbell-Johnson. Class 43 (cineraria hybrids,) to J. Albrecht. Class 47 (fern,) to M. Cameron. Class 49 (Boston fern,) to M. Cameron. Class 51 (elegantissima,) to Mrs. H. M. Singer. Class 56 (palm collection,) to Park Nursery for twenty-four varieties. Class 58 (decorative plant,) to H. Thornton. Class 59 (rex begonia,) to Mr. Cameron. Class 60 (begonia collection,) to Mr. Cameron. Class 61 (flowering begonia,) first to Park Nursery, second to H. Thornton. Class 64 (tropical plant,) to Park Nursery. Class 65 (cacti,) to I. H. Boorman. Class 69 (floral basket,) first to Mrs. J. F. Vore, basket of Maman Cochet roses and maidenhair fern, and second to Misses Thomas and Hudson. GOES TO CHRISTEN VESSEL.

Miss Maude L. Morrison left last night for Wilmington, Del., to christen a new vessel lately completed by the War Department which will be named in honor of her father, Capt. T. W. Morrison, who fell at the battle of San Juan Hill. Miss Morrison has gone East in response to the request of the War Department that she name someone to christen the boat, which is described as a twin-screw steamer built for harbor-defense use.

TWO BRIDGE FUNCTIONS.

Two of the most notable social events of the season made yesterday a red letter day to the women of the four hundred. Mrs. George Gerald Guyer entertained with nine tables of bridge in honor of Mrs. F. E. White and Mrs. Robert S. Sinclair. The color scheme of decoration was green and white, Easter lilies, iris and white lilacs being used in profusion. The prizes, which were handsome pieces of Dutch silver in antique design, were won by Mmes. Lawrence Hurlburt, W. A. Scripps, Henry Vilas, R. I. Rogers, John W. Hugus, D. H. Girouard, J. B. Durand, John Lambert and Bingham. Mrs. Guyer was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Freeman Ford.

Mrs. Colin Stewart entertained at Hotel Maryland in honor of Mrs. William Stanton and Miss Thomas, who are soon going abroad, and the compliment was shared by Mrs. Hopkins of Baltimore, who is a guest of Mrs. Stewart, and who received with her. Tables were arranged for both bridge and five hundred. The bridge prizes were won by Mrs. F. B. Wetherby and Mrs. Boyle. Miss Thomas and Mrs. Walter Edwards won at five hundred. This function was given in the large drawing-room at the Maryland, which was beautifully decorated with roses and ferns.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Dodworth are expecting their daughter, Mrs. James Foster Hasbrouck of New York, Monday, for a visit of three weeks. Mrs. Hasbrouck was formerly Miss Florence Dodworth, and many delightful functions are already being arranged in her honor.

QUICK PLUNGE SAVES CHILD.

LITTLE ONE NEAR DEATH IN A CISTERN NEAR COVINA.

Rescuer Is Just in Time to Save Infant from Drowning, but He Himself Has to Be Rescued from Watery Grave—Held Up by Ropes Till Help Comes.

COVINA, April 4.—Little Raymond, the nineteen-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. C. Flowers, who are employés on the Fitzgerald & Barry ranch, came near a horrible death today, by falling into a cistern twenty feet deep.

The child had been playing and wandered out of sight of his mother. He had been in the cistern for several minutes when he was discovered by one of the women in the house. Her cries attracted the other women, who shrieked for help.

J. A. White, who lives on the adjoining ranch, heard the cries, and at once ran to their assistance. Taking in the situation, Mr. White did not hesitate a moment, but dropped through the hole in the cistern and caught the child. The little one was unconscious when Mr. White reached it, there being seven feet of water in the cistern.

The women lowered ropes to the man and attempted to haul him up, but it was necessary to wait until men came to their assistance with a ladder, which they lowered in the cistern. Mr. White, nearly unconscious himself with the terrible struggle in the water, managed to reach the top, where he was pulled out by the men. The hole through which he dropped was so small that he was badly skinned and bruised. Dr. Reed was immediately called, and stated that if the man had hesitated one second the child would have perished.

He is resting easily now and it is thought that he will recover. Mr. White moved here less than four months ago from Gardena.

COVINA TOWN NOTES.

For tomorrow's school election, Charles Madison is the only candidate thus far put up for trustee. L. L. Ratekin, the present trustee, who has served the board for the past six years, has declined to run again for re-election. The election promises to be an exciting one, as it is supposed that some of the teachers will be asked to resign if Madison is elected.

At a meeting of the Covina Country Club, which was held this week, the following officers were elected: Secretary, A. H. Peck; treasurer, J. C. Hutchinson; board of directors, E. H. Lahe, W. M. Griswold, Dana C. King, R. Simpson and B. M. Given.

MONROVIA.

MONROVIA, April 4.—There is little interest shown in the school election, which will be held tomorrow. There are no announced candidates and it is expected that the incumbent and president of the board, Mrs. William F. Marshall, will be elected as her own successor, although she would be more than willing to surrounder the work to others.

Contractor Stocker has received the contract for grading the Baldwin race course at Arcadia. The grading is all to be completed within forty days, and he has a large force of men and teams on hand rushing the work.

The committee having charge of the arrangements for the tree-planting and decoration of the city park will be unable to get things in readiness for next Saturday, and it has therefore been decided to continue the Arbor Day festivities until Saturday, April 13.

The annual election of officers of the Women's Club will be held Saturday afternoon. The committee having the matter in charge have simplified matters somewhat and only two of the numerous candidates suggested will be presented to the club to be voted on for president. These are being kept "under the hat" until the hour to present them to the club.

The pupils of Mrs. Loretta Wiswall gave a recital at the home of Mrs. Wiswall, on East Lemon, Wednesday afternoon.

Misses Ockerson, Bacon and Graney, all teachers in the public schools of Monrovia, have returned from a pleasant vacation trip to San Diego.

CITY OR NOT?

Residents of Huntington Park Ask District Attorney to Help Settle Issue.

HUNTINGTON PARK, April 4.—Chafing at the delay in a suit against the Supervisors calling in question the legality of the incorporation of Huntington Park, which delay is causing a feeling of uncertainty, resulting in a tie-up of pressing municipal business, residents have circulated a petition to the District Attorney, in which they say:

"Whereas, the city of Huntington Park is suffering serious injury and its progress and development is being greatly retarded by reason of the delay in the case of Gardner vs. the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county; and whereas, we are informed that said delay is now caused by the failure of plaintiff in said action to file a reply brief to a brief of defendants now on file in said case, and that it is in your power to bring said matter to final issue immediately. Now, therefore, we, citizens of Huntington Park, respectfully petition that you use all means in your power to secure a decision in said action at as early a date as possible."

POMONA.

POMONA, April 4.—The complete ticket of nominations for the general municipal election to be held here on next Monday follows: F. P. Firey, Trustee from First Ward; Moses Petty, W. T. Fleming, J. M. Powers, Trustee Second Ward; J. M. Mitchell, Lee R. Matthews, Trustee Third Ward; F. W. Johnson, Ira A. Lee, S. S. Strong, Trustee Fourth Ward; W. W. Midgley, J. E. Berry, Trustee Fifth Ward. There are five Trustees to be elected. For Board of Education, Mrs. Flora Sanborn, Charles E. Walker, Franklin Cogswell, B. H. Sherman, J. E. Patterson, F. Davis, J. C. Storment, James W. Bowyer, George Edwards, W. H. Truit, Isaac Goulder are candidates. There are five members to be elected from these. Other candidates are: For City Clerk, T. R. Trotter, W. B. Stewart; City Attorney, R. K. Pitzer, J. W. Joos; City Assessor, Joseph Mullen; City Marshal, George W. Ogle, W. H. H. Scott, Silas Wright, George M. Lane; City Treasurer, A. H. Hill, John Weber, William Wildman; City Recorder, John H. Lee, M. E. White. Much interest is being manifested in the election, and the different nominees and their friends are busily engaged in the campaign.

A general citizens' mass meeting has been called for Friday evening at Fraternal Aid Opera house, at the request of the General County Division Committee of twenty-five business and professional men. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss fairly matters of vital importance to the formation of a new county.

WILL CUT PIE.

New Mayor of Santa Monica Is to Give One-half of Each Day to the City.

SANTA MONICA, April 4.—Mayor-elect T. H. Dudley for the next ten days will, besides preparing a message and recommendations to the incoming Council, be engrossed in the selection of men to fill the score or more of offices within his gift. No official announcements have as yet been made, aside from the statement by the Mayor that he will devote one-half of his time each day to municipal affairs.

Well authenticated reports have it that Dr. W. H. Parker is to be Health Officer and that Drs. L. H. Case and P. S. Lindsey will be the members of the Board of Health. A. M. Jamison and Dr. Charles Lindsey will probably be named on the Public Library Board. Con. McInery is booked for one of the Fire Board Commissionerships. Mr. Hunt for Street Superintendent, W. S. Odell for City Attorney, E. H. Sweetser for Park Superintendent, and either A. M. Guidinger or H. M. Meinell for Police Judge.

It has practically been decided by S. A. Wheeler to contest the combined office of Tax Collector and Treasurer. Bane was elected by a majority of five, but the contention of Wheeler is that a recount would probably change the result, as he learns that a number of votes that he thinks should have been counted were thrown out because the electors had made an error in voting for members of the Board of Education.

CIRCUS OPENS SEASON.

The Sells-Floto circus opened its summer season with afternoon and evening performances here today. The big tent was well filled at both performances and an attractivt programme was given. The circus had passed the winter season at Venice and considerable local pride was manifested as regards the success of the initial performance. The merchants of Venice have invited the circus to return to the canal city and call it home next winter.

SEEK SHAM BATTLE.

Two Beach Resorts Are Rivals for Mock Carnage—Bathers Saved from Death.

VENICE, April 4.—Venice and Playa del Rey have entered into a spirited contest to secure the location of the approaching sham battle, to be done in the last days of April, between the several companies of the Seventh Regiment of the California National Guard. The military maneuvers seem certain to draw a crowd, and each resort would be pleased to be the scene of mock carnage. The site is to be selected within the next few days.

But for the keen ear of Mrs. G. Hastings, Herbert Brandon and E. Wayland of Los Angeles might have gone to their death in the briny deep. They were bathing among the breakers, near the breakwater, when they felt their strength leaving them. The waves were rolling violently, and it was with great difficulty they succeeded in reaching and clinging onto the piling of the pier. With hands painfully cut by the sharp-edged barnacles and each succeeding wave rendering their condition the more perilous, they shouted lustily for help. Mrs. Hastings heard their cry, and giving the alarm, ropes were lowered and the unfortunate and all but overcome bathers were hauled on to the pier.

New hydrants and fittings have arrived for the water mains, and the fire protection of the buildings on the beach will at once be materially strengthened. The new pipe will withstand a 200-pound pressure, and this will be supplied from the power-house of the Abbot Kinney Company.

The surveys have been completed, and the plans accepted for the new passenger depot here, and work will be commenced on it by the Los Angeles-Pacific electric line within ten days. The structure, which is to be a combined passenger and freight station, will be located on what are known as the "Terminal Grounds," just east of Trolleyway and south of Windward avenue. The structure will fit into the Venetian design, so far as architectural effect goes, and will be a handsome affair.

SHINE FOR SHRINERS.

Plans in Preparation in Glendale for Entertainment of Visiting Host.

GLENDALE, April 4.—About $450 of the $600 required for entertaining the Shriners and their wives on May 6 has been raised. Arrangements have been made to serve to the visitors a Spanish dinner at Casa Verdugo. Every fraternity and church organization in the valley is to be asked to cooperate in the matter of entertainment. The woman's clubs are to be asked to furnish flowers and boxes of strawberries will be given away as souvenirs. School children will be asked to participate in the welcome.

Several thousand visitors are expected, and any one living in the valley who can is to be requested to furnish a rig to convey the visitors about the community. L. C. Brand, F. W. McMillan and Wilmot Parcher have been appointed to act as Transportation Committee. They will endeavor to have free transportation from San Fernando road to the foothills and into Glendale.

THE PALMS.

THE PALMS, April 4.—Thomas Hughes today refused an offer of $50,000 cash for his twenty-two-acre country seat on the hills of The Palms. This is one of the finest places in the country. The price offered was an advance of $15,000 over that paid for the property six months ago. The property in question is the Winship place.

There are two candidates for school trustee at the annual election tomorrow. They are W. W. Dumm and E. C. Hall.

HOLLYWOOD.

HOLLYWOOD, April 4.—A wealth of flowers was showered on those who took part in the Hibler concert in Wilcox Hall Tuesday evening, Roses predominated. The concert, which was for the benefit of the new Presbyterian Church building, was a success. The choruses were well trained and gave Gounod's "Soldiers' Chorus," "The Hunter's Horn" from "La Somnambula," and "Miserere" from "Il Trovatore." Other numbers on the programme were given by Otto C. Kunitz, pianist; W. Elliott Sibertson, tenor; Miss Bessie Fuhrer, violinist; a double quartette and Mrs. Nellie Hibler, director of the Choral Club, under whose supervision the concert was given.

FRANK G. CARPENTER'S letter in The Times Magazine the coming Sunday will contain a very entertaining account of his interview with the ex-Queen of Madagascar.

THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE

Modern Medical Science Returns to the Ancient Scriptural Truth.

NEW BLOOD MEANS NEW LIFE

At This Season of the Year the Blood Needs Revitalizing to Put Vigor into the Muscles, Strengthen the Nerves, Tone Up the Stomach and Clear the Brain.

Like most time-honored customs the practice of taking a tonic in the springtime is based upon good, hard common sense.

During the long months of winter most people spend their time in closed rooms, take less than their usual amount of exercise and eat but little fresh vegetables and fruit and a great deal of heavy, heating, constipating food. Perhaps grip has left its stubborn after-effects.

The result is that the warm days of spring, which awaken all nature to renewed life, find them sluggish and languid, unable to attack their daily tasks with vigor, sometimes with headaches and disturbances of the stomach and bowels. The remedy for this condition is a tonic that will revitalize the blood and impart strength and vigor to every weakened organ of the body.

Give Oxygen to the Blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the ideal tonic because they act directly upon the blood. They supply to the blood its life-giving qualities by assisting it to absorb oxygen, the great supporter of all organic life. In this way the blood becomes rich, red and pure, nourishes the various organs and stimulates them to activity in performing their duties in a normal way—and this means health.

Under the tonic effect of these pills the step becomes quicker, the appetite sharper, the pale cheeks take a healthy color and energy and ambition are restored. Unless this is done the languor of the springtime becomes a threatening decline in early summer, disinclination to activity becomes more marked, anaemia often develops and the coming of another winter finds the patient badly equipped physically to meet its rigors.

Judge by Results.

The best way to judge the value of any remedy is by results and every published statement of a cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may be relied upon as absolutely as though you had talked with the person giving it and obtained the facts at first hand. No statement is paid for, directly or indirectly. Gratitude for relief obtained is the sole motive that prompted the following authentic testimony.

Gave Strength and Health.

Mr. J. G. Havey of 95 Willow St., Chelsea, Mass., is one who knows the benefit of the tonic effects of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He says: "I suffered from general debility and indigestion. My sleep was restless on account of terrible pains in the small of my back. I couldn't concentrate my mind on my work, and the attempt to do so completely exhausted me. After trying several medicines without help, I read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and gave them a trial. They made me feel much better and I have never had a return of my former sickness and cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as an excellent nerve and blood tonic."

Pink Pills Built Her Up.

Mrs. Jennie Cowan of 718 N. Henry street, West Bay City, Mich., says: "I was completely run down and was so weak I could hardly stand, my cheeks had no color and I felt faint. My heart would flutter and it was difficult for me to breathe at times. Neuralgia settled in the back of my head and stomach and I suffered from rheumatism in my shoulder. I became no better until a friend told me how she had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. I soon felt better and continued using them until I was entirely cured. They built me up again to perfect health."

Gained Weight and Strength.

Mrs. Sarah Ramsey of 1008 St. John street, Litchfield, Ill., says: "My blood seemed to be in a very poor condition and my hands and feet were like ice. I seemed to be growing weaker and weaker and could not get around to do my work in the house. I was extremely nervous and the least excitement would bring on a dizzy spell. My head ached a great deal and sometimes the pain went all through my body. I seemed to get no better until I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Then I soon felt better and gained in weight and strength. Now I am a well woman in every way."

Write for Further Proof.

All who consider trying Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are invited to write, stating their trouble, and be furnished with proof of what the remedy has accomplished in similar cases. It is not necessary to enclose stamp for reply.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Surveys for Rights of Way for Electric Roads in Orange County Are Being Made and Indications Are That That Concern Instead of Huntington Beach Company Is Back of It.

SANTA ANA, April 4.—If talk here is any backing, the Santa Fé is preparing to steal a big march on the Southern Pacific by sending an electric line from Santa Ana into the celery fields west of the Santa Ana River and on to Huntington Beach. Surveys and rights of way for electric roads are being made, and the indications are that the Santa Fé instead of the Huntington Beach Company, as it has appeared, is back of the movement. People who believe this to be a fact point to the quiet move made here by the Santa Fé to get a franchise over streets on East Second street leading from the railroad yards to the east, and to the center of the city. The Southern Pacific now owns the only franchise on that street, but the wording of the franchise is such that the city cannot deliver a second franchise over the same tracks. In the last few days copies of the ordinances governing this track have been made for City Clerk Ed Tedford and forwarded to the Santa Fé in Los Angeles. The move to get the franchise is something, and it is believed to be a connection to the proposed new right of way.

For several years the Santa Fé has had rails to Olive, while all the traffic from the rich celery district went over the Southern Pacific, which road had trains reaching into the territory. Forty and fifty cars a day go out of Olive all the way East during the season, a traffic longed for by the Santa Fé. It has been understood that the Santa Fé had kept hands off as an agreement concerning the division of profits, but it is talk that the agreement is ended.

The manager of a cowboy show to the assistance of high finance is a proposition in life that W. C. Musgrave can now tell about. As the result of the progression, Musgrave was yesterday taken to jail in Los Angeles. County Treasurer J. C. Joplin, one of the men with whom Musgrave did business, and H. O. Sisson, manager of the Orange County Business College, have come to the conclusion that they are safe, but there are at least two men in the Imperial country who may have cause to rue the day they did business with the ex-Buffalo Bill artist.

Musgrave married Miss Cate Cuddeback, whose father owns a big ranch in the Tehachepi Mountains, and who is a member of a well-known family in this county. Last January, so it is said, Musgrave proposed buying a herd of cattle from County Treasurer Joplin, but before the deal was completed he got a loan of $2000 on an Imperial banker named Benson, giving a mortgage on the forty-head of cattle as security.

The deal for the cattle was then put through, Musgrave agreed to pay $1320 for the forty-four head, and he took them to a ranch and three notes of $500 each to Joplin. On the notes with Joplin's name was R. W. Davis, manager of the Gardena Creamery, near Los Angeles. Musgrave then shipped his cattle to the Imperial country and there got twenty head additional. The entire herd were mortgaged to A. J. Freschman for $1500, making a total of $3320 he had secured through his manipulations.

About the meantime Musgrave made a deal to buy an Imperial ranch from Davis. He paid $1000 down on the deal, he was to pay for the ranch. Freschman learned that he had been given a bad deal and he first went to the rancher. Davis of Los Angeles got possession of the cattle, and held them until the notes he held for are met.

Yesterday there was a meeting of the creditors in Musgrave's deals. Musgrave was arrested in Los Angeles and is now in jail. At first he said that his name was Carl Matthews, but he was financed back to V. C. Musgrave and let it go at that.

In the meantime County Treasurer Joplin was told that if he wanted his bondsmen protected he had to take the next car to Los Angeles. This was done yesterday afternoon. M. M. Sherrill, president of the First National Bank, was called to the Courthouse and County Treasurer Joplin was sworn in as a deputy and for a time Crookshank served as deputy treasurer.

Joplin believes his interests are safe. The bondsmen of Musgrave's wife believe that in Los Angeles and hope that things turn out so that Musgrave will keep out of jail.

Musgrave seems to have gotten into trouble through confidence that his father-in-law would turn money over for the investment in the Imperial deal.

ASK FOR THE DIKING.

The Board of Supervisors yesterday received a petition of the proposed Santa Ana River Improvement district, asking that an assessment district be formed along the lower Santa Ana River for the purpose of raising funds with which to dike the river. This is looked upon as one of the most important steps yet begun for the benefit of the ranchers of the lowlands and the Supervisors seem disposed to give the petition every possible aid. An objection has been filed by James McFadden, Cubbon, Joseph Lynch, C. B. Hall, George W. Ford and F. D. Ford to being included in the district, they say their lands are not subject to overflow. This objection will not change the boundaries, possibly, but there is scarcely any doubt that the district will be formed soon and that work of controlling the river with big dikes and a cleared channel will be pushed as rapidly as possible.

LICENSED TO WED.

Marriage licenses have been issued to Eugene Mozart Williams, of Glendale, and Ethel Elizabeth Andrews, aged 18, of Los Angeles; J. Parmore, aged 21, and R. Blair, aged 22, both of Los Angeles; Charles W. Strasser, aged 25, and Ida B. Carver, aged 23, both of Los Angeles.

RIALTO.

RIALTO, April 4.—Manager J. G. Wilson of the C.C.U. packing-house had the bones in his right hand badly broken by catching his hand in the gearing of the engine when he went to turn it about quitting time. He was taken to the office of Dr. M. C. Billings, where the fracture was reduced. Wilson had his left leg and side badly bruised yesterday by being run over by a team while at work on his ranch near town. It was a runaway mixup.

Mrs. Lozaan of Los Angeles came down yesterday to spend the day with her brother, Henry Bohnert, and family.

ARE STIRRED BY TENURE SHAVE.

RIVERSIDE OFFICEHOLDERS' TERMS CUT OFF.

Amendment to County Government Act Takes Two Years from the Period for Which the Supervisors of the First, Fourth and Fifth Districts Are to Serve.

RIVERSIDE, April 4.—Considerable stir was created about the Courthouse today, when it became known that the late Legislature had amended the County Government Act relating to Riverside county by shaving two years off the present terms of office of the Supervisors of the First, Fourth and Fifth districts.

The members of the board whose terms are reduced are Supervisors Hamner, Kimbell and Shaver, who would otherwise have held office until 1911. The amendment also adds two years to the tenure of office of Supervisor Bantz of the Third District, whose term would otherwise have expired in two years.

AGGRAVATED CRUELTY.

A particularly aggravated case of cruelty to an animal came to light yesterday afternoon in the recovery of a horse and buggy that had been stolen from Elmer Martin of Arlington five weeks ago. Starved to a skeleton, the horse, hitched to the rig, was discovered tied to a tree in a remote portion of a Highgrove orange orchard, where to all appearance it had stood, without food or water, for at least two weeks.

The animal was so weak it could hardly stand, and its mouth was frightfully gashed by the bit from its frantic attempts to free itself. The tree was stripped of every vestige of a leaf within reach.

The horse was tied in such a way that it was not visible from the street, and the discovery was made when the owner of the orchard went into plow it. A veterinary surgeon has charge of the horse, and believes that it will survive. Summary punishment awaits the thief, if he can be found.

TOOK NO NOTE—SUES.

Trusting in the promises of the men behind the Ora Copra Mining and Milling Company, and in the alleged value of the mines owned by the company, Alma B. Richter of Los Angeles loaned the company at various times amounts which, it is alleged, now reach the total of $10,412.86. No promissory notes or security of any kind were taken, and the only condition of the loan was that it should be repaid upon demand. The demand was made, the money was not forthcoming, and suit was filed in the Superior Court today to secure the payment of the debt. The mines are located in Riverside county, and their value is yet to be determined. F. C. Austin of Los Angeles is attorney for the plaintiff.

RIVERSIDE JOTS.

H. S. Whitcomb, one of the day clerks of the Glenwood Hotel, and William J. Herbert, left this evening for a six months' tour of England, France and Germany. On their way they will spend a few weeks in Vermont, where Mr. Herbert will be the guest of Mr. Whitcomb, at the old home of the latter. They will sail from New York early in May.

Dr. R. B. Johnson was seriously injured at Bloomington yesterday by being thrown out of his buggy. His shoulder was dislocated, his left leg was broken, and he received severe bruises about the head as the result of a runaway, which was caused by his horse becoming frightened at an automobile. His daughter, Miss Nellie Johnson, who was with him, was also thrown out, but escaped injury.

Articles of incorporation of the Mines and Securities Company were filed in the County Clerk's office today. The directors and stockholders are Mrs. Eleanor C. O'Kelly, Frank C. O'Kelly and W. A. Purington, and the capital stock is $200,000, of which $127,000 has been subscribed. The largest stockholder is Mrs. O'Kelly, who holds $115,000 of the stock.

CUT WATER RATES.

Redlands City Trustees Decide on Reductions in Prices for Domestic Water.

REDLANDS, April 4.—The City Trustees yesterday afternoon decided to make a substantial cut in the rates charged by the Domestic Water Company. The cut was recommended by a Citizens' Water Committee, and was sanctioned by the trustees, but not without arguments from both sides. The principal cut is one whereby householders will in future be compelled to pay only $2 a month instead of $2.50 as heretofore. A house of four or more rooms is to be charged $1 a month and no additional charge can be made for bath or toilet. The lot rate remains at $1 per month, except that property owners are allowed 125 square yards of lawn instead of 100 as at present.

The proposed ordinance will go into effect July 1, unless the Domestic Water Company finds some technical reason to prevent the city from enforcing this new ordinance. The water committee consisted of F. T. Harris and W. T. Ferguson, while the water company was represented by Attorney R. Holtby Myers and Superintendent William Medland. Silas Williams, the secretary of the company, says that the difference in income to the company by not being allowed to charge for toilets and baths will be from $12,000 to $14,000 per month. The company may appeal to the courts to have the ordinance recoked, but it is not yet known certainly whether it will or not.

SAN BERNARDINO.

SAN BERNARDINO, April 4.—Policeman Cornelson knocked out Cement Contractor McNair last evening. Irritated by the contractor's bickerings Cornelson suddenly pounced upon him, and for the space of a few brief seconds made the fur fly. The officer was suspended pending an investigation. Since McNair had his recent divorce, troubles involving the personality of a girl on the streets, he has been out with the police, and has made serious threats.

SWITCHING MEN ARRESTED.

Warrants Issued for Three on Account of the Disastrous Wreck at Colton.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLTON, April 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] L. R. Alford, foreman of the switching crew, and J. G. Gruisenmeyer, switchman, were placed under arrest this evening on complaint of Coroner Van Wie, charging them with manslaughter on account of last Thursday's Southern Pacific wreck. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Clarence Warmington, engineer of train No. 9, but, owing to his condition, has not been served.

These were the men held responsible by the Coroner's jury for the wreck which occurred here last Thursday. The complaint which was filed before Justice Hanna, sitting for Justice Thomas in San Bernardino, reads:

"These men did wilfully, unlawfully and feloniously kill H. F. Walthers, a human being, without malice."

Alford and Gruisenmeyer were placed under bonds of $1000 each for their appearance at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when it is presumed that the time for the preliminary examination will be set.

COLTON CROSSING NOTES.

The remains of Ferdenando Giunta were shipped to relatives at Martinez this morning. Giunta was one of the victims of the recent wreck here.

The Cemetery Improvement Association held its first regular meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. A. Hebberd. The association is composed of twenty-five members, whose object is to improve the Hermosa Cemetery.

VENTURA.

VENTURA, April 4.—The Native Daughters and the various women's clubs of the county are engaged in the enterprise of gathering and furnishing ornamental trees to be placed in the old plaza when the park shall be made new. The work in this latter direction is now going forward rapidly. Those associations which have already donated trees are the Native Daughters, Latin-American Union, Order of Eastern Star, Knights of Columbus, Fraternal Aid, Native Sons, Eagles, Odd Fellows, Woodmen, Ratlbone Sisters, Knights of Pythias and La Loma Club and Farmers' Club of Mound. There remain about twenty trees to be subscribed for and calls are made to individuals who, it is thought, will soon take these trees.

Frank Haskin, a pioneer of this city and well known, had a narrow miss yesterday for his life. As it was he was knocked down and very badly bruised and had a rib fractured by a horse.

The annual meeting of the Presbyterian Church took place last night, a crowd being present. There was music and literary exercises, and a banquet was served, at which Prof. Black acted as toastmaster.

The Ventura County Power Company has been granted a franchise to install a gas plant in Santa Paula.

BRITISH CRUISER ARRIVES.

SAN DIEGO, April 4.—The British cruiser Shearwater arrived this morning on her way from Esquimalt to Central America, to look after British interests there during the time of trouble between Honduras and Nicaragua. She stops here to take on coal. She will sail tomorrow morning.

THE BOOMS.

Boom, boom, boom!
Listen to the bumping of the boom—
Fairbanks boom.
How it slips along the way,
Like an iceberg cold and gray
From a crisp Antarctic day
In its boom.
Hear the boomlet smooth and true
Of good Mister Cortelyou—
Lovely boom!
How it cortels in its joy,
Like a blithesome, happy boy
With a brand-new, painted toy,
Blue and red,
As it speeds into the gloom
Straight ahead!

Boom, boom, boom!
Like a splendid new-made broom,
Sweeps the boom of Mr. Knox.
How it shakes its gory locks!
How it cultivates its vox,
High and clear!
How it hustles through the sky,
And goes honking, honking high
Through the flume,
To the looming, rheuming, booming Atmosphere!

See the ever-pluming plume
Of the ever-booming boom,
Fore and aft,
That belongs, as we assume,
Unto Taft!
With what majesty it glides!
How it slides!
How it grinds with awful sound
On its lofty errand bound,
Pulling roots up by the pound!
How it strides
O'er the ground
On its booming, fuming play,
In its unassuming way,
Night and day!

And above the spray and spume,
With its wheels well oiled with coom,
Flies a boom—
A one boom—
Of an overwhelming size—
'Tis no mollycoddle's prize—
Of a candidate to whom,
We presume,
There will come a chance to say,
First, "I won't," and then "I may."
"Call around some other day."
Then, "Oh, well, if it must be,
I don't want it, but—you see,
If there's no one else to whom
You can delegate this boom,
Why, of course—it's willy-nil—
YES! I WILL!"
Boom—Boom!

New Use for Phonograph.

In investigating the cause of the recent wreck on the Southern, in which Samuel Spencer, the late president of the road, was killed, a controversy arose between two telegraph operators regarding the sending of a train order. As a result of the dispute prominent officials have advocated having a phonograph located beside the telegraph instrument of railroad operators so that there will be a complete record made of every click of the key of the operator.

It is pointed out that to ascertain what message an operator has sent to any time the phonograph record would only need to be revolved and the sounds would be as distinctly reproduced as if they had originally been made by a musical instrument. Any person familiar with the telegraph code could read the reproduced sounds as easily as he could the original transmission. It is argued that with this check upon them railroad operators would be compelled to be extremely cautious as an accurate record of their work would be subject to inspection at any time.—[New York Commercial.

The Origin of Nails.

The first nails were undoubtedly the sharp teeth of various animals. Then it is believed pointed fragments of flint followed. The first manufactured metal nails were of bronze. The nail with which Jael killed Sisera was a wooden tent pin, probably pointed with iron. Bronze nails have been found in the Swiss lake dwellings, in several places in France and in the valley of the Nile. Until the nineteenth century iron nails were forged, a blacksmith being able to make only two or three dozen a day. The first cut nails were made by Jeremiah Wilkinson in Rhode Island in 1775. The first patented nail machine was by Perkins, 1795, and its product of 200,000 nails a day was considered so enormous that some persons deemed the result due to supernatural agency.

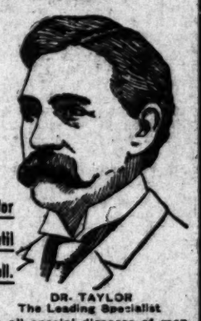
MEN ONLY

I Cure the Cases That Others Cannot Cure

A bold statement, but just as true as it is bold. Not all cases that others fail to cure are curable by my methods, but fully ninety per cent. of them are. The way to learn whether your case is curable is to consult me. I know exactly what can be done in every instance. I ought to know this, for I have done nothing else other than treat men's diseases for twenty-five years. If your case is curable I will treat you. If it isn't I will not. If I treat you, and if you so desire,



I Will Wait for My Fee Until You Are Well.

WEAKNESS

Weakness in men is comparatively a simple ailment and is but a symptom of local disorder, a congestion of an important nerve center. No stimulating treatment, whether internal or locally applied, can do more than excite temporary activity. By my system of local treatment I restore absolutely normal conditions throughout the organs involved, which promptly results in complete and permanent restoration of strength and vigor. This treatment is original with me, and is the only radical and certain cure yet devised.

VARICOCELE

Varicocele is a relaxation, knotting and twisting of the most vital blood vessels of the organic system. It stagnates the local circulation and interferes with the processes of waste and repair. Neglect brings derangement of functions and injury to the general health. Most physicians resort to surgical operations and hospital treatment. I cure Varicocele in one week without operation, pain or detention from business. My cures are absolutely permanent and no ill effects whatever can follow my treatment.

I also cure all special diseases of men such as Hydrocele, Nervous Debility, Blood Diseases, etc.

EXAMINATION FREE

I offer not only Free Consultation and Advice, but to every case that comes to me I will make a careful Examination and Diagnosis without charge. No ailing man should neglect this opportunity to get expert opinion about this trouble. If you cannot call, write for diagnosis chart. My offices are open all day from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and Sundays from 10 to 1.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Butter has at last declined to its proper level, and it is believed the break came yesterday, but the new prices will become effective today. This break was not a surprise, for some of the dealers said the decline was more radical than they had expected. On the Produce Exchange yesterday morning the official price was made 57½ for creamery and 55 cents for fresh. This is a fall of 10 cents for each grade of butter. The causes for the break are many, the leading one being that the supply is out of proportion to the demand and stocks are rapidly accumulating on the floors of the butter houses, thus rendering the market top heavy and a radical decline was necessary to move the surplus. Receipts have been such that every nook and corner that could hold a case has been filled. Much has gone into storage, but at present prices no profit can be made in supplying Tonopah. Eggs were firm under light receipts. Arrivals yesterday were only 347 cases. No eastern eggs came in. Local ranch eggs were offered on change at 23 cents, no bids were made.

A moderate-sized shipment of eastern cheese arrived yesterday.

Eastern potatoes were offered for sale on 'change at advanced prices. Two dollars was the asked price for fancy Colorado.

Asparagus tumbled to 11@12 cents per pound. Vegetables generally were weaker.

Strawberries were in greater supply at 60¢ per basket. Fish was scarce.

The receipts of produce as reported for yesterday's exchange were as follows: Eggs, 347 cases; butter, 15,085 lbs.; cheese, none; potatoes, 1462 sacks; onions, 607 sacks; beans, 19 sacks; sweet potatoes, none.

LITTLE ACTIVITY IS SHOWN ON 'CHANGE.

BUSINESS seemed almost at a standstill on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday. Bidding was sluggish, and trading appeared almost an impossibility, until almost time for the gong to ring the half hour, then things livened up somewhat and a few transactions were made among the oil stocks.

The slight upward movement in Associated Oil, which began Tuesday, seemed to be checked. Bidding was less brisk and the tone of the market was perceptibly heavier. Trading amounted to 70 shares at 44.50@44.62½ cash, and at 45.12½@45.25, buyer thirty days. The closing quotation was at 44.62½@44.75, the bid being off one-eighth, and the asked having been weakened three-fourths of a point.

Union Oil was the only other trader among the oils; 27 shares changed hands at 208.75@209.00. The close was at 209.00@210.50. The bid showed a rise of one point, while the holding price was down ½. Western Union came in for a sharp play, closing at 305.25@310.00, without a share changing hands. Globe Oil was bid for at 10 and offered at 13. Central Oil closed with a bid at 1.13¾, and a holding price, firm, at 1.15.

Considerable interest was shown in Mexican Petroleum, but the play resulted in nothing, the stock closing with a slight gain in the bid at 1.13@1.13¾. Rice Ranch Oil was perceptibly weaker, closing at 2.50@3.00. Reed Crude was bid for at 14¼, and offered at 20. No activity was shown by the remainder of the oil list.

The only other trader was among the bank stocks, twenty shares of Merchants' Trust being traded in at par. The close was a bid at par, with an offering price, firm, at 1.01. Bonds were inactive. Bidding was heard for Pasadena Home, the highest offering being at 78, while the asking price was weakened from 83 to 80½. Home firsts were wanted at 81 and held at 91. Others were not called.

Home preferred was stronger yesterday on the bidding, closing at 63.50 bid, with the asked price holding well at 66.50. The common stock of the same company was bid for at 22.50 and offered at 27. Edison common was stronger at 73.00@74.50, while the bid for the preferred was 87.50, with none on the market. United States Long Distance closed at 48@54.

Continued dullness was the condition ruling on the mining call of the local exchange. Little trading was carried on. Prices continued to sag. Johnnie Consolidated sold at 10¼, buyer ninety days, and was sold at 9¾@9¾ cash. The close was at 9¼@9½, each quotation showing fractional losses. One thousand shares of Bonnie Claire, an unlisted security, was traded in at 44. California Hills sold at 4. Clark Copper shows up on the sales sheet, with transactions totaling 1500 shares, the price ranging from 24 to 24½. More manipulation occurred with Mohawk Johnnie, and trading amounted to 5000 shares at 17¼@17¾. The other listed stocks were quiet, all showing fractional losses on the closing quotations.

Weather Conditions.—During the last twenty-four hours, a disturbance of considerable energy has moved inland from the ocean and is now central off the Washington coast. It has caused increasing cloudiness in Northern California, and rain and moderately high winds along the Northern California coast and in Northwestern Oregon and Western Washington. In Southern California, the weather continues fair and pleasant, under the influence of a high-pressure area. The northern storm area is expected to move southeastward and cause increasing cloudiness in Los Angeles and vicinity during the next thirty-six hours, possibly accompanied by some precipitation Friday. Light precipitation has occurred at scattered places in the Middle West, the Ohio Valley and along the Great Lakes. Fair weather and high temperatures prevail along the Atlantic coast and throughout the South.

Forecasts.—Local forecast for Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair tonight; Friday, increasing cloudiness, possibly followed by showers; winds becoming westerly.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Butter has at last declined to its proper level, and it is believed the break came yesterday, but the new prices will become effective today. The cause for the break is many, the leading one being that the supply has run of proportion to the demand, and stocks were rapidly accumulating on the floors of the butter houses, thus rendering the market top heavy and a radical decline was necessary to move the surplus supplies. Receipts have been such that every nook and corner that could hold cream has been filled. Much has gone into storage, but at present prices no profit can be made on stored supplies. Eggs were firm under light receipts. Arrivals yesterday were only 147 cases. No extra eggs came in. Local ranch eggs were offered on 'change at 23 cents, but no bids were made. A moderate-sized shipment of eastern cheese arrived yesterday.

Eastern potatoes were offered for sale on 'change at advanced prices. Two dollars was the asked price for fancy Colorado.

Asparagus tumbled 4 cents per pound. Vegetables generally were weaker.

Strawberries were in greater supply at 60@12 per basket. Fish was scarce.

The receipts of produce as reported for yesterday's exchange were as follows: Eggs, 247 cases; butter, 15,085 lbs.; cheese, none; potatoes, 1467 sacks; onions, 607 sacks; beans, 19 sacks; sweet potatoes, none.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AN. MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, April 4.—There was a general expansion of the volume of transactions in today's rising stock market over the halting and hesitating market of yesterday. The market still preserved its professional appearance, and the movement was regarded rather as readjustment of the price level to the changed conditions in the money market than as a response to an increased absorption of securities. The readjustment in values was quite radical and sudden. Other factors were given a nominal influence in the day market but there can be no doubt that the changed conditions of the money prospect lay at the root of the more cheerful sentiment expressed by the rise in prices. Today the call loan rate did not rise above 2½ per cent, as compared with a maximum rate of 3 1-4 per cent. yesterday. The movement of the International exchanges is significant of the change in conditions. Now with the quarterly settlements concluded and the expected relaxation in foreign money markets, New York is without urgent necessity to draw on Europe. London has removed obstacles to exports of gold, the price of the metal declining in that market and a sharp fall in the open discount rate opening the way for New York to secure good if modest supplies. The rapid fall in our own money rates meanwhile has run up the sterling exchange rate to where the import of gold offers no profit. The collapse in money rates clears up one of the darkest clouds on the financial horizon and is of vast sentimental influence in opposing of the depression recently hanging over the securities market. Large importance is also attached in the day's speculation to the report from Chicago that a settlement was imminent of the wage dispute of the Western Railroads. Southern Pacific's very strong showing of net earnings for February helped that stock and Union Pacific as well and this had a sympathetic effect on the whole market. The weakness in the London copper market was a favoring incident of the day. The late market showed the usual effect of profit-taking on so considerable a day's rise but the gains were quite well maintained. The bond market was active and very strong in response to the decline in money rates. Total sales, par value, $2,325,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

GENERAL EASTERN MARKET.
GRAIN AND PRODUCE.
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]
CHICAGO, April 4.—Showery weather in the Northwest caused weakness today in the wheat market. The May delivery closing at a net loss of 1c. The report of the Weather Bureau that rain had fallen last night throughout Kansas, Nebraska and Illinois, with the assurance that the additional rains will fall soon, on the heels of damage to the winter crops, helped weakened. The fact as a factual journal that the crop situation is progressing favorably strengthened it materially. Somewhat heavy by a market of country offerings. Weak cables and liberal receipts in the Southwest also aided in the break, although numerous gross buying orders, representing sentiment through the wire receiving, was bearish and the market went with prices almost at the bottom of the day. May wheat opened 1@1¼ lower at 79@79¾, sold off to 78½@ 78¾, rallied with a net loss of 1@1c at the close. The market was bearish and the corn market sympathized with wheat for the most part, although offering numerous gross buying orders represented

RUSSIA.

PROVE PLOT TO DISMISS HOUSE.

DOCUMENTS SHOW SCHEME TO DISSOLVE PARLIAMENT.

Circular Is Printed, Signed by Monarchical Member, Which Plans Crushing of Lower Lawmaking Body — Loyalist Demonstration Is Prepared to Follow Success of Conspiracy.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 4.—Documentary evidence of a plot on the part of the reactionary government supported by powerful influences at court, to cause the dissolution of the lower house of Parliament was printed today in the Reich, organ of the Constitutional Democrats, in the form of a circular signed by M. Puriakevich, a monarch member of the house from Bessarabia, and vice-president of the League of the Russian people, which was sent to all branches of the league.

This circular shows that the many telegrams to the Emperor now appearing in the reactionary organ, the Russian Banner, demanding the dissolution of the House, were sent by direct orders of the league's headquarters here. The date of the circular shows that the plot was conceived March 13, a week after the convocation of Parliament and was set in motion, March 27, by a prearranged signal, a mysterious black cross in the Russian banner, whose appearance coincided with the murder of Dr. Jollos.

The circular directed that, should the plot succeed, a Loyalist demonstration was to be organized upon the day of the dissolution of Parliament. The movement for a dissolution of the House has the full sympathy of the reactionary members of the Cabinet, and though no steps have yet been taken in that direction, the possibility of Parliament being dissolved is plainly foreseen.

SPEECH HURTS THEM.
PREPARE LENGTHY PROTEST.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 4.—In consequence of a speech made by M. Alexinsky, Social Democrat, containing a quotation from an article from the London Economist, attributing to the Russian government bad faith in dissolving the first Parliament and concluding loans without its consent, a score of Conservative members of the house withdrew from the Hall of Parliament this morning, and are drafting a protest, which is to be sent to Premier Stolypin, by a special deputation.

TROOPS FILL CAPITAL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 4.—Large bodies of troops, including dragoons and Cossacks, are coming into St. Petersburg, as they did previous to the dissolution of the first Parliament.

WHY SWEETENHAM QUIT.

"London Standard" Publishes Alleged First Account of Reasons Prompting Him.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, April 5.—The Standard today declares it is able to publish "for the first time" the circumstances leading to the resignation of Sir Alexander Sweetenham, as Governor of Jamaica.

The paper says that according to Sir Alexander's own statement, in a letter to an intimate friend, he resigned in consequence of a peremptory demand from the Colonial Office to apologize to Rear-Admiral Davis. To this Sir Alexander replied that if such a courtesy was really necessary, he would do so with pleasure, but that such a compulsory apology carried with it his resignation. Sir Alexander denied emphatically that there was any dispute between him and the American admiral at the time of the Kingston earthquake, saying:

"We were the best of friends during the whole time the admiral was here. He had the use of one of my private carriages and drove with my secretary."

The Standard said that this letter was written privately, as one friend might write to another, but it fell into the hands of a negro newspaper correspondent. If the documents referring to the resignation of Sir Alexander were published, the paper concludes, it would be found that the statement that he applied to be retired "on the ground of age" was entirely misleading.

VATICAN ISSUES STATEMENT.

Declares France Took Advantage of Letter to Insinuate Church Was Rebellious.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ROME, April 4.—The Vatican authorities today made a statement on the subject of Papal Secretary of State Merry del Val's letter to Mgr. Montagnini, dated August 12, 1906, encouraging Catholic demonstrations against the law providing for the separation of church and state.

The statement says the French government "took advantage of the letter to insinuate that Mgr. Montagnini's correspondence contained documents showing the Vatican had urged that tumultuous demonstrations be made against the taking of church inventories, especially by the anti-Republican parties."

The Vatican adds that the taking of inventories occurred between December, 1905, and January, 1906, while Cardinal Merry del Val's letter was written in the previous August, before the legal protests of the French Catholic clergy and laity against the separation of the church and state which at that time was merely a proposed legislative measure.

THE Dunkers are soon to hold a national convention in this city. The Times Magazine the coming Sunday will contain an article telling about these interesting people and their curious rites.
